Market Wipes Out Monday Loss

Buy Orders Overwhelm Ticker Tape

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carried its surging rally through a second straight session Thursday and more than recovered its crushing losses of earlier in the week.

A worldwide avalanche of buy orders kept the rally spinning after an interruption for the Memorial Day holiday.

The market resumed its Tuesday afternoon advance at a swift pace, losing only part of its momentum as profit-takers who bought on the slide Monday and Tuesday morning stepped in to cash their gains.

Brokers said the enthusiasm to buy had—at least for the time being—wiped out the panic that triggered the worst slump since 1929. But with profit-taking appearing, the trail ahead was unclear.

$7.9 Billion Added

An estimated $7.9 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. With Tuesday's gain of $12.9 billion, the two-day total of $20.8 billion exceeded Monday's $19.5 billion loss.

The Associated Press 60-stock average jumped 5.40 to 225.50, topping last Friday's close of 224.60.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a gain of 9.40 to 613.36, putting it ahead of the pre-plunge level of 611.88.

But these two averages were far below their 1962 highs-262.50 for the AP barometer on Feb. 15 and 726.01 for the Dow on Jan. 3.

Trading volume reached 10.71 million shares, down considerably from Tuesday's 14.75 million.

Blue Chips Advance

International Business Machines which at one stage was up $14, closed with a $9.50 gain at $392.50. American Telephone, another of the blue chips that had been badly pounded, advanced $4.75 to $113.25. Bethlehem Steel advanced $2.12 to $37.50, Du Pont $2.37 to $211.25 and Sears Roebuck $3.87 to $73.

The Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco also was flooded with buy orders and made a strong advance.

The high interest the market's gyrations have aroused was obvious when 6,425 visitors trooped through the gallery of the New York Stock Exchange. On a normal day the total is about 2,000.

Interest was sharp in Washington, too, where Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., asked Congress to approve a $750,000 congressional investigation of the market. The inquiry would be made by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Search For Train Crash Victims

Italian Train Crash Death Toll Set At 62

Freight Engineer Misses Stoplight; 70 Persons Hurt

VOGHERA, Italy (AP) — Officials quoted a freight train engineer as saying he had not seen a red stoplight before his 90-ton locomotive plowed into the rear of a standing passenger train, killing 62 Riviera-bound vacationists Thursday.

Eight hours after the crash, the engineer and his assistant turned themselves in to police who had issued a warrant for their arrest for questioning.

Police quoted them as saying they put on the emergency brake at the last moment and jumped from the locomotive.

The death toll might rise.

10 Critically Injured

There were 10 critically injured among 70 passengers hurt in the crash at the Voghera station, 30 miles south of Milan. The 15-coach train bound from Milan had stopped at Voghera in predawn darkness to pick up more passengers for a long weekend along the French-Italian Riviera frontier.

The train was so crowded passengers were standing in the aisles.

Two injured Swiss women were the only known foreigners among the casualties. Almost all the 700 passengers were Italians.

Station employes said they heard no sound indicating the freight had applied its brakes.

Officials said the freight should have been stopping in Voghera even if there had not been a red light to show that the track was blocked. The freight regularly changed engines in the Voghera yards.

One Coach Demolished

The freight locomotive, pulling 40 empty cement and gasoline tank cars, burst completely through the last passenger coach. The roof was ripped upward. The dead, dying and badly injured were smashed together in a tangle of bodies and steel.

Only the rear coach was badly wrecked. The car in front had relatively light damage and no dead. The other coaches were undamaged.

Station employes explained afterward why the toll had not gone far higher. They said the two freight cars behind the locomotive buckled up on end, jamming up against a concrete roof over the station tracks, and jerking the plunging locomotive to a halt.

Three Missionaries And Red Abductors Hunted In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese army forces Thursday probed the jungle 150 miles northeast of Saigon in an effort to run down a strong Communist guerrilla band which raided a leper camp and carried off three American missionaries.

The Viet Cong bend also carried off food and medicines seized in the raid, the U.S. Embassy said.

News of the Wednesday night kidnaping reached here when another missionary got to Ban Me Thuot, eight miles from the camp, and spread an alarm. Army units were sent in pursuit at once.

The raiders did not molest the 250 lepers nor nine other Americans at the camp, including four woman nurses and the wife and four children of one of the kidnaped missionaries. A. E. Mitchell, 44, Ellensburg, Wash.

The other two kidnaped missionaries were identified as Daniel Gerber, 21, of Dalton, Ohio, a Mennonite volunteer who worked as a maintenance man; and Dr Eleanor Ardel Vietti, 35, of Houston, Tex.

The Rev. Thomas G. Mangham, director of the Christian and Missionary Alliance which operates the leper camp, said this was the first time the Protestant organization had been molested by the Communists. The alliance has 113 missionaries scattered in South Viet Nam.

He said there was a good chance the three would be freed soon because the Vietnamese living in the area knew of their work and "it would be the worst kind of propaganda for the Viet Cong to harm these people."

The guerrillas blocked the road to the camp a few days ago, but the missionaries had felt no alarm. They believed the band was seeking to cut off a government resettlement camp.

Nazi Butcher Never Loses His Icy Calm

Bound Hand, Foot; Rejects Mask; Says 'Long Live Germany'

JERUSALEM, Friday (UPI) The body of Adolf Eichmann was cremated at 2:35 a. m. today. (10:35 p. m. Thursday EDT) and the ashes scattered from a police boat on the high seas, it was announced officially here.

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Friday (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann, the Nazi butcher responsible for the death of six million Jews, went to his death on the gallows shortly before midnight with a faint smile and the word "long live Germany" on his lips.

The thin-faced Eichmann who had carried out Adolf Hitler's extermination orders with icy efficiency, never lost the icy detachment that had marked his long trial and imprisonment.

"I send regards to my wife, my family and my friends," he said before he was led into a stuffy little room in Ramle Prison to drop to his death at end of a manila rope. "I tried to obey the laws of war and my flag. I am ready."

Prison officials offered him a black mask but he smiled faintly and said, "I do not need it."

Wearing a brown shirt open at the throat and slacks, he waited almost impatiently for the noose to be fixed in place and end a career of mass extermination that began when Hitler decided on his "final solution" to the Jewish problem.

Bound Hand And Foot

His hands tied behind his back with white cord and his knees and ankles bound together, Eichmann was hanged on a specially constructed scaffold with these last words:

"I lived believing in God and believing in God I die."

Before the trap was sprung he faced a small group of witnesses and said in German:

"Long live Germany! Long live Argentina! Long live Austria!

"These are the three countries with which I have been most associated and I shall never forget them. Remember me to my wife, family and friends."

Then as he stood at the trap door he told his executioners, "we shall all meet again. This is the fate of all men."

Eichmann had his last meal at 7 p.m.—the regular prison fare of peas, bread and olives. He asked for a bottle of wine and he drank half of it.

He had no last requests to make but when he was told about two letter he had received he asked to read them and his wish was granted.

Remained Self-Controlled

Eichmann walked calmly along the corridor to the gallows. He could not see the men who were actually to operate the levers springing the trap and he remained self-controlled, a man of quiet resignation.

Canadian missionary, the Rev. William Hull, his Protestant spiritual adviser, accompanied Eichmann on his last mile. "Jesus, Jesus," Hull whispered over and over to Eichmann and four correspondents assigned as witnesses.

Eichmann had been convicted of crimes against humanity and crimes against the Jewish people. His fate was sealed Thursday night when Israeli President Itzhak Ben-Zvi rejected his final appeal against the death sentence.

Rusk Deplores Soviet Attitude At Disarm Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk called on Russia Thursday to cooperate in getting the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference beyond the talking stage.

He described Russia as an "elusive pimpernel," or a shadowy figure difficult to pin down. He expressed disappointment over the Soviet attitude and the fact that the Geneva conference can point to no concrete progress when it reports to the United Nations Friday.

Other news conference developments:

—Rusk rejected Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's proposal of Wednesday for a world-wide trade organization. Rusk said the Soviet leader may be concerned about the growing vitality of the European Common Market. He said Western steps toward greater economic unity should not be interrupted by such "diversions."

—Answering a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that the administration has a "no-win" policy and that the word "victory" was struck out of a recent speech by a Pentaon officer, Rusk said those who make such charges should be prepared to propose alternatives to U. S. policies. The only alternatives he has heard so far, he said, boil down to choices between nuclear war or giving up and letting the Communist take over new areas.

—If outside powers would leave Laos alone, the Southeast Asian country would be able to solve its problems. An effective ceasefire is also necessary for negotiations to succeed.

—Rusk may make a trip to Europe later this month to continue talks he held during recent North Atlantic Treaty Organization meetings in Athens.

Water Line Break Moves Gladiolus

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I found my gladiolus under my living room rug. This morning they were out in the garden."

That was the way Mrs. Helen Mugavero of Baltimore described the havoc wrought Thursday by a ruptured, 42-inch water main that created a crater nine feet deep and 50 feet in diameter.

Mud and water levels in a few adjacent homes reached nine feet in the basements as the torrent hurled water, concrete and asphalt down a hill behind the homes in north Baltimore.

Robert Leaverton, superintendent of conservation for the Bureau of Water, said the cause of the break was not known.

High Altitude A-Blast Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will conduct the first of a series of high altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific Friday, touching off spectacular fireworks expected to be seen thousands of miles away.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Thursday that the near-space shot would be exploded over Johnston Island after dark about 9 p.m. local time. That would be 3 a.m. EDT, Saturday.

Like other tests to follow during June and July, the experiment is designed to help scientists study effects of the blast on the earth's magnetic field and the Van Allen radiation belts surrounding the planet. The effect on communications will be noted especially.

The first device will have the power of something less than a million tons of TNT. The AEC said it would be exploded at an altitude of "tens of kilometers. This was interpreted unofficialy as meaning about 30 miles. A kilometer is about three-fifths of a mile.

Nation's Labor Force Hits New High For May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said Thursday that a rise in employment to a record level for May, coupled with a new decline in unemployment, reflects continuing economic improvement.

The May figures showed, he said:

Employment — Up nearly 1.4 million to 68.2 million. This is about 500,000 more than was seasonally expected. It represents a gain of 1.5 million from May last year and is a million above the prior record for May set in 1960.

Unemployment — Declined by 227,000 to 3,719,000. The decrease was about what was expected but the idle total is down about a million from May 1961.

Labor Force—The rise in employment and decline in unemployment brought a net increase of nearly 1.1 million in the civilian labor force from the April total. This was about 300,000 more than was seasonally expected. The labor force is up 600,000 from a year earlier.

The substantial expansion in employment and modest decline in unemployment, brought the nation's seasonally adjusted jobless rate down from 5.5 per cent to 5.4 per cent of the work force. The rate a year ago was 7 per cent.

Seymour L. Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said at a news conference he expects the idle rate to continue to decline in the months ahead.

Wolfbein said that contrary to doubts about the nation's economic future that seemed inherent in the recent stock market decline, the mounting employment totals indicate business confidence.

"This represents decisions by businessmen — the storekeepers, factory superintendents and so on—to add to their payrolls," he said.

Wolfbein said the figures also show a capacity of the economy currently to absorb the natural growth in the work force and displacement of workers from jobs through automation while at the same time gradually reducing the residue of unemployment.

Two Suffocated In Soybean Bin

SALISBURY (AP)—State Police and rescue workers recovered late Thursday the bodies of two construction workers who suffocated after they were buried in a storage bin under tons of soybeans.

Police said the bin was emptied from the bottom in a normal manner after all efforts to save the two men failed. Earlier, rescuers had probed the bin for several hours with lumber in an attempt to locate them.

Police identified the men as Peerless Levin Townsend Jr., 20, of Salisbury, and Leon Francis Green, 22, of Delmar, Md. They were employed by the Gulf State Construction Co. of Atlanta, Ga., which was building a 250,000-bushel storage bin for A. W. Perdue and Son, Inc.

Police said the men were standing in the bin, which was about one-fourth full of soybeans, when a conveyor belt sucked the beans from the bottom of the 90 by 40-foot structure causing a cave-in, police said, and Townsend and Green were buried in soybeans.

The men had been standing in the bin, police said, to make sure no fire was caused by sparks from a welder who was working on top.

Administration Stands By Rosy Economic View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon pictured the Kennedy administration Thursday as standing pat on its rosy assessment of the nation's fiscal outlook despite some recent economic slowdowns.

Dillon, facing a barrage of questions as he urged the House Ways and Means Committee to approve an $8-billion rise in the national debt ceiling, made these points:

The administration is not backing the suggestion made by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges durinng the stock market dive that the planned overhaul of taxes be speeded up to provide a quick income tax cut this year.

A balanced budget is expected during the fiscal year that starts next July 1, but the economy will have to step up its recovery—and can—to make up for a disappointing first quarter of 1962.

A deficit of $7 billion for the current fiscal year still is forecast.

Dillon said that one reason last January's forecast still stands is that Congress still has not acted on several bills involving finances.

The debt limit now is $300 billion, equal to the all-time high of World War II. Dillon said the extra $8 billion is needed to provide at least a $3-billion margin above the debt to cover unforeseen developments and permit flexibility in managing government finances.

Attorney General Takes Action Against 10 Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy formally requested a government agency Thursday to label 10 persons as Communists and order them to register under the 1950 Internal Security Act.

Kennedy took the step in a petition to the Subversive Activities Control Board, saying the 10 were elected to the National Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., in December 1959.

He identified them in separate petitions as:

Betty Gannett Tormey, 55, and William Albertson, 52, both of Brooklyn, members of the New York party committee and board.

Arnold Samuel Johnson, 57, national legislative director of the party in March 1962; Miriam Friedlander, 48, New York party committee member, and Louis Weinstock, 59, New York party committee and board member, all of New York.

Also Albert J. Lima, 54, Oakland, Calif., chairman of the party's Northern California district; Roscoe Quincy Proctor, 41, Berkeley, Calif., former member of the Northern California district committee; Dorothy Healey, 47, Los Angeles, Southern California district chairman; and Burt Gale Nelson, 52, of Seattle, northwest district chairman.

The party as an organization was indicted Dec. 1 on 12 counts charging failure to register with the attorney general as a Communist-action organization.

Gus Hall, 51, and Benjamin J. Davis, 58, were indicted March 15 on charges of failing to register as the party's general secretary and national secretary, respectively.

Red China Refugees Pouring Into Macao

HONG KONG (UPI)—Refugees from Communist China fled to the Portuguese enclave of Macao Wednesday in record numbers and a Hong Kong newspaper charged Thursday they were making their way illegally to this British colony.

(Peiping radio broadcasts monitored in Tokyo told of new floods to add to the crop-destroying droughts and storms that have crippled Chinese agriculture for the past three years. The food shortage in China is believed directly responsible for the refugee exodus.)

Macao authorities said 174 Chinese arrived Wednesday.

Two Boys Perish In Old Mine Shafts

GHOST PINE CREEK, Alta (AP)—Officials theorized Thursday that 4-year-old Kenny Kowalchuk was suffocated by a trickle of loose earth that slowly buried him after his fall into an abandoned mine shaft.

Rescue workers found the body Wednesday night, 34 hours after he tumbled into the shaft, 100 yards from his farm house. The body was caught between the steps of a mine ladder 54 feet below the surface, with his head buried in loose earth. He also had broken bones.

In a similar tragedy, the lifeless body of 12-year-old Kenneth Shickley Jr., of Shamokin, Pa., was recovered from a 550-foot mine Wednesday.

Algiers Has Holiday From Terror Killings

ALGIERS (UPI) — The bullet-pocked city of Algiers enjoyed a holiday from death Thursday, with no terrorist killings reported in 24 hours.

Relieved Europeans flocked to sun-drenched beaches. Moslems ventured into the European section in considerable numbers for the first time in weeks.

White House 'Newspaper Bootlegging' Forecast After Herald Tribune Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—A columnist predicted Thursday there may be some "newspaper bootlegging" in the White House as a result of President Kennedy's action in cutting off subscriptions to the New York Herald Tribune.

Roscoe Drummond, nationally syndicated columnist for the Herald Tribune, said:

"It seems to me the action reflects more on the President than on the paper. I foresee a considerable bootleg trade in the paper in the White House."

Kennedy's aides, Drummond said, need the paper to keep informed and will get to read it one way or the other.

Kennedy is known to react, sometimes hotly, to newspaper articles critical of him, but his press secretary denied that criticism in the Republican-inclined Herald Tribune was the reason for cancelling 22 White House subscriptions to the newspaper.

The secretary, Pierre Salinger, said the action was taken to diversify reading in the White House, not because of any argument with the newspaper's editorial policy.

Kennedy's order did not appear to extend beyond the White House. For example, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was still getting his Herald Tribune Thursday; so were Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high officials. And the United States Information Agency said it had no plans to drop any of its 94 subscriptions.

There was no sign that the President, no matter how annoyed he may or may not be with the paper, would cut off his close relations with Herald Tribune reporter Rowland Evans Jr.

Evans got into the news Feb. 6, 1961 when the newly inaugurated President and the First Lady went to dinner at the Evans home in Georgetown. The presidential party was preceded by snow removal trucks which cleared the street in front of the newsman's residence.

Evans had no comment Thursday on the White House cancellation of subscriptions. Also silent was his wife, Katherine, socially prominent daughter of Minneapolis lumberman David J. Winton. Mrs. Evans is herself a writer for the Herald Tribune, doing occasional light features.

There was no comment from Robert J. Donovan, chief of the Washington bureau of the Herald Tribune. Donovan is author of "PT109 — John F. Kennedy in World War II." This account of Kennedy's heroic exploits has been translated into 15 languages and is soon to be made into a multi-million dollar movie.

—Answering a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that the administration has a "no-win" policy and that the word "victory" was struck out of a recent speech by a Pentaon officer, Rusk said those who make such charges should be prepared to propose alternatives to U. S. policies. The only alternatives he has heard so far, he said, boil down to choices between nuclear war or giving up and letting the Communist take over new areas.

—If outside powers would leave Laos alone, the Southeast Asian country would be able to solve its problems. An effective cease-fire is also necessary for negotiations to succeed.

—Rusk may make a trip to Europe later this month to continue talks he held during recent North Atlantic Treaty Organization meetings in Athens.

Water Line Break Moves Gladiolus

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I found my gladiolus under my living room rug. This morning they were out in the garden."

That was the way Mrs. Helen Mugavero of Baltimore described the havoc wrought Thursday by a ruptured, 42-inch water main that created a crater nine feet deep and 50 feet in diameter.

Mud and water levels in a few adjacent homes reached nine feet in the basements as the torrent hurled water, concrete and asphalt down a hill behind the homes in north Baltimore.

Robert Leaverton, superintendent of conservation for the Bureau of Water, said the cause of the break was not known.

High Altitude A-Blast Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will conduct the first of a series of high altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific Friday, touching off spectacular fireworks expected to be seen thousands of miles away.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Thursday that the near-space shot would be exploded over Johnston Island after dark about 9 p.m. local time. That would be 3 a.m. EDT, Saturday.

Like other tests to follow during June and July, the experiment is designed to help scientists study effects of the blast on the earth's magnetic field and the Van Allen radiation belts surrounding the planet. The effect on communications will be noted especially.

The first device will have the power of something less than a million tons of TNT. The AEC said it would be exploded at an altitude of "tens of kilometers. This was interpreted unofficialy as meaning about 30 miles. A kilometer is about three-fifths of a mile.

Nation's Labor Force Hits New High For May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said Thursday that a rise in employment to a record level for May, coupled with a new decline in unemployment, reflects continuing economic improvement.

The May figures showed, he said:

Employment — Up nearly 1.4 million to 68.2 million. This is about 500,000 more than was seasonally expected. It represents a gain of 1.5 million from May last year and is a million above the prior record for May set in 1960.

Unemployment — Declined by 227,000 to 3,719,000. The decrease was about what was expected but the idle total is down about a million from May 1961.

Labor Force—The rise in employment and decline in unemployment brought a net increase of nearly 1.1 million in the civilian labor force from the April total. This was about 300,000 more than was seasonally expected. The labor force is up 600,000 from a year earlier.

The substantial expansion in employment and modest decline in unemployment, brought the nation's seasonally adjusted jobless rate down from 5.5 per cent to 5.4 per cent of the work force. The rate a year ago was 7 per cent.

Seymour L. Wolfbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said at a news conference he expects the idle rate to continue to decline in the months ahead.

Wolfbein said that contrary to doubts about the nation's economic future that seemed inherent in the recent stock market decline, the mounting employment totals indicate business confidence.

"This represents decisions by businessmen — the storekeepers, factory superintendents and so on—to add to their payrolls," he said.

Wolfbein said the figures also show a capacity of the economy currently to absorb the natural growth in the work force and displacement of workers from jobs through automation while at the same time gradually reducing the residue of unemployment.

Three Missionaries And Red Abductors Hunted In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese army forces Thursday probed the jungle 150 miles northeast of Saigon in an effort to run down a strong Communist guerrilla band which raided a leper camp and carried off three American missionaries.

The Viet Cong bend also carried off food and medicines seized in the raid, the U.S. Embassy said.

News of the Wednesday night kidnaping reached here when another missionary got to Ban Me Thuot, eight miles from the camp, and spread an alarm. Army units were sent in pursuit at once.

The raiders did not molest the 250 lepers nor nine other Americans at the camp, including four woman nurses and the wife and four children of one of the kidnaped missionaries. A. E. Mitchell, 44, Ellensburg, Wash.

The other two kidnaped missionaries were identified as Daniel Gerber, 21, of Dalton, Ohio, a Mennonite volunteer who worked as a maintenance man; and Dr. Eleanor Ardel Vietti, 35, of Houston, Tex.

The Rev. Thomas G. Mangham, director of the Christian and Missionary Alliance which operates the leper camp, said this was the first time the Protestant organization had been molested by the Communists. The alliance has 113 missionaries scattered in South Viet Nam.

He said there was a good chance the three would be freed soon because the Vietnamese living in the area knew of their work and "it would be the worst kind of propaganda for the Viet Cong to harm these people."

The guerrillas blocked the road to the camp a few days ago, but the missionaries had felt no alarm. They believed the band was seeking to cut off a government resettlement camp.

Administration Stands By Rosy Economic View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon pictured the Kennedy administration Thursday as standing pat on its rosy assessment of the nation's fiscal outlook despite some recent economic slowdowns.

Dillon, facing a barrage of questions as he urged the House Ways and Means Committee to approve an $8-billion rise in the national debt ceiling, made these points:

The administration is not backing the suggestion made by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges durinng the stock market dive that the planned overhaul of taxes be speeded up to provide a quick income tax cut this year.

A balanced budget is expected during the fiscal year that starts next July 1, but the economy will have to step up its recovery—and can—to make up for a disappointing first quarter of 1962.

A deficit of $7 billion for the current fiscal year still is forecast.

Dillon said that one reason last January's forecast still stands is that Congress still has not acted on several bills involving finances.

The debt limit now is $300 billion, equal to the all-time high of World War II. Dillon said the extra $8 billion is needed to provide at least a $3-billion margin above the debt to cover unforeseen developments and permit flexibility in managing government finances.

Two Suffocated In Soybean Bin

SALISBURY (AP)—State Police and rescue workers recovered late Thursday the bodies of two construction workers who suffocated after they were buried in a storage bin under tons of soybeans.

Police said the bin was emptied from the bottom in a normal manner after all efforts to save the two men failed. Earlier, rescuers had probed the bin for several hours with lumber in an attempt to locate them.

Police identified the men as Peerless Levin Townsend Jr., 20, of Salisbury, and Leon Francis Green, 22, of Delmar, Md. They were employed by the Gulf State Construction Co. of Atlanta, Ga., which was building a 250,000-bushel storage bin for A. W. Perdue and Son, Inc.

Police said the men were standing in the bin, which was about one-fourth full of soybeans, when a conveyor belt sucked the beans from the bottom of the 90 by 40-foot structure causing a cave-in, police said, and Townsend and Green were buried in soybeans.

The men had been standing in the bin, police said, to make sure no fire was caused by sparks from a welder who was working on top.

Algiers Has Holiday From Terror Killings

ALGIERS (UPI) — The bullet-pocked city of Algiers enjoyed a holiday from death Thursday, with no terrorist killings reported in 24 hours.

Relieved Europeans flocked to sun-drenched beaches. Moslems ventured into the European section in considerable numbers for the first time in weeks.

Attorney General Takes Action Against 10 Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy formally requested a government agency Thursday to label 10 persons as Communists and order them to register under the 1950 Internal Security Act.

Kennedy took the step in a petition to the Subversive Activities Control Board, saying the 10 were elected to the National Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., in December 1959.

He identified them in separate petitions as:

Arnold Samuel Johnson, 57, national legislative director of the party in March 1962; Miriam Friedlander, 48, New York party committee member, and Louis Weinstock, 59, New York party committee and board member, all of New York.

Also Albert J. Lima, 54, Oakland, Calif., chairman of the party's Northern California district; Roscoe Quincy Proctor, 41, Berkeley, Calif., former member of the Northern California district committee; Dorothy Healey, 47, Los Angeles, Southern California district chairman; and Burt Gale Nelson, 52, of Seattle, northwest district chairman.

The party as an organization was indicted Dec. 1 on 12 counts charging failure to register with the attorney general as a Communist-action organization.

Gus Hall, 51, and Benjamin J. Davis, 58, were indicted March 15 on charges of failing to register as the party's general secretary and national secretary, respectively.

Red China Refugees Pouring Into Macao

HONG KONG (UPI)—Refugees from Communist China fled to the Portuguese enclave of Macao Wednesday in record numbers and a Hong Kong newspaper charged Thursday they were making their way illegally to this British colony.

(Peiping radio broadcasts monitored in Tokyo told of new floods to add to the crop-destroying droughts and storms that have crippled Chinese agriculture for the past three years. The food shortage in China is believed directly responsible for the refugee exodus.)

Macao authorities said 174 Chinese arrived Wednesday.

Two Boys Perish In Old Mine Shafts

GHOST PINE CREEK, Alta (AP)—Officials theorized Thursday that 4-year-old Kenny Kowalchuk was suffocated by a trickle of loose earth that slowly buried him after his fall into an abandoned mine shaft.

Rescue workers found the body Wednesday night, 34 hours after he tumbled into the shaft, 100 yards from his farm house. The body was caught between the steps of a mine ladder 54 feet below the surface, with his head buried in loose earth. He also had broken bones.

In a similar tragedy, the lifeless body of 12-year-old Kenneth Shickley Jr., of Shamokin, Pa., was recovered from a 550-foot mine Wednesday.

White House 'Newspaper Bootlegging' Forecast After Herald Tribune Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—A columnist predicted Thursday there may be some "newspaper bootlegging" in the White House as a result of President Kennedy's action in cutting off subscriptions to the New York Herald Tribune.

Roscoe Drummond, nationally syndicated columnist for the Herald Tribune, said:

"It seems to me the action reflects more on the President than on the paper. I foresee a considerable bootleg trade in the paper in the White House."

Kennedy's aides, Drummond said, need the paper to keep informed and will get to read it one way or the other.

Kennedy is known to react, sometimes hotly, to newspaper articles critical of him, but his press secretary denied that criticism in the Republican-inclined Herald Tribune was the reason for cancelling 22 White House subscriptions to the newspaper.

The secretary, Pierre Salinger, said the action was taken to diversify reading in the White House, not because of any argument with the newspaper's editorial policy.

Kennedy's order did not appear to extend beyond the White House. For example, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was still getting his Herald Tribune Thursday; so were Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high officials. And the United States Information Agency said it had no plans to drop any of its 94 subscriptions.

There was no sign that the President, no matter how annoyed he may or may not be with the paper, would cut off his close relations with Herald Tribune reporter Rowland Evans Jr.

Evans got into the news Feb. 6, 1961 when the newly inaugurated President and the First Lady went to dinner at the Evans home in Georgetown. The presidential party was preceded by snow removal trucks which cleared the street in front of the newsman's residence.

Evans had no comment Thursday on the White House cancellation of subscriptions. Also silent was his wife, Katherine, socially prominent daughter of Minneapolis lumberman David J. Winton. Mrs. Evans is herself a writer for the Herald Tribune, doing occasional light features.

There was no comment from Robert J. Donovan, chief of the Washington bureau of the Herald Tribune. Donovan is author of "PT109 — John F. Kennedy in World War II." This account of Kennedy's heroic exploits has been translated into 15 languages and is soon to be made into a multi-million dollar movie.

Goodman's Music Lures Muscovites Into Aisles

MOSCOW (AP)—Benny Goodman's band jazzed up the Cossack song "Meadowlands" Thursday night and lured a swinging crowd of young Muscovites into the aisles. Their persistent, whistling ovation brought the band back for 25 minutes of encores.

The audience of 5,000 was younger, more carefree and more enthusiastic than the crowd of Communist elite, including Premier Khrushchev, at Wednesday night's opening concert.

With the swing rendition of "Meadowlands" the audience broke into the aisles for the first time and started marching toward the stage. A few firm-handed volunteer police with red arm bands kept them in control.

In the audience was the controversial Soviet poet Evgeny Yevtushenko who had just returned from London where he had heard a lot of Western style music.

The standout of the night was vocalist Joya Sherrill, who attracted the attention of Khrushchev Wednesday night. She sang the Russian song Katusha in Russian with a heavy accent.

The audience seemed less restrained, perhaps because there was no Communist brass on hand. And possibly the reason for the enthusiasm was that Khrushchev, by his presence, had taken American jazz off the Communist index and made it almost respectable in the Soviet Union.

Earlier Goodman said he had planned to bring a long-hair U.S. pianist into his tour in Leningrad June 20 to give the Russians a new slant on Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue.

The Gershwin tune has been known in the Soviet Union for a long time, but generally has been rendered by the usual classical orchestra based mainly on strings. Goodman's band has no strings at all unless it is an electric guitar — and a base viol which is plucked.

The Leningrad concert will feature young classical pianist Byron Janis of New York at the keyboard. Janis has been playing to sellout houses ever since his first Moscow concert early this month.

Goodman also played to a sellout house Wednesday night for his opening concert and Premier Khrushchev showed up with his wife and the top members of the Presidium to hear the music.

Judd Changes Mind, Will Be Candidate

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Rep. Walter H. Judd, R-Minn., changed his mind about retiring and said Thursday he will be a candidate for an 11th term from Minnesota's 5th District — Minneapolis.

Judd, 63, jolted Republicans April 9 when he told the district GOP convention that planned to quit. He said at that time he felt he might be more useful speaking to the nation's colleges and universities on Americanism.

In a statement Thursday Judd said he had not recognized or properly evaluated certain factors which have now compelled him to change his mind.

Some 5,000 messages urging him to run again have poured into his offices here and in Washington, he said.

His November opponent likely will be State Sen. Donald Fraser, 38, Minneapolis attorney who is unopposed for the nomination in the Democratic-Farmer Labor Primary.

Lightning Sets Off Dynamite, Killing Worker

GREAT FALLS, Va. (AP)—One man was killed and six other workers injured Thursday when lightning touched off a dynamite blast at the Virginia end of 35-mile long Potomac interceptor sewer.

Pronounced dead at the scene near the Great Falls of the Potomac River was Paul Russell. His age and home address were not immediately available.

The injured men were taken to hospitals in Fairfax and Arlington. All were reported in fair condition.

Construction officials said first reports indicated a lightning bolt ignited the explosive as it was being unloaded near the mouth of a tunnel being blasted through the Potomac River bluff.

The tunnel bores for 9,000 feet under the bluff on both sides of the river and runs for 3,100 feet under the bed of the river.

James H. Burroughs, 37, Heaters, W. Va.; Paul G. Payne, 26, Round Hill, Va.; Rondal Davis, 38, Flatwoods, W. Va.; Donald Cochran, Summersville, W. Va., and Carl Tomlin, 32, and Raymond Riggleman, both of Bluemont, W. Va.

Riggleman said he had just finished taking down lights inside the tunnel when the explosion occurred some 75 feet away.

S&L Firm Receiver Asked; Assets Frozen

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Law Department asked Thursday for appointment of a receiver for First Union Savings and Loan Association in an order freezing the firm's assets.

Judge John E. Raine signed the order in Baltimore County Circuit Court pending a hearing which has not been scheduled. The state also asked that the association's charter be forfeited.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and two aides claimed First Union was insolvent and had sustained a loss of $328,000 instead of the profit it claimed on its balance sheet. The association has three offices in the metropolitan Baltimore area.

Mental Tests Sought For Accused Slayers

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The state will seek psychiatric examinations of two Philadelphia youths accused of the bloody slaying of Jack E. Cochrane, 48, a Washington lawyer, in his Arlington apartment April 29.

Commonwealth Attorney William Hassan said Thursday he would ask a court order for the examinations. He disclosed the move after both defendants, Andrew Staffieri, 20, and Andrew Richmond, 17, waived preliminary hearings in County Court and were ordered held for action of a special grand jury June 11.

then and the execution went with clocklike precision.

As they moved him up to the trap to take his life they stepped forward and bound his hands and knees and ankles with white cord.

"I can't stand like this," Eichmann said to his guards.

An officer gave an order not to tie the knots too tightly.

Eichmann, 57, born in Austria, served Germany with a fanaticism that cost him his life. He fled to Argentina after the war where he was kidnaped by Jewis agents and returned to Israel to become the first man hanged in its history for murder.

As Eichmann stood in the small room—12 feet by 10 feet—on the third floor of the prison fortress—the Reverend Hull explained to Eichmann that under his faith he needed to repent in order to be saved. Eichmann did not react.

The former SS lieutenant colonel refused even to read the Bible. When he looked at Hull he said, "you look sad" and the Canadian replied, "I am sad." Eichmann again smiled and said, "I am not sad."

At the last, Hull said, Eichmann was slightly defiant. It was then he said, "I have peace in my heart. I am ready to die. I am taking this quietly because I know I was correct (in following orders)."

There was a brief pause before the trap was sprung and Eichmann asked permission to blow his nose. Hull at the time was pleading with him to repent but Eichmann refused.

"I lived believing in God and believing in God I die," he said.

Dixieland Jazz Band Struts Its Stuff In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—The happy sound of "When the Saints Go Marching In" wafted across the White House lawn Thursday as the nation's capital got a look at an old-time New Orleans marching band.

The Eureka Brass Band, performing for the first time outside New Orleans, strutted down Pennsylvania Avenue to open the first International Jazz Festival.

Crowds trailed along the sidewalks after the band, which has been playing for parades, funerals and such in New Orleans for half a century. Some of the spectators shocked jazz purists by dancing the twist to the venerable Dixieland strains.

Thursday night, staid Constitution Hall—home of the Daughters of the American Revolution—was the scene of a joint concert of symphonic jazz by the National Symphony Orchestra and Duke Ellington's band.

Artistically, the festival began Wednesday night with the unveiling of a jazz ballet by Lee Becker's Jazz Ballet Theater. The ballet was repeated Thursday and will be given twice more before the festival ends Sunday night.

But for old-fashioned jazz lovers, the proper beginning for a jazz festival is in New Orleans, or at least with something from New Orleans. The Eureka Brass Band meets this requirement precisely.

The band features two venerable trombone players, Albert Warner, 74, and Oscar (Chicken) Henry, 77. On its trip here the group has a drummer who has a band of his own, Paul Barbarin. He is filling in for the regular snare drummer, who has a broken wrist.

200 Accidental Deaths Memorial Day Record

By The Associated Press

Traffic	106
Boating	9
Drowning	38
Miscellaneous	47
Totals	200

Two hundred Memorial Day accident deaths throughout the nation set a record for a one-day observance of the holiday.

The Associated Press counted 106 traffic deaths, only three fewer than the record 109 established during the 1956 Memorial Day period when it also was a one-day holiday.

The previous over-all fatality record for accidents also was set in the 1956 observance when 174 persons were killed.

In this year's holiday, 38 persons drowned, 9 died in boating accidents in which drowning either was not involved or resulted from boat mishap, and 47 were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

The miscellaneous category included four light plane crashes Wednesday in which 13 persons lost their lives. Also included in this category were deaths of five members of one family—four of them small children—in a fire which destroyed their home near Fort Dodge, Iowa, Wednesday night.

The National Safety Council announced the traffic death toll as 109. The council however, makes no actual count of the dead. It said it based its figure on an average derived from accident reports.

Howard Pyle, safety council president, said this year's Memorial Day traffic death reflected a substantially lower death rate than the record 1956 holiday on the basis of mileage driven. The council gave this year's Memorial Day fatality rate as 5.9 deaths for every 100 million miles traveled. That of the 1956 holiday, it said, was 7.5.

Two Men Indicted On Bookie Charges

BALTIMORE (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted two Baltimore men on bookmaking charges Thursday.

Internal Revenue Service agents arrested George J. Bluso, 41, and David Miller, 35, last Sept. 28 in a raid on an apartment house near downtown Baltimore, which climaxed a six-month undercover investigation.

"This was the largest operation uncovered by the Internal Revenue Service in Maryland," said Asst. U. S. Atty. J. Hardin Marion III. "It also is the first time in the Maryland Federal Court that a felony indictment has been handed up for violation of the gambling tax stamp law."

Specifically, the seven counts of the indictments listing 84 overt acts accused Bluso and Miller of evading the tax on $365,949 collected in bets last September. At the time of the raid, IRS agents said the operation was grossing about $40,000 a day.

Ex-Sen. Ashurst Of Arizona Dies At 87

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fabulous, florid political era has ended. Former Sen. Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona, last of the great, oratorical freewheelers, died Thursday at 87.

Ashurst suffered a stroke May 16, but until then this magnificent voice—the voice that stirred, amused and angered so many—remained in booming fettle.

"Five-syllable Henry," he called himself. And for 29 years, from 1912 to 1941, he drenched the Senate with rococo words rarely found nowadays except in unabridged dictionaries.

Ironically, this man who in real life was rarely caught either napping or keeping quiet had as his last job the role of a dozing senator in the motion picture, "Advise and Consent."

Even Ashurst's birth, on Sept. 13, 1874, in a wagon while his parents were hurrying West, dramatized his ties with a bygone age.

At 13, Ashurst parted with formal schooling, but he continued to read industriously, especially his beloved Shakespeare. He worked as a cowboy, and there in the wide open spaces young Henry practiced wide open oratory on startled jackrabbits and coyotes.

"I could throw 56-pound words clear across the Grand Canyon," Ashurst later recalled with his disarming immodesty. "As a matter of course, I went into politics."

As a matter of course, anyone who can throw words like that goes into the Senate. When Arizona became a state, Ashurst was named one of its first two senators.

Ashurst, a Democrat, rose to the chairmanship of the important Senate Judiciary Committee, in charge of some of the Franklin D. Roosevelt New Deal's most controversial legislation. Yet it was his windblown oratory—peppered with a delightful inconsistency—that is best remembered today.

Mental Tests Sought For Accused Slayers

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The state will seek psychiatric examinations of two Philadelphia youths accused of the bloody slaying of Jack E. Cochrane, 48, a Washington lawyer, in his Arlington apartment April 29.

Commonwealth Attorney William Hassan said Thursday he would ask a court order for the examinations. He disclosed the move after both defendants, Andrew Staffieri, 20, and Andrew Richmond, 17, waived preliminary hearings in County Court and were ordered held for action of a special grand jury June 11.

then and the execution went with clocklike precision.

As they moved him up to the trap to take his life they stepped forward and bound his hands and knees and ankles with white cord.

"I can't stand like this," Eichmann said to his guards.

An officer gave an order not to tie the knots too tightly.

Eichmann, 57, born in Austria, served Germany with a fanaticism that cost him his life. He fled to Argentina after the war where he was kidnaped by Jewis agents and returned to Israel to become the first man hanged in its history for murder.

As Eichmann stood in the small room—12 feet by 10 feet—on the third floor of the prison fortress—the Reverend Hull explained to Eichmann that under his faith he needed to repent in order to be saved. Eichmann did not react.

The former SS lieutenant colonel refused even to read the Bible. When he looked at Hull he said, "you look sad" and the Canadian replied, "I am sad." Eichmann again smiled and said, "I am not sad."

At the last, Hull said, Eichmann was slightly defiant. It was then he said, "I have peace in my heart. I am ready to die. I am taking this quietly because I know I was correct (in following orders)."

There was a brief pause before the trap was sprung and Eichmann asked permission to blow his nose. Hull at the time was pleading with him to repent but Eichmann refused.

"I lived believing in God and believing in God I die," he said.

Dixieland Jazz Band Struts Its Stuff In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—The happy sound of "When the Saints Go Marching In" wafted across the White House lawn Thursday as the nation's capital got a look at an old-time New Orleans marching band.

The Eureka Brass Band, performing for the first time outside New Orleans, strutted down Pennsylvania Avenue to open the first International Jazz Festival.

Crowds trailed along the sidewalks after the band, which has been playing for parades, funerals and such in New Orleans for half a century. Some of the spectators shocked jazz purists by dancing the twist to the venerable Dixieland strains.

Thursday night, staid Constitution Hall—home of the Daughters of the American Revolution—was the scene of a joint concert of symphonic jazz by the National Symphony Orchestra and Duke Ellington's band.

Artistically, the festival began Wednesday night with the unveiling of a jazz ballet by Lee Becker's Jazz Ballet Theater. The ballet was repeated Thursday and will be given twice more before the festival ends Sunday night.

But for old-fashioned jazz lovers, the proper beginning for a jazz festival is in New Orleans, or at least with something from New Orleans. The Eureka Brass Band meets this requirement precisely.

The band features two venerable trombone players, Albert Warner, 74, and Oscar (Chicken) Henry, 77. On its trip here the group has a drummer who has a band of his own, Paul Barbarin. He is filling in for the regular snare drummer, who has a broken wrist.

200 Accidental Deaths Memorial Day Record

By The Associated Press

Traffic	106
Boating	9
Drowning	38
Miscellaneous	47
Totals	200

Two hundred Memorial Day accident deaths throughout the nation set a record for a one-day observance of the holiday.

The Associated Press counted 106 traffic deaths, only three fewer than the record 109 established during the 1956 Memorial Day period when it also was a one-day holiday.

The previous over-all fatality record for accidents also was set in the 1956 observance when 174 persons were killed.

In this year's holiday, 38 persons drowned, 9 died in boating accidents in which drowning either was not involved or resulted from boat mishap, and 47 were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

The miscellaneous category included four light plane crashes Wednesday in which 13 persons lost their lives. Also included in this category were deaths of five members of one family—four of them small children—in a fire which destroyed their home near Fort Dodge, Iowa, Wednesday night.

The National Safety Council announced the traffic death toll as 109. The council however, makes no actual count of the dead. It said it based its figure on an average derived from accident reports.

Howard Pyle, safety council president, said this year's Memorial Day traffic death reflected a substantially lower death rate than the record 1956 holiday on the basis of mileage driven. The council gave this year's Memorial Day fatality rate as 5.9 deaths for every 100 million miles traveled. That of the 1956 holiday, it said, was 7.5.

Two Men Indicted On Bookie Charges

BALTIMORE (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted two Baltimore men on bookmaking charges Thursday.

Internal Revenue Service agents arrested George J. Bluso, 41, and David Miller, 35, last Sept. 28 in a raid on an apartment house near downtown Baltimore, which climaxed a six-month undercover investigation.

"This was the largest operation uncovered by the Internal Revenue Service in Maryland," said Asst. U. S. Atty. J. Hardin Marion III. "It also is the first time in the Maryland Federal Court that a felony indictment has been handed up for violation of the gambling tax stamp law."

Specifically, the seven counts of the indictments listing 84 overt acts accused Bluso and Miller of evading the tax on $365,949 collected in bets last September. At the time of the raid, IRS agents said the operation was grossing about $40,000 a day.

Ex-Sen. Ashurst Of Arizona Dies At 87

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fabulous, florid political era has ended. Former Sen. Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona, last of the great, oratorical freewheelers, died Thursday at 87.

Ashurst suffered a stroke May 16, but until then this magnificent voice—the voice that stirred, amused and angered so many—remained in booming fettle.

"Five-syllable Henry," he called himself. And for 29 years, from 1912 to 1941, he drenched the Senate with rococo words rarely found nowadays except in unabridged dictionaries.

Ironically, this man who in real life was rarely caught either napping or keeping quiet had as his last job the role of a dozing senator in the motion picture, "Advise and Consent."

Even Ashurst's birth, on Sept. 13, 1874, in a wagon while his parents were hurrying West, dramatized his ties with a bygone age.

At 13, Ashurst parted with formal schooling, but he continued to read industriously, especially his beloved Shakespeare. He worked as a cowboy, and there in the wide open spaces young Henry practiced wide open oratory on startled jackrabbits and coyotes.

"I could throw 56-pound words clear across the Grand Canyon," Ashurst later recalled with his disarming immodesty. "As a matter of course, I went into politics."

As a matter of course, anyone who can throw words like that goes into the Senate. When Arizona became a state, Ashurst was named one of its first two senators.

Ashurst, a Democrat, rose to the chairmanship of the important Senate Judiciary Committee, in charge of some of the Franklin D. Roosevelt New Deal's most controversial legislation. Yet it was his windblown oratory—peppered with a delightful inconsistency—that is best remembered today.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The picnic season pops into bloom officially Tuesday.

Uninvited guests include ants. Give them the brushoff. Don't get too much sun. Please don't sit on the poison ivy.

Most of all—Don't pack the ingredients for food poisoning into the basket of picnic victuals.

The super bugs that cramp the innards and upset the stomach can be seen with a microscope. But who can tote a microscope to a picnic—to make sure the food's not contaminated?

You can do the next best thing, however, follow a few common sense tips recommended by a Public Health Service (PHS) expert.

The tips, from Dr. Keith H. Lewis, chief of milk and food research at the PHS Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati, Ohio, include the following:

—Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Food poisoning organisms grow only within a temperature range of between approximately 40 degrees and 120 degrees. Prevent their growth by limiting the time foods are kept within this range and you will prevent most foodborne illness.

—Foods kept in a basket in the trunk of a car on a hot day present circumstances ideally suited for bacterial growth. To keep the microscopic bugs from having a picnic at your expense, pack perishables in insulated containers.

—If you use dry ice, put it in a container either unsealed or made of porous material from which the gas can escape as rapidly as it is released. In a tightly sealed container it can create dangerous gas pressures causing the container to rupture or the lid to blow off, injuring persons nearby.

—Large batches of food take a long time to cool. A batch of potato salad prepared at room temperature and then placed in an already overloaded refrgierator will take many hours to cool. The food may feel cool to the touch, but the core still may be warm enough to promote bacterial growth.

—Mixtures containing a variety of ingredients and subject to considerable handling present special risks. Egg dishes are one example. A freshly hardboiled egg is an almost riskless picnic food. Most bacteria dies in the boiling. And the shell and membrane of the egg help to prevent post-cooking contamination.

—Cream fillings, unfrozen ice cream mix and chicken a la king are risky mixtures. So are combinations containing milk, eggs, meat, poultry or fish with sugar and cereal products.

Aluminum is one of the most abundant elements in the earth's crust. It is exceeded only by oxygen and silicon.

Charge Against York Newsman Dismissed

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP — A trespassing charge agains McKinley C. Olson, a reporter photographer for the York, Pa. Gazette and Daily, was dismissed this week.

The charge, which stemmed from an anti-segregation demonstration which Olson covered, was dismissed when the complainant failed to appear in Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

Olson, 30, and six demonstrators were arrested March 31 on trespassing warrants sworn by James Comber, owner of Jimmy Comber's Restaurant in Adelphi, near Hyattsville.

The case was dismissed Tuesday after Judge Roscoe H. Parker, was told that Comber was the prosecution's only witness and was not in court.

A summons had been issued for Comber but it has not yet been served, according to Asst. State's Atty. Heiskell Gray.

Wall Street Views

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Wall Street analyst said a sharp drop in the market is "like the swift penetrating stab of a surgeon's knife and often lays bare sick situations which need correcting."

The analyst, Benton Davis of Mitchell, Hutchins and Co., added, "The greater the degree of immediate market unpleasantness, the greater the chances are that corrective steps will be attempted.

"Many are appalled at the precipitate decline, forgetting that as time goes on more and more people are interested in the market, just so corrective market phases may become more and more severe. The more the sheep, the greater the panic."

Similar comments, in the wake of the Monday plunge, came from other analysts.

The Weisenberger Investment report said, "The stock market is like a roller coaster. The declines are sharp and fast, sometimes breathtaking, while the advances are more moderate, slow and deliberate.

Fortunately, as with a roller coaster, stock prices do not go on indefinitely. They are followed in due course by a rise."

Britain's Pattern For Central Africa

By NEIL SMITH

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—The new British pattern for Central Africa apparently will be a close economic but loose political union of Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

Nyasaland, the third member of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, would share in some of the fringe benefits of the union, observers believe.

The pattern evolved during the 16-day tour of British Home Secretary R. A. Butler through all three territories. Butler's ideas, as they emerged in speeches and news conferences, can have brought little joy to the diehards who want the present federal structure to remain intact.

From the start he made it clear that he was seeking some form of new association between Nyasaland and Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

At a press conference at Zomba, Butler acknowledged the ruling Malawi Congress party's mandate to pull Nyasaland out of the federation, was a significant pointer to the future.

Several days later Butler spoke of the importance of the economic inter-dependence of Northern and Southern Rhodesia, and said he hoped it could be preserved.

Significantly, there was no mention of Nyasaland, beyond his comment that he would like "if possible" to see Nyasaland benefit from this inter-dependence. But by then Nyasaland African leaders had already rebuffed Butler by refusing to discuss any new association until the present federation is disbanded.

Sources close to Dr. Hastings Banda, the Nyasaland African nationalist leader, say that as long as the whites rule Southern Rhodesia any future association will be minimal.

They doubt whether Banda would agree to more than a free trade agreement, a postal union and a common air service—and then only on condition that the right of secession is granted to Nyasaland. The association would have no political aim, and Nyasaland would retain firm control of customs, defense, hospitals, education and immigration.

Economic union—and possibly some form of political association—between Northern and Southern Rhodesia appears to be a matter of common sense. The two countries have always had close links, far closer than the links either had in the past with Nyasaland.

Wall Street Views

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Wall Street analyst said a sharp drop in the market is "like the swift penetrating stab of a surgeon's knife and often lays bare sick situations which need correcting."

The analyst, Benton Davis of Mitchell, Hutchins and Co., added, "The greater the degree of immediate market unpleasantness, the greater the chances are that corrective steps will be attempted.

"Many are appalled at the precipitate decline, forgetting that as time goes on more and more people are interested in the market, just so corrective market phases may become more and more severe. The more the sheep, the greater the panic."

Similar comments, in the wake of the Monday plunge, came from other analysts.

The Weisenberger Investment report said, "The stock market is like a roller coaster. The declines are sharp and fast, sometimes breathtaking, while the advances are more moderate, slow and deliberate.

Fortunately, as with a roller coaster, stock prices do not go on indefinitely. They are followed in due course by a rise."

Britain's Pattern For Central Africa

By NEIL SMITH

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—The new British pattern for Central Africa apparently will be a close economic but loose political union of Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

Nyasaland, the third member of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, would share in some of the fringe benefits of the union, observers believe.

The pattern evolved during the 16-day tour of British Home Secretary R. A. Butler through all three territories. Butler's ideas, as they emerged in speeches and news conferences, can have brought little joy to the diehards who want the present federal structure to remain intact.

From the start he made it clear that he was seeking some form of new association between Nyasaland and Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

At a press conference at Zomba, Butler acknowledged the ruling Malawi Congress party's mandate to pull Nyasaland out of the federation, was a significant pointer to the future.

Several days later Butler spoke of the importance of the economic inter-dependence of Northern and Southern Rhodesia, and said he hoped it could be preserved.

Significantly, there was no mention of Nyasaland, beyond his comment that he would like "if possible" to see Nyasaland benefit from this inter-dependence. But by then Nyasaland African leaders had already rebuffed Butler by refusing to discuss any new association until the present federation is disbanded.

Sources close to Dr. Hastings Banda, the Nyasaland African nationalist leader, say that as long as the whites rule Southern Rhodesia any future association will be minimal.

They doubt whether Banda would agree to more than a free trade agreement, a postal union and a common air service—and then only on condition that the right of secession is granted to Nyasaland. The association would have no political aim, and Nyasaland would retain firm control of customs, defense, hospitals, education and immigration.

Economic union—and possibly some form of political association—between Northern and Southern Rhodesia appears to be a matter of common sense. The two countries have always had close links, far closer than the links either had in the past with Nyasaland.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 129 Brig. Gen. Ambrose Everett Burnside, whose distinctive style of hirsute adornment was dubbed an inversion of his name, "sideburns," was no more conspicuous in his army in the early months of 1862 than was Kady Brownell. Kady was a lady soldier who marched with the rank and file, carrying the colors of the First Rhode Island Regiment.

Kady was English, daughter of a British soldier who had his wife with him while he was on duty in Africa. Soon after emigrating to the United States, Kady married Robert S. Brownell, whom she regarded it as natural for her to accompany when his militia regiment was sent South in April 1861. Kady proved her courage at the battle of Bull Run—where many of the Union troops panicked—and was allowed to remain with the regiment in an enlisted status.

The regiment saw other action before it participated effectually in the combined operation of Brig. Gen. Burnside's and Commodore Laird M. Goldsborough's army and naval forces at Roanoke Island that was followed by the occupation of Elizabeth City and one North Carolina coastal town after another in February and March 1862. Her husband's career as soldier came to an end at New Bern, in March; he was one of 500 Union soldiers and sailors wounded by the Confederate defenders (100 of the Union men were killed).

Mrs. Brownell nursed her husband into condition to travel and was invalided home with him. Gallantly, Gen. Burnside presented her with the bullet-torn flag she had borne through a succession of battles. When pensions were voted the Union veterans, Mrs. Brownell received one.

Kady was stated to have been the first woman admitted to the Grand Army of the Republic and attended a number of its annual reunions. Clippings of interviews she gave indicated that she best liked to recall she was the best sharpshooter in the regiment—able to put a hole through the center of a pocket handkerchief at 100 yards.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

[→] Kady Brownell in wartime garb. "Carrying a rifle and sword as well as the colors, she became proficient in the use of both weapons," a contemporary account says.

UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The case of the sabotaged Continental Air Lines plane adds up to welcome vindication for the modern jetliner.

Some of the early theories on the crash cast a shadow not only on the Boeing 707, the plane involved, but on every jet transport and the entire avaiation industry.

Structural failure from extreme turbulence was one of the major possibilities advanced. It seemed logical, for the jet was known to be in an area of severe thunderstorms and it was obvious it had come apart in the air. But the very suggestion that a storm could wreck a powerfully built jet sent a chill through all aviation.

Thunderstorms have destroyed conventional airliners on a half-dozen occasions. But the jets are supposed to be the strongest transports ever built. And if thunderstorm turbulence had torn the Continental plane apart, what about its airborne radar—specifically designed to keep planes out of turbulent areas? The turbulence theory not only cast doubt on the strength of the jet but on the device pilots regard as one of the greatest air safety advances in history.

Another theory was explosive decompression, literally failure of the cabin wall under the strain of pressurization. Presumably, this would have had to involve metal fatigue and the possibility was frightening.

Tests on the 707, DC8 and Convair 880-990 series showed that the airframes had an expected service life of at least 20 years before any metal fatigue from pressurization was remotely possible. The oldest 707 has been flying only since 1958.

Britain's Comet was a victim of explosive decompression in 1952. The lessons learned from the Comet were incorporated into all American-built jets to make recurrence impossible. If metal fatigue had turned out to be the cause of the Continental crash, it would have given this nation's aeronautical engineers the biggest collective black eye imaginable.

Now that a bomb has been almost definitely established as the culprit, the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) could be forgiven for saying "we told you so." In this accident as in all others, CAB investigators steadfastly refused to join any guessing or speculation. They learned a long time ago that early clues in an accident often lead down blind alleys, create unwarranted fears and damage reputations without justification.

Two facts have emerged from the Continental tragedy and its sabotage aftermath. One is that the Boeing 707 and its sister jets have been cleared of suspicion. The other is that jumping at conclusions about air crashes can not only be futile but even unfair.

Market Isn't Infallible As Economic Barometer

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you read your future in the stock tables? Do they forecast good times or bad — for business, for workers, for the country as a whole?

Many are convinced that the 1962 stock market break is foretelling a business slump. Others firmly reject this. They say that increasingly, and particularly just now, tumbling stock prices largely mean the correction of market excesses (especially on the part of the small and inexperienced traders) with little relation to the health of the economy in general.

Belief that the market predicts the course of business about six months ahead of an upturn or downturn is still widely held. But there have been enough instances in recent years when the market changed course for entirely different reasons to cast doubt on its infallibility as an economic forecaster.

The granddaddy of the stock breaks, that of October 1929, clearly foreshadowed the big depression of the early 1930s. It also added to the rigors of the bad times, especially in the early years.

But several times since World War II the stock market has been a barometer with a cracked glass, quite inaccurate as a guide to the business weather.

In 1946 stock prices tumbled around 20 per cent and this was hailed as a forecast of a postwar slump. Business thought otherwise. Industrial production climbed fairly rapidly till late in 1948. Stock traders lost a lot of their luster as soothsayers.

They got some of it back in the summer of 1948 when a 10 per cent drop in stock prices preceded the recession starting late in the year and lasting till the fall of 1949.

Business was bubbling again in 1950 when the stock market broke fairly sharply. The price dip was a short one and tied closely to the outbreak of the Korean War. Industrial activity ignored the doings on Wall Street and continued upward at a fast pace most of the time till mid-1953.

A drop in stock prices coincided with the start of the 1953-54 slump, but prices soon turned upwards again, ignoring the recession. In the eyes of many this forecast the big industrial gains of late 1954 and 1955.

Another sharp break with heavy selling came in 1955, but this was due to President Eisenhower's heart attack. Industrial activity climbed steadily till the start of 1956. Both the market and the economy hesitated in the first part of 1956, but then industrial output moved to a high at the end of that year.

A really deep dip in stock prices late in 1957 all but coincided with the start of the business slump of 1957-58. You can get an argument either way: the market foreshadowed the recession by its 1956 and 1957 hesitations, or the economy turned down and nudged the market into its decline.

The 1960 decline in stock prices restored much of the market's reputation as a forecaster of the course of business. Stocks faltered five months before business did. And they started their long and impressive climb a good five months before business began its recovery.

Today many of the prime business statistics are still on the way up. They haven't reached the heights which overoptimistic forecasters had proclaimed as the economy's goal. But they faltered only briefly and slightly at the start of the year.

The stock market has had one of its worst breaks in history. Many think this means another recession will be coming along in a few months. Many others believe no such thing.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 129 Brig. Gen. Ambrose Everett Burnside, whose distinctive style of hirsute adornment was dubbed an inversion of his name, "sideburns," was no more conspicuous in his army in the early months of 1862 than was Kady Brownell. Kady was a lady soldier who marched with the rank and file, carrying the colors of the First Rhode Island Regiment.

Kady was English, daughter of a British soldier who had his wife with him while he was on duty in Africa. Soon after emigrating to the United States, Kady married Robert S. Brownell, whom she regarded it as natural for her to accompany when his militia regiment was sent South in April 1861. Kady proved her courage at the battle of Bull Run—where many of the Union troops panicked—and was allowed to remain with the regiment in an enlisted status.

The regiment saw other action before it participated effectually in the combined operation of Brig. Gen. Burnside's and Commodore Laird M. Goldsborough's army and naval forces at Roanoke Island that was followed by the occupation of Elizabeth City and one North Carolina coastal town after another in February and March 1862. Her husband's career as soldier came to an end at New Bern, in March; he was one of 500 Union soldiers and sailors wounded by the Confederate defenders (100 of the Union men were killed).

Mrs. Brownell nursed her husband into condition to travel and was invalided home with him. Gallantly, Gen. Burnside presented her with the bullet-torn flag she had borne through a succession of battles. When pensions were voted the Union veterans, Mrs. Brownell received one.

Kady was stated to have been the first woman admitted to the Grand Army of the Republic and attended a number of its annual reunions. Clippings of interviews she gave indicated that she best liked to recall she was the best sharpshooter in the regiment—able to put a hole through the center of a pocket handkerchief at 100 yards.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

[→] Kady Brownell in wartime garb. "Carrying a rifle and sword as well as the colors, she became proficient in the use of both weapons," a contemporary account says.

ICC Extends Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission gave a five-day extension Thursday for the filing of exceptions to an examiner's report recommending that the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway be allowed to gain control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

The deadline was extended from today to June 5.

Hearing Examiner John L. Bradford submitted May 1 his recommendation that the commission approve the proposal.

The commission's deadline extension came amid reports that the Port Authority of New York planned to ask the ICC to delay its decision on the C&O-B&O plan.

It was understood the Port Authority would propose that the ICC wait until it could study the possible relationship of the C&O-B&O plans with proposals for two other major mergers in the East. The others pending before the commission, involve the proposed merging of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central,, and a three-way union of the Norfolk & Western, the Nickel Plate, and the Wabash.

Police Seek Carpenter For Slaying Of Soldier

MARTINSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Police and sheriff's deputies searched Berkeley County Thursday for George W. Gordon, wanted in connection with the slaying of an Army sergeant Tuesday night.

The car of Gordon, 57-year-old self-employed carpenter and contractor, was found eight miles north of Martinsburg Wednesday, touching off the search.

The car, a 1955 Lincoln coupe, was found in woods west of U.S. 11. Officers said the car had been abandoned at least 12 hours before it was reported to police.

A murder warrant has been issued against Gordon in the slaying of Sgt. Joseph Leon Desrosiers, 49, near Winchester, Va. — 22 miles from Martinsburg — two days ago.

Desrosiers was slain and his wife, Evelyn, 49, critically wounded as they sat in the living room of their home just outside the Winchester city limits. A sister of the wounded woman ran for help.

George Gordon was a brother of Jessie Gordon, the former husband of Mrs. Desrosiers who died last year. George Gordon had lived with his brother and the then Mrs. Gordon for some years.

Massie said ill feeling had existed for some time between George Gordon and Desrosiers.

Billy Graham Hopes "Great Chicago Crusade" Has National Impact

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

Evangelist Billy Graham is hopeful that his "Great Chicago Crusade," which opened Wednesday, will have a national impact comparable to the preaching mission he conducted in New York's Madison Square Garden in 1957.

"We have given more intensive and extensive preparation to this effort in Chicago than to any other crusade we have ever conducted," Graham told a reporter last week.

"I believe it will give us an opportunity to speak to Americans once again on a national scale."

The Chicago crusade will continue through June 17 with week night and Sunday afternoon meetings in the world's biggest indoor arena, McCormick Place. To help fill its 35,000 seats, protestant churches throughout the Midwest will send delegations by special bus, train and plane.

Millions of Americans in other parts of the country will be able to "attend" some of the crusade meetings by television. Arrangements already have been made for at least five hour-long television broadcasts to be carried by stations from coast to coast.

Planning for the crusade began months ago. Some 12,000 ministers and laymen from the Chicago area have attended training courses to serve as individual counselors for those who come forward at Graham's invitation to make "decisions for Christ."

"There are indications," Graham said, "that we may have the greatest response we have ever had."

Roman Catholic sources in Rome have disclosed that talks are underway between the Vatican and the World Council of Churches on the joint preparation of a global investory of Christian missionary work.

The cooperative undertaking could be of substantial practical value to all churches, by providing up-to-date information on unmet needs for hospitals, schools and other missionary facilities in underdeveloped countries.

Its greatest significance, however, may lie in the fact that it is another big step toward cordial working relationships between the Vatican and the World Council, which represents 170 major protestant and orthodox denominations.

Leaders of the conservative branch of Judaism are meeting in Jerusalem this week (May 29-31) for an international convention of the World Council of Synagogues. The council has affiliates in 26 countries, including about 750 synagogues in the United States.

Its president, Charles Rosengarten of Waterbury, Conn., said the convention will discuss ways to restore the synagogue to its traditional place as the focus of Jewish life, and to improve the transmission of Jewish moral values to youth.

A survey by the National Lutheran Church of Norway indicates that church attendance among Norwegians has increased about 15 per cent during the past five years. Bishop Johannes Smemo, head of the church, attributed the rise to "an increased interest in life's deepest questions."

The Catholic Cardinal who supervises religious communities of men and women arrived in the United States last week for his first visit in 10 years. He is Arcadio Cardinal Larraona, 74, prefect of the Vatican's Sacred Congregation of Rites. Cardinal Larraona planned to visit New York, Washington, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Dubuque, Iowa.

He is noted for his efforts to modernize the dress and other customs of monastic groups, to enable them to serve effectively in a world that is far different from anything envisaged by the founders of orders which date back to the middle ages.

"Do not concern yourself so much with what your founder did in times past," Cardinal Larraona tells monks and nuns. "Consider rather what he would do today."

Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, appealed to local churches and other religious organizations last week to take the lead in getting their communities to provide homes for Cuban refugees who are pouring into the Miami, Fla., area at a rate of about 1,800 a week.

Ribicoff said Miami "cannot possibly absorb" so many people, and "the only solution is to spread them throughout the United States" through resettlement. He said the government will pay resettlement costs and guarantee that the refugees won't become public charges on the community.

Some communities already have begun to do their part, he said, but the resettlement rate is still only 750 persons a week "and we must do much better."

The Knights of Columbus has received more than 4,100,000 responses during the past 12 months to its newspaper and magazine advertisements offering free information about the Catholic church and its teachings. Supreme Knight Luke E. Hart announced that more than 400,000 of the persons writing in were sufficiently interested to enroll for correspondence courses in Catholicism.

Washington Cathedral, the great gothic church in the nation's capital which is visited by millions of tourists annually, has received an anonymous gift of $250,000 to build a library for rare Bibles and other precious religious books.

The donor also gave the cathedral a number of volumes to go into the library, including a priceless Prince Henry copy of the original King James Bible of 1611.

NASA Mystified By Space Balloon Tow Cord Slack

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said Tuesday it could not explain why the cord towing a balloon from Scott Carpenter's space capsule was not taut.

A photograph distributed by NASA showed slack in the cord despite the fact that the capsule was traveling at 17,500 miles an hour at the time Carpenter released the balloon.

There had been some thought at first that the rarified atmosphere might have been insufficient ot cause enough drag on the balloon to cause the cord to draw tight.

But NASA spokesmen declined to accept this explanation as the sole cause.

"It is one of the things we are investigating," one spokesman said.

Billy Graham Hopes "Great Chicago Crusade" Has National Impact

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

Evangelist Billy Graham is hopeful that his "Great Chicago Crusade," which opened Wednesday, will have a national impact comparable to the preaching mission he conducted in New York's Madison Square Garden in 1957.

"We have given more intensive and extensive preparation to this effort in Chicago than to any other crusade we have ever conducted," Graham told a reporter last week.

"I believe it will give us an opportunity to speak to Americans once again on a national scale."

The Chicago crusade will continue through June 17 with week night and Sunday afternoon meetings in the world's biggest indoor arena, McCormick Place. To help fill its 35,000 seats, protestant churches throughout the Midwest will send delegations by special bus, train and plane.

Millions of Americans in other parts of the country will be able to "attend" some of the crusade meetings by television. Arrangements already have been made for at least five hour-long television broadcasts to be carried by stations from coast to coast.

Planning for the crusade began months ago. Some 12,000 ministers and laymen from the Chicago area have attended training courses to serve as individual counselors for those who come forward at Graham's invitation to make "decisions for Christ."

"There are indications," Graham said, "that we may have the greatest response we have ever had."

Pinto Bridge Site Topic Of Meeting

John B. Funk, chairman director of the Maryland State Roads Commission, wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that he is arranging a meeting with officials of the West Virginia State Roads Commission, U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Maryland agency to discuss the location for the proposed Pinto bridge and approaches.

The engineering divisions of all three agencies will go over the location and alignment of the bridge and approach roadways so that a determination can be made as to costs and other matters involved.

The bridge and road work across the Potomac River and the tracks of the B&O Railroad and Western Maryland Railway will provide a more efficient access into the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory as well as the nearby West Virginia areas.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $1 million dollars. Allegany County will provide a large amount of the funds necessary.

K Of C Fourth Degree Breakfast This Sunday

Very Rev. Peter T. Rohrbach, O.C.D. (Order of Carmelites Discalced) will speak at the annual memorial communion breakfast for Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus.

James Brailer, faithful navigator of the assembly, said the breakfast will follow the 8:15 a. m. Mass this Sunday in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Father Rohrbach is the superior of the Discalced Carmelite monastery in Washington. He was born, raised, and educated in the New York area, went to college in Washington, and received a Ph.B. degree from Catholic University of America.

He has written articles for Catholic World, The Sign, Ave Maria, and Catholic Digest. He has written five books, two of them novels — "Conversation With Christ," "A Girl and Her Teens," "The Search for St. Theresa," "Gentle Fury," and "Bold Encounter."

The Order of Discalced (latin for "without shoes") Carmelites was established in 1562. Their work extends throughout the world in the educational field, parish work, and mission work. The American Province provides missionaries for the Philippine Islands. Their rule of life is a very rigid one and simple one, and among this order was St. Therese, the Little Flower, St. Theresa of Avila, and St. John of the Cross.

The Carmelites maintain a summer retreat house for their Washington students at Deep Creek Lake.

Taney Assembly officers said dress will be formal, with outside baldric and gloves.

The team will be headed by Dr. Seymour Ketty, chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University. It will make the trip on behalf of the President's panel on mental retardation.

Professor Wins Soaring Contest Here

A West Virginia University professor put his knowledge to practical use and won the top prizes in the Middle Atlantic Soaring Meet held here Friday through Wednesday.

He is Dr. Edward F. Byars, Morgantown, who is chairman of the university's department of applied and theoretic mechanics.

Dr. Byars won the top trophy for the individual high score, 1,250 points, and the award for the flight of the longest duration, three hours 31 minutes.

Flying a 123 Schweizer sail plane, he entered competition for the first time. He bases his craft at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Second place went to Dr. Mario Piccaglia, assistant chief engineer, public utilities, of the World Bank in Washington with 1,035 points.

Dr. Piccaglia, who flies a Leister-Kaufman plane, has soared on five continents—North and South America, Australia, Africa and Europe. He placed third last year in the Middle Atlantic meet.

Third place was won by Otto Zauner, Vineland, N. J., with 1,000 points, in his German-made KA-6.

First place for team soaring went to William C. Holbrook, president of the Cumberland Soaring Association, and Dr. Robert K. Poling, local dentist, in a Schweizer 123-H. Each man soared on alternate days during the meet and had a total score of 1,750 points.

Finishing second in the team event were Bert Elliott, Greencastle, Pa., and Harrison Baird, Washington, in a Schweizer 126 with 500 points.

Third went to John R. McGonigle, Canonsburg, Pa., and Richard Huppertz, Pittsburgh, with 285 points in their Schweizer 126.

Wednesday's mission was the completion of a triangular course which went from the Municipal Airport to Miller Field south of Keyser then to Burlington and back to the local field, a distance of 47 miles.

Dr. Byars made it and stayed aloft three hours 31 minutes. Holbrook also covered the course, soaring for two hours 55 minutes.

All of the trophies which were presented Wednesday by Holbrook were contributed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

An award from the Schweizer firm went to Elliott for the best performance in that type of craft.

Roberta Rizer Heads Beall Club

FROSTBURG — Roberta Rizer was installed as president of the Beall High School Future Nurses Club at a recent meeting. Wanda Miller will serve as vice-president; Vicky Sullivan, secretary; Carolyn Minnick, treasurer; and Vivian Durst, historian.

Miss Jane H. Grindel is the sponsor for the group. Following the meeting, refreshments were served.

Professor Wins Soaring Contest Here

A West Virginia University professor put his knowledge to practical use and won the top prizes in the Middle Atlantic Soaring Meet held here Friday through Wednesday.

He is Dr. Edward F. Byars, Morgantown, who is chairman of the university's department of applied and theoretic mechanics.

Dr. Byars won the top trophy for the individual high score, 1,250 points, and the award for the flight of the longest duration, three hours 31 minutes.

Flying a 123 Schweizer sail plane, he entered competition for the first time. He bases his craft at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Second place went to Dr. Mario Piccaglia, assistant chief engineer, public utilities, of the World Bank in Washington with 1,035 points.

Dr. Piccaglia, who flies a Leister-Kaufman plane, has soared on five continents—North and South America, Australia, Africa and Europe. He placed third last year in the Middle Atlantic meet.

Third place was won by Otto Zauner, Vineland, N. J., with 1,000 points, in his German-made KA-6.

First place for team soaring went to William C. Holbrook, president of the Cumberland Soaring Association, and Dr. Robert K. Poling, local dentist, in a Schweizer 123-H. Each man soared on alternate days during the meet and had a total score of 1,750 points.

Finishing second in the team event were Bert Elliott, Greencastle, Pa., and Harrison Baird, Washington, in a Schweizer 126 with 500 points.

Third went to John R. McGonigle, Canonsburg, Pa., and Richard Huppertz, Pittsburgh, with 285 points in their Schweizer 126.

Wednesday's mission was the completion of a triangular course which went from the Municipal Airport to Miller Field south of Keyser then to Burlington and back to the local field, a distance of 47 miles.

Dr. Byars made it and stayed aloft three hours 31 minutes. Holbrook also covered the course, soaring for two hours 55 minutes.

All of the trophies which were presented Wednesday by Holbrook were contributed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

An award from the Schweizer firm went to Elliott for the best performance in that type of craft.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD. — They had a high old time getting Jayne Mansfield back on water skis for key scenes in "Panic Button" after that traumatic dunking in the Bahamas last year. The entire company shooting at Sabaudian Beach near Rome took to boats to reassure Jayne that nothing would happen to her.

It was quite a sight to see Maurice Chevalier and Eleanor Parker lolling in deck chairs on a neat (and safe) little sail boat, consuming hors d'ouevres and cocktails, shouting encouragement to Jayne.

She finally did it—then burst into tears, but the camera didn't catch that.

Shirley Jones looms bright for "Camelot." And if his money demands haven't soared completely out of hand, look for Richard Burton to repeat his Broadway role opposite her when Warner Brothers bring the Lerner-Loewe musical to the screen.

Miss Jones is a doll in "The Music Man" and with Warners jumping with joy over the musical, cashing in on Shirley is a logical choice for "Camelot."

One more word about Shirley—she's as lovely as she looks and deserves everything good that's coming to her.

Judy Garland can take her own triumphs in stride. But she really busts her buttons over what her children do.

Her oldest, Liza, has a date this summer to appear in "The Diary of Anne Frank' at the Jerusalem Center, a program sponsored by the International Cultural Center for Youth in Jerusalem.

I remember when Judy was mowing them down at the Cocoanut Grove. Liza frequently joined her and did a number with her mother and a beaming Judy always gave Liza all the bows.

President Kennedy has accepted the honorary world chairmanship of the Star Spangled Ball, Nov. 8, at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, according to Mrs. Murray Silverstone, chairman of the International Cultural Center for Youth in Jerusalem.

Former honorary world chairman have included the Earl of Mountbatten, His Royal Highness Prince Bertil of Sweden and His Royal Highness Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. President Kennedy previously indicated his interest in the aims and program of the ICCY when he sent a telegram to last year's ball stating that "Yours is an institution that belongs to all humanity." Spyros Skouras has been the honorary chairman of the ICCY since its inception.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Vince Edwards flew in from the Indianapolis races to take his girl, Sherry Nelson, to the opening of Les White's new Barclay Kitchen tomorrow night.

Guess who's going to be doing "Interviews in Depth" on a new TV series? Liberace. Lee isn't batting a sequin over this change of format. "I've played the piano for some of the greats of the world. Why shouldn't I talk with them?"

Before Roz Russell left for Paris she posed for Harper's Bazaar as "The Indestructible Roz'—which is what she is after three major films in less than 12 months.

If Jean Simmons accepts "Anne of a Thousand Days" for a TV spec, they'll go after Rex Harrison to play Henry VIII to her Anne Boleyn.

You think the fans don't remember? There was such a group around Adolphe Menjou and his wife dining at the Wilshire Terrace that Adolphe could hardly dine for autographing.

After six straight winners at Hollywood Park (so the man says) Eddie Welch took six of his pals to steak dinner at Robbs-Century Cafe.

It's not just for laughs! Even the silliest beach accessories offer practical protection against sun, sand and spray.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Word To The Wise — Accessorize!

At least five totally different girls will grace the summer scene — and all five can be one and the same person. It will take just one magic word —ACCESSORIES—to change her from the smooth young elegant with the "spare" look, to a beach sprite, a homespun westerner, an exotic Egyptian or the freshest flower of femininity, appropriately flounced and beruffled.

It's already clear that no one single fashion fad is going to dominate summer styling. With so many accessories offered to vary moods and modes, the girls who want to look up-to-the-minute simply "pays their money and takes their choice."

The nice thing about variety is the opportunity it gives a woman to exercise her own taste. Not everyone will want to look like a reincarnation of Cleopatra. Nor will mad straw swimming wigs and wild beach hats appeal to every bather. But one of these fashion types should certainly strike a responsive chord in most style-conscious souls.

There's a good reason for stirring up your interest in accessories: they're FUN! Compared to major clothing investments, they're also fairly inexpensive . . . so they can be used to fill in the gaps in wardrobe "decor" without paralyzing clothes budgets.

Accessories are to enjoy. And they play an important role in adding the finishing touch to a basic costume. The touch of personality, an individual quality that can never be duplicated. Even if ten women with "identical" tastes were to choose the very same accessories, they wouldn't look alike. Each one would express her own interpretation of how those accessories should be worn and carried.

So, have your fun this season with any five fads that fits your fancy. Go all-girl, if you wish, in lace or chiffon scarves, tiny belts, dainty boleros, pastel ginghams. Or do yourself up in denim, complete with hip-slung belt, wide-brimmed sombrero and cowboy krechief. Imitate Nefertiti, should it please you, in jeweled arm bracelets and collars, glamorous head pieces, in glittering gold worn against stark white. Be bizarre, if you dare, in beachwear.

Should you decide to follow the "spare" look with the slim, clean lines epitomized by the First Lady, you'll be able to stretch your summer fad accessories for more than one season, since this fashionable pared-down silhoutte is in the forecast for fall.

Paring down is a good idea in any season, but especially now. If you'd like to lose a few pounds, why not send for my booklet, "Your Beauty Diet"? Just enclose 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

Receives Certificate

A certificate of completion of the Institute of Christian Service at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C., was awarded Wednesday to David L. Stouffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Stouffer, Cresaptown.

Baltimorean Dies Of Crash Injuries

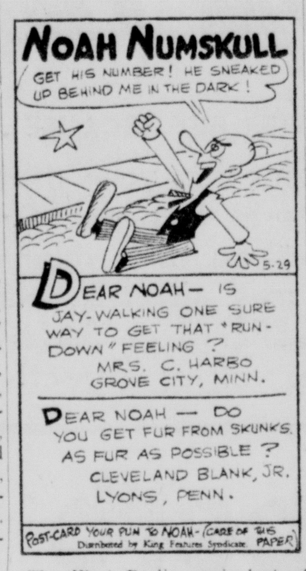
BALTIMORE (AP)—A 25-year-old Baltimorean died Thursday of injuries he received in a Memorial Day traffic accident.

The victim, Albert Doetzer, died in University Hospital here after his transfer from Beebe Hospital In Lewes, Del.

State Police said the accident occurred Wednesday afternoon when the car driven by Doetzer skidded on rain-slick U.S. 113 south of Frankford, Del., and smashed into another vehicle.

Nancy Freyman, 23, also of Baltimore, remained in fair condition with internal injuries. She had been a passenger in the Doetzer car.

The occupants of the second car — Ronald D. Lewis, 21, of Frankford, and Douglas Lewis, 18, of Dagsboro, Del. — also were hospitalized, but their injuries were not considered serious.



The West Berlin equivalent of an American luncheon stand is called a Schnell Imbiss, literally, "quick bite."

Four Cooks Get Permanent Status

Four cooks at county institutions were given permanent status effective June 1 as a result of Tuesday's action by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

All four had been on temporary status since December 1 and their probationary period is expiring. Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Infirmary, recommended permanent status for Mrs. Lucille Correa, a cook, and Mrs. Ethel V. Hull, an assistant cook.

Similarly, Raymond G. Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat, recommended permanent status for Audrey Twigg and Elizabeth Matthews, both of whom have been cooks on temporary status since December 1.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD. — They had a high old time getting Jayne Mansfield back on water skis for key scenes in "Panic Button" after that traumatic dunking in the Bahamas last year. The entire company shooting at Sabaudian Beach near Rome took to boats to reassure Jayne that nothing would happen to her.

It was quite a sight to see Maurice Chevalier and Eleanor Parker lolling in deck chairs on a neat (and safe) little sail boat, consuming hors d'ouevres and cocktails, shouting encouragement to Jayne.

She finally did it—then burst into tears, but the camera didn't catch that.

Shirley Jones looms bright for "Camelot." And if his money demands haven't soared completely out of hand, look for Richard Burton to repeat his Broadway role opposite her when Warner Brothers bring the Lerner-Loewe musical to the screen.

Miss Jones is a doll in "The Music Man" and with Warners jumping with joy over the musical, cashing in on Shirley is a logical choice for "Camelot."

One more word about Shirley—she's as lovely as she looks and deserves everything good that's coming to her.

Judy Garland can take her own triumphs in stride. But she really busts her buttons over what her children do.

Her oldest, Liza, has a date this summer to appear in "The Diary of Anne Frank' at the Jerusalem Center, a program sponsored by the International Cultural Center for Youth in Jerusalem.

I remember when Judy was mowing them down at the Cocoanut Grove, Liza frequently joined her and did a number with her mother and a beaming Judy always gave Liza all the bows.

President Kennedy has accepted the honorary world chairmanship of the Star Spangled Ball, Nov. 8, at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, according to Mrs. Murray Silverstone, chairman of the International Cultural Center for Youth in Jerusalem.

Former honorary world chairman have included the Earl of Mountbatten, His Royal Highness Prince Bertil of Sweden and His Royal Highness Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. President Kennedy previously indicated his interest in the aims and program of the ICCY when he sent a telegram to last year's ball stating that "Yours is an institution that belongs to all humanity." Spyros Skouras has been the honorary chairman of the ICCY since its inception.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Vince Edwards flew in from the Indianapolis races to take his girl, Sherry Nelson, to the opening of Les White's new Barclay Kitchen tomorrow night.

Guess who's going to be doing "Interviews in Depth" on a new TV series? Liberace. Lee isn't batting a sequin over this change of format. "I've played the piano for some of the greats of the world. Why shouldn't I talk with them?"

Before Roz Russell left for Paris she posed for Harper's Bazaar as "The Indestructible Roz'—which is what she is after three major films in less than 12 months.

If Jean Simmons accepts "Anne of a Thousand Days" for a TV spec, they'll go after Rex Harrison to play Henry VIII to her Anne Boleyn.

You think the fans don't remember? There was such a group around Adolphe Menjou and his wife dining at the Wilshire Terrace that Adolphe could hardly dine for autographing.

After six straight winners at Hollywood Park (so the man says) Eddie Welch took six of his pals to steak dinner at Robbs-Century Cafe.

Secrets Of Charm

Word To The Wise — Accessorize!

At least five totally different girls will grace the summer scene — and all five can be one and the same person. It will take just one magic word —ACCESSORIES—to change her from the smooth young elegant with the "spare" look, to a beach sprite, a homespun westerner, an exotic Egyptian or the freshest flower of femininity, appropriately flounced and beruffled.

It's already clear that no one single fashion fad is going to dominate summer styling. With so many accessories offered to vary moods and modes, the girls who want to look up-to-the-minute simply "pays their money and takes their choice."

The nice thing about variety is the opportunity it gives a woman to exercise her own taste. Not everyone will want to look like a reincarnation of Cleopatra. Nor will mad straw swimming wigs and wild beach hats appeal to every bather. But one of these fashion types should certainly strike a responsive chord in most style-conscious souls.

There's a good reason for stirring up your interest in accessories: they're FUN! Compared to major clothing investments, they're also fairly inexpensive . . . so they can be used to fill in the gaps in wardrobe "decor" without paralyzing clothes budgets.

Accessories are to enjoy. And they play an important role in adding the finishing touch to a basic costume. The touch of personality, an individual quality that can never be duplicated. Even if ten women with "identical" tastes were to choose the very same accessories, they wouldn't look alike. Each one would express her own interpretation of how those accessories should be worn and carried.

So, have your fun this season with any five fads that fits your fancy. Go all-girl, if you wish, in lace or chiffon scarves, tiny belts, dainty boleros, pastel ginghams. Or do yourself up in denim, complete with hip-slung belt, wide-brimmed sombrero and cowboy krechief. Imitate Nefertiti, should it please you, in jeweled arm bracelets and collars, glamorous head pieces, in glittering gold worn against stark white. Be bizarre, if you dare, in beachwear.

Should you decide to follow the "spare" look with the slim, clean lines epitomized by the First Lady, you'll be able to stretch your summer fad accessories for more than one season, since this fashionable pared-down silhoutte is in the forecast for fall.

Paring down is a good idea in any season, but especially now. If you'd like to lose a few pounds, why not send for my booklet, "Your Beauty Diet"? Just enclose 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

Baltimorean Dies Of Crash Injuries

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 25-year-old Baltimorean died Thursday of injuries he received in a Memorial Day traffic accident.

The victim, Albert Doetzer, died in University Hospital here after his transfer from Beebe Hospital In Lewes, Del.

State Police said the accident occurred Wednesday afternoon when the car driven by Doetzer skidded on rain-slick U.S. 113 south of Frankford, Del., and smashed into another vehicle.

Nancy Freyman, 23, also of Baltimore, remained in fair condition with internal injuries. She had been a passenger in the Doetzer car.

The occupants of the second car — Renald D. Lewis, 21, of Frankford, and Douglas Lewis, 18, of Dagsboro, Del. — also were hospitalized, but their injuries were not considered serious.

Four Cooks Get Permanent Status

Four cooks at county institutions were given permanent status effective June 1 as a result of Tuesday's action by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

All four had been on temporary status since December 1 and their probationary period is expiring. Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Infirmary, recommended permanent status for Mrs. Lucille Correa, a cook, and Mrs. Ethel V. Hull, an assistant cook.

Similarly, Raymond G. Messmer, superintendent of Sylvan Retreat, recommended permanent status for Audrey Twigg and Elizabeth Matthews, both of whom have been cooks on temporary status since December 1.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	2 ♥	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♥

It is difficult to cite a moral in today's hand taken from a recent team-of-four match, because the elements of luck and chance were both strongly present. However the difference in treatment accorded their holdings by the respective Norths during the auction did lead to a substantial swing in favor of one team, and the reader is at liberty to draw his own conclusions from our account of the facts.

South's one no trump opening and West's two heart overcall were identical at both tables, but the two Norths veered immediately in different directions. As will be seen from the sequence presented in the diagram, one player chose to make a cue bid of three hearts. While the normal course is to name a good suit first and save the control showing bids for later, North desired to make a slam try below the game level. If South rebid three no trump, it was North's intention to carry on to four spades and leave further moves, if any, to partner.

When South bid three spades himself, North readjusted his sights. Prospects for slam loomed bright, hinging in fact on partner's holding in the minor suits. In order to get this message across, North overbid the game by jumping to five spades. An alternate course of action would have been to first show the diamond ace and then bid five spades. South obliged North's request by carrying on to slam which proved to be makable even without the benefit of West's opening ace of hearts lead. Since the jack of diamonds falls, declarer can obtain a needed club discard on the dummy's ten of diamonds.

At the other table, events took a strange turn. North jumped to three spades directly after West's overcall. When South raised to four spades, North showed his heart control. South elected to accept the slam invitation by bidding five no trump which offers partner a choice of contracts. North, of course, bid six spades.

West, who had been following the proceedings with great interest, doubled the final bid. East's normal lead without the double would have been a heart, but West wished to avoid this occurrence since he was convinced that North was void in hearts. The only chance apparently was to call off the heart lead and hope that partner would put his hand on a club. What actually did influence East we cannot say, but he did in fact open a club and the defenders cashed the first two tricks to set the contract.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

The question before the Nation is not whether we should have medical assistance for the aged but what kind of program we should support. The citizens of Maryland have always been cognizant of their responsibilities in this area, and the Free State has a progressive medical care program for the aged which is keeping pace with the needs of the state's elderly citizens.

We should also remember that a program for the aged exists at the Federal level—the Kerr-Mills Act. Although Kerr-Mills became law only 18 months ago, 27 states and territories participate today. Action is forthcoming in another five jurisdictions while the necessary implementation is proceeding in the remaining areas. Furthermore, Kerr-Mills is a voluntary, not a compulsory, program. It will supplement, not supplant, individual voluntary health insurance. It gives the states the right to set up their own program in their own way. Local administration, local choice of benefits and method of payment, local definition and determination of eligibility, minimum Federal controls—all these elements add up to economy as well as effectiveness.

In contrast, the Administration is pushing the King-Anderson Bill, a medical care bill to be financed through the social security system. This new tax would apply to 74 million persons presently under social security. King-Anderson does not provide payments for doctors' bills, only hospital costs and nursing care. Kerr - Mills, however, provides funds through direct Congressional appropriation for doctors' and hospital bills to anyone needing it—whether they are covered by social security or not.

The added social security tax for medical care for the aged is estimated at $1.6 billion for the first year and would rise to $1.9 billion in five years. This tax, of course, would reduce the total "take-home" pay of the employee and the profits of business by that amount. And we all know that when something is taken out of the paycheck, the worker naturally asks for a raise in compensation so that the increase in the social security tax (as asked for by the Administration) would mean higher wages and higher prices.

It is my opinion that the Kerr-Mills Law, if given ample opportunity, can provide adequate medical care for every one of our indigent aged. It may be that some of its provisions should be amended, but, by and large, it has proved highly effective in those states which have not been waiting for a "better deal" from the Federal government but have gone ahead to help their aged. And, as you might suspect, Maryland was one of the first states to take advantage of Kerr-Mills.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	2 ♥	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♥

It is difficult to cite a moral in today's hand taken from a recent team-of-four match, because the elements of luck and chance were both strongly present. However the difference in treatment accorded their holdings by the respective Norths during the auction did lead to a substantial swing in favor of one team, and the reader is at liberty to draw his own conclusions from our account of the facts.

South's one no trump opening and West's two heart overcall were identical at both tables, but the two Norths veered immediately in different directions. As will be seen from the sequence presented in the diagram, one player chose to make a cue bid of three hearts. While the normal course is to name a good suit first and save the control showing bids for later, North desired to make a slam try below the game level. If South rebid three no trump, it was North's intention to carry on to four spades and leave further moves, if any, to partner.

When South bid three spades himself, North readjusted his sights. Prospects for slam loomed bright, hinging in fact on partner's holding in the minor suits. In order to get this message across, North overbid the game by jumping to five spades. An alternate course of action would have been to first show the diamond ace and then bid five spades. South obliged North's request by carrying on to slam which proved to be makable even without the benefit of West's opening ace of hearts lead. Since the jack of diamonds falls, declarer can obtain a needed club discard on the dummy's ten of diamonds.

At the other table, events took a strange turn. North jumped to three spades directly after West's overcall. When South raised to four spades, North showed his heart control. South elected to accept the slam invitation by bidding five no trump which offers partner a choice of contracts. North, of course, bid six spades.

West, who had been following the proceedings with great interest, doubled the final bid. East's normal lead without the double would have been a heart, but West wished to avoid this occurrence since he was convinced that North was void in hearts. The only chance apparently was to call off the heart lead and hope that partner would put his hand on a club. What actually did influence East we cannot say, but he did in fact open a club and the defenders cashed the first two tricks to set the contract.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

The question before the Nation is not whether we should have medical assistance for the aged but what kind of program we should support. The citizens of Maryland have always been cognizant of their responsibilities in this area, and the Free State has a progressive medical care program for the aged which is keeping pace with the needs of the state's elderly citizens.

We should also remember that a program for the aged exists at the Federal level—the Kerr-Mills Act. Although Kerr-Mills became law only 18 months ago, 27 states and territories participate today. Action is forthcoming in another five jurisdictions while the necessary implementation is proceeding in the remaining areas. Furthermore, Kerr-Mills is a voluntary, not a compulsory, program. It will supplement, not supplant, individual voluntary health insurance. It gives the states the right to set up their own program in their own way. Local administration, local choice of benefits and method of payment, local definition and determination of eligibility, minimum Federal controls—all these elements add up to economy as well as effectiveness.

In contrast, the Administration is pushing the King-Anderson Bill, a medical care bill to be financed through the social security system. This new tax would apply to 74 million persons presently under social security. King-Anderson does not provide payments for doctors' bills, only hospital costs and nursing care. Kerr - Mills, however, provides funds through direct Congressional appropriation for doctors' and hospital bills to anyone needing it—whether they are covered by social security or not.

The added social security tax for medical care for the aged is estimated at $1.6 billion for the first year and would rise to $1.9 billion in five years. This tax, of course, would reduce the total "take-home" pay of the employee and the profits of business by that amount. And we all know that when something is taken out of the paycheck, the worker naturally asks for a raise in compensation so that the increase in the social security tax (as asked for by the Administration) would mean higher wages and higher prices.

It is my opinion that the Kerr-Mills Law, if given ample opportunity, can provide adequate medical care for every one of our indigent aged. It may be that some of its provisions should be amended, but, by and large, it has proved highly effective in those states which have not been waiting for a "better deal" from the Federal government but have gone ahead to help their aged. And, as you might suspect, Maryland was one of the first states to take advantage of Kerr-Mills.

"Experience teaches us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the Government's purposes are beneficent," said the great Supreme Court Justice Brandeis.

In an address in India last week, Ambassador John K. Galbraith, former Harvard economics professor, boasted that already one fifth of the American economy is planned by the Government. He said that if we take into consideration all current resources "fully controlled and disposed of by the state, about 20 per cent of the American economy is planned." Ambassador Galbraith pointed out, as the comparable figure for India was only 13 to 14 per cent, "the market economy of the United States has a larger public sector than the socialist economy of India." Translated, that means that now we're even more socialistic than Socialist India. Mr. Galbraith's statement was not a warning, but a boast.

Notwithstanding cries of "inaccuracy," Fortune Magazine's behind-the-scenes expose of the Cuban invasion fiasco has earned a coveted award — the 1962 Award for Distinguished Magazine Reporting, presented by the Overseas Press Club of America. The article contained these statements:

"The job of organizing and training (the Cuban defectors) was given to the CIA. It became the specific responsibility of one of the CIA's top deputies, Richard M. Bissell . . . It was taken for granted that a landing in force could not possibly be brought off unless the expedition was shepherded to the beach by the U.S. Navy and covered by air power . . . It was manifestly impossible for the Cuban Brigade's small force of B-26's (only 16 were operational) to provide effective air cover . . . Cabell (CIA Deputy Director General Charles Cabell) now asked (Secretary of State Rusk) whether . . . the U.S.S. Boxer, a carrier on station about 50 miles from the Bay of Pigs, could be instructed to provide cover. Rusk said "No." . . . At a White House meeting that night . . . a singular compromise. Jets from Boxer would provide cover next morning for exactly 1 hour, long enough for the ships to run into the shore and start unloading and for the remaining B26's to get in a hard blow. Next morning, through an incredible mischance, the B-26's were over Cuba half an hour ahead of schedule. Boxer's jets were still on the flight deck. But Castro's jets were ready. Two of the B-26's were shot down; others were hit and forced to abort. That was the melancholy end."

Our weak and vacillating policy in Laos finally bore fruit — the wrong kind. Laos is "down the drain." W. Averell Harriman, White House adviser on Southeast Asia, gave a lot of advice, and it seems to have been bad. U.S. representatives had tried to compromise the Lao dispute by suggesting a coalition government, part Communist, part "neutral." Instead, the Communist forces, identified as the Pathet Lao troops, tossing aside the Geneva "cease-fire," overran the Royal Army troops, whom our men were advising, at the northern outpost of Nam Tha, causing the U.S. Army advisers to back away from Laos.

It was the attack on Nam Tha which prompted the ordering of American forces to Thailand—to help guard that country's border against Communist encroachment. There seems to be no intention, certainly at present, to move into Laos any of the 5,000 United States marines, soldiers and airmen dispatched to Thailand. It appears we have surrendered Laos. We shouldn't have become involved in Laos in the first place unless we intended to win. Clashes are not expected between the U.S. troops and the Communist-oriented Pathet Lao troops. Neither side is seeking an encounuter. The 19,000-strong Pathet Lao forces may be able to [illegible] the numerically superior Royal Lao Army (70,000 [illegible] they aren't strong enough to take on the Thai-American forces as well. And, it is believed that the Chinese Reds, facing severe hardships at home, are in no mood just now to launch a "Korean-type war" in Southeast Asia. This condition could change, of course. But then, the long monsoon rainy season is just beginning, another discouragement to fighting. So, it looks as though it's to be another long-drawn-out stalemate.

Market Break Seen Psychological Crisis

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Johns Hopkins economist said Tuesday the stock market's recent tumble represented a psychological rather than an economic crisis, and he called for a cut in corporate taxes.

The economist, Dr. Clarence D. Long, made his remarks in a prepared statement.

Long said corporate taxes have been too high all along.

"Too much of the energy of corporations and investors has been going into tax evasion and not enough into real investment for economic progress," Long declared.

He said he preferred a corporate tax cut to an investment tax credit.

The tax reduction would create a normal business climate, which allows self-perpetuating business growth, he said.

Long is Democratic nominee for Congress from the state's 2nd District, which comprises Baltimore, Harford and Carroll counties.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

Memorial Day has come to be a day of holiday, a day of family trips, a day of rest, relaxation and pleasure for many Americans. However, we must never forget the fact that Memorial Day was originally established as a day to remember Civil War dead of this Country. Since Memorial Day has been celebrated or commemorated through two other great wars, and through the Spanish-American War and the Korean Conflict, the veterans of all wars are now remembered on Memorial Day.

But the origin of this day is in the history of the great conflict between the States. Perhaps the most moving celebration of Memorial Day in Maryland is at Sharpsburg, Washington County. There at the National Cemetery associated with the Antietam Battlefield, ceremonies are held throughout the day in commemoration of the soldiers who fought and died at Antietam.

This year Antietam will be of particular significance to all Americans because on September 17 we will celebrate its 100th anniversary. In preparation for this commemorative event, I have introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives which calls upon the President of the United States to proclaim September 17th of this year as Antietam Day, and as a memorial to the soldiers who died there, to order that flags throughout the Country should be flown at half-mast until noon on that day, and then hoisted to the peak as a symbol of the union and unity and loyalty of all the people of the United States of America.

Why was the Battle of Antietam important? Why is it important that we remember it on Memorial Day this year? I think the history of that period will tell us. The Army of the Potomac or the Northern Army, under the command of General George B. McClellan fought the Army of Northern Virginia, or the Southern Army, under the command of General Robert E. Lee at Antietam in what has been described by Civil War historians as the bloodiest single day of the war. The Battle of Antietam was notable because it was the first penetration of Union Territory by Confederate forces in any numbers and because it was one of the most decisive battles of the Civil War.

One of the springs of history that arose from the Battle of Antietam was the fact that President Lincoln felt sufficiently strong to issue an announcement that he would emancipate the slaves in this Country and thereby gave Antietam signal significance in our national history.

Internationally, Antietam was a demonstration to the world that the government of the United States in Washington was able to cope with the civil problems within the Country and is was probably the major factor in persuading France and England not to recognize the Confederacy as a separate nation.

In the battle, I think we must all recognize that both Northerners and Southerners were fighting for a concept of constitutional government by law and for the dignity of man, and the struggle to bring this concept into universal practice continues today. I feel very strongly that we should commemorate the Battle of Antietam and remember the men, the individual people who died there as heroes and the sacrifice that they made, and instill, if we can, in our generation the ideal that this nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal has, in the words of Abraham Lincoln, been tested and has endured for a full century since that awful time of Civil War.

Predict Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration said Thursday it expects to wind up the current fiscal year next month with a predicted $7 billion deficit even though anticipated tax revenues have fallen about $1 billion.

Budget Director David E. Bell told the House Ways & Means Committee the drop in revenue anticipation has been offset by a similar cut in the anticipated level of spending. The $7 billion deficit was first forecast last January.

May Cancel Plans

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) Dymo Industries said it likely will cancel previously announced plans to buy Consolidated Stamp Mfg Co. for $7.4 million in cash and Everson-Ross Co. for 8,000 shares of stock.

Lowers Prices

SCHENECTADY (UPI)—General Electric Co. has eliminated a 4 per cent discount on pile-type power distribution transformers in truckload lots. Instead the price has been cut 4 per cent regardless of quantity.

Coeducation Gains In The Colleges

American colleges and universities are undergoing silent, but perceptible, evolution toward greater coeducation. Even the once stalwart men's institutions like Harvard and Yale have taken steps toward the admission of women.

Yale has hinted that sometime in the not-too-distant future it might be tempted to admit women students, but Harvard has all but consolidated its male forces with Radcliffe.

Throughout the U.S., the story is much the same. The once predominant separate men's and women's colleges are consolidating into either coordinate or coeducational institutions. Coordinate schools have loosely combined common services, but separate classroom facilities. Coeducational schools are entirely combined.

With the cost of higher education's facilities and faculties climbing steadily, the postwar years have witnessed many attempts to consolidate services, particularly in areas where several schools are not too distant from one another. Research facilities, commonly owned and supported, are one growing facet of cooperative effort.

The consolidation of men's and women's colleges in adjoining towns is another step in the direction of greater utilization of fixed costs. But in this case it is more than a consideration of separate versus combined balance sheets. As might be expected, it is the men's schools which are making the overtures. But look out for 1964. That will be leap year.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The East Of Asia

Red China is in the uncertain stage of the Revolution. Whereas Soviet Russia has been under Communist Party control since 1917, Red China has only been under such control since 1949. Soviet Russia has won a number of victories which have convinced the Russian people of the inevitability of Russian success: Red China has, thus far, encountered principally failures. Soviet Russia became, as a result of World War II, one of the principal nations on Earth; Red China has not even been admitted into the United Nations.

As matters stand today, Red China is an outlaw, the Cain among nations. Just as the Korean War was a result of Red Chinese machinations, so are the Vietnam War, the Indonesia-Dutch War, the threat to Thailand and the Laotian War products of Red Chinese plans for expansion.

The Chienlung Line, which runs from the Ili region of Turkestan to the Bay of Bengal, is the limit of present plans for Red China's expansion. Should Red China succeed, Indian influence in Asia would be not neutralized but nullified.

Three vital factors appear in this picture:

The population of Red China is on the increase. Whether it is 400,000,000 or 600,000,000 or 900,000,000 nobody knows because no adequate, scientific census has ever been taken in China. However, the expansion of the South Chinese population in all directions is a matter of record. The density of population in Kwangtung (Canton) Province has been so great that Cantonese are to be found not only in Asiatic countries but everywhere. In Asiatic countries the process of assimilation with native peoples has been constant for centuries and therefore important areas of other nations are inhabited by peoples with Chinese affiliations.

Furthermore, the culture of China is so positively ingrained throughout the East of Asia that whether the peoples are affiliated by race or politics with China they tend to look to Peking with respect.

The third factor in this situation, that is universal in the East of Asia, is the general dislike of the White Man, the foreigner who came by sea and who lorded it over the native peoples. If one will study Chinese history, there has rarely been a decade of peace. There were always wars, civil wars, rebellions and revolutions.

Chienlung (1736-1795) ruled China for 60 years, during most of which he devoted himself to conquest. It was during his reign that China expanded to its greatest extent and it is his China which it is Mao Tze-tung's ambition to restore. His first great conquest was Chinese Turkestan. In 1724, Tibet was annexed to China, but Chienlung stabilized this situation by a series of events. It was because Tibet had become a fief that Chienlung found it necessary to defeat the Gurkhas of Nepal and to invade Nepal.

Chianlung also devoted himself to the aboriginal tribes who had occupied the Yellow and Yangtze River valleys before the Chinese (or Sons of Han, as they preferred to call themselves) conquered their territories. These aborigines found homes in South China, Indo-China, the island of Hainan and border areas. Few of these aboriginal tribes ever accepted the rule of the Chinese but lived like a nation within a nation, following their own customs and traditions.

Chienlung made war on Burma and exacted tribute from that country which accepted China's suzerainty. Then Chienlung went into Annam (North Vietnam) which had once been a province of the Ming dynasty. It was during the reign of Chienlung that British trade developed in Canton. Other countries entered this trade. American, French, Danish, Prussian, Mexican and other merchants also appeared at Canton. American trade with China started in 1784.

I have recited a few of the conquests of Chienlung to give a broad picture of the expansion of China during his 60 year reign. It is in imitation of this expansion that Red China is now moving. Interestingly, Mao Tze-tung follows directly in Chienlung's footsteps. So far as we know, Chienlung expanded his territory for glory and honor; Mao Tze-tung has other aims. They are:

1. To possess the principal rice lands of Asia to assure his enormous population of food;
2. To have control of the South Pacific and of the Indian Oceans;
3. To develop the third largest nation on Earth as a challenge to the two stronger countries, the United States and Soviet Russia.

First Negro Cabinet Appointment Will Mark Century Of Emancipation

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has decided to appoint Robert C. Weaver, Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, as the first Negro member of the cabinet in history. The appointment will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the ending of slavery in the United States.

Weaver's name will be sent to the Senate, according to present plans, on the same day Abraham Ribicoff tenders his resignation as Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare to run for the Senate in Connecticut.

Weaver, who is 55 years old and a Harvard graduate, has spent most of his life in government service, beginning under Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes as advisor on Negro affairs. He served under Roosevelt as special assistant on housing, and held various wartime posts with the War Production Board and Office of Production Management.

His most important work prior to joining the Kennedy Administration was as Deputy Housing Commissioner of New York State and rent administrator for New York.

President Kennedy is timing Weaver's appointment to precede the one hundredth anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation, signed by Abraham Lincoln, Jan. 1, 1863.

Negro Achievements

While the appointment of the first Negro cabinet member will rank as the most important political achievement of the Negro race to date, there have been other notable achievements in the period since emancipation, many of them ignored or forgotten.

The first American doctor to perform a heart operation was Daniel Hale Williams of Chicago, a charter member of the College of Surgeons. It was in 1893 that the Medical Journal gave Dr. Williams international renown by recounting that he had successfully operated on the human heart, previously regarded as inaccessible to a surgeon's blade.

The inventor of the stop light which regulates traffic in hundreds of American cities is a Negro, Garrett Augustis Morgan of Cleveland. Morgan also invented a gas mask for smoke protection which saved the lives of a group of men working below the bottom of Lake Erie on July 26, 1916.

Jan Ernest Matzelinger, a Negro living in Lynn, Mass., invented the first machine for sewing the soles of shoes to uppers, a patent which revolutionized the shoe industry and reduced the cost of making shoes about 50 per cent.

Granville T. Woods of Cincinnati, another Negro inventor, and one of the greatest in American history, masterminded some of the key patents used on electrical railroads, air brakes, and electrical control. He also patented an incubator and various amusement machines.

J. H. and S. L. Dickinson of New Jersey hold a dozen patents for mechanical appliances used in player pianos. C. V. Richey of Washington, D. C., invented devices for registering telephone calls. William Douglass of Arkansas secured six patents on harvesting machines.

Recently, two Negro judges, William Hastie of Philadelphia and Thurgood Marshall of New York, have been appointed to the U. S. Court of Appeals, and a Negro, George Weaver, is now serving as Assistant Secretary of Labor in the Kennedy Administration.

Landon Advises

Alf Landon, his face still as frank and open as the sunflower which became the symbol of his 1936 campaign for President, gave some blunt advice the other day to 20 Republican Congressmen who went into a political huddle with him. He also gave some separate advice to President Kennedy.

"It was great foolishness," he said in his flat, midwestern twang, "for the Republican Party to tie itself to the right-to-work bill in 1958. It cost us 16 Senators, and we are still suffering from an anti-labor image.

"The Republican Party's great mistake," he added, "was that it took its cue from the NAM (National Association of Manufacturers) instead of the free-enterprise system.

"The NAM," he declared ringingly, "doesn't stand for free enterprise or freedom. The Republican Party should be the party of free enterprise. It shouldn't tie itself to the NAM."

The 1936 GOP Presidential candidate, who made one of his rare trips out of Kansas to confer with President Kennedy about reciprocal trade, warned the Republican Congressmen that the party's political fortunes depended upon their voting record.

He blamed his own defeat in 1936 upon the party's negative record in Congress during the 1932-36 period.

"A candidate," he said, "is tied to the record his party makes in the Congress during the preceding four years."

He also contended that the Republican Party didn't get its anti-labor image from battling for the Taft-Hartley labor reforms. Responsible labor leaders, he suggested, privately wanted the Taft-Hartley law just as responsible businessmen wanted the Securities and Exchange Commission to police business abuses.

It was the GOP stand on right-to-work, he said, that got the party into trouble with the workingmen. He charged that the right-to-work bill was "a deliberate attempt to hobble labor.

Note — Landon also had some advice for President Kennedy during their private White House conference. He warned that Kennedy, by stepping into the middle between labor and management, would find himself the umpire in all big labor disputes. "And everyone wants to kill the umpire," grinned Landon.

Stock Market Finally Has Day Of Reckoning

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The stock market's operations are often regarded as a harbinger of things to come and not as a reflection of the past. It would be much more realistic, however, to appraise the recent decline in the value of stocks as the troubled manifestation of the present—namely, the state of mind in the world today. It should be noted that European and Canadian stock markets have also been declining in the last few days.

There's always a tendency to overlook the obvious and to search for some scapegoat or single circumstance to hold responsible. It was the same back in 1929, when almost everybody blamed President Hoover and thought the whole trouble was in this country. Yet the breakdown in confidence was worldwide. It was a major convulsion growing out of the attempts of Europe and America for a decade to adjust to the consequences of World War I.

The world has been trying recently to adjust to the economic disturbances that have emerged with the "cold war." Artificial rather than natural factors predominate. Billions of dollars of aid have been flowing annually from the United States to Europe and consequently many of the European countries have achieved an encouraging rate of economic growth.

But today there's a pause—as if everybody is trying to find what direction to take. America, as the leading economic force in the world, is herself enveloped in uncertainty. There is some slight comfort in the fact that war tensions have eased in recent months and that economic troubles are prevalent, too, in the Soviet Union and the Communist-bloc countries.

Although the European "common market" idea has received worldwide attention, it has been oversimplified. There has become imbedded in the psychology of public opinion in different countries the erroneous theory that one day the "Common Market" treaty can be signed and soon thereafter an economic utopia will somehow be achieved. Disillusionment now has set in as the complexity and true proportions of the whole problem are revealed.

For it is becoming apparent now that, when tariffs and quotas of the principal countries of the world are revised, even slowly, there is inevitably a period of hesitation and readjustment in business planning.

The stock market is prospective more than it is retrospective. It wants to wait and see the trend—how some of the intricate relationships in multilateral as well as bilateral trade will work out in practice. It is important to anticipate just what industries will be hurt, where unemployment will result, and what remedial measures can be taken.

But even if the trade picture were not filled with uncertainty, there are other factors that cause stock markets to look to the future with caution. One of these is the value of the monetary unit. World history has shown that, despite the glibly expressed doctrines of many theorists and academicians, a government's spending of more dollars than are taken in every year results in a tendency to devalue the currency and to create more and more paper money. America hasn't paid off any of her big war debt or shown the slightest tendency to do so. The talk is always about increasing the public debt itself.

So now, as always happens when fundamentals are neglected, there is a "gold problem." Shall the dollar be devalued in terms of gold? The debate centers on the outflow of gold. The President calls it the "balance of payment" problem. But basically it is an old-fashioned day of reckoning that seems to be approaching. The United States cannot keep on pouring out her gold in "giveaways" to the rest of the world and maintain a sound currency at home.

Meanwhile, inside the United States there is economic trouble. The change to a new administration in 1961 accentuated an already growing uncertainty. Since last December, stock market values have declined about $112 billion.

At a time when businessmen are groping for an economic equilibrium through natural factors, the national government under President Kennedy has started a number of disturbing moves. It has endorsed the fatal policies of the new deal on "pump-priming"—a remedy that never worked. It has discouraged businessmen. Also, the Administration has not only concerned itself with a few "tax havens" abroad that should have been removed long ago, but has taken a broad swipe at American business abroad and has almost wrecked the planning of many business enterprises overseas. Tax reforms inside the United States have long been overdue, but are not being tackled comprehensively.

So on the foreign-trade front, on the taxation front, on the price front, and, last but not least, on the wage front, there is a state of mind which is not conducive to planning in a free-enterprise system. The creation of more jobs has been lost sight of as an objective, even as labor leaders clamor for a 35-hour week with the same pay for the workmen as a 40-hour week—a proposal with which the President has not come to grips.

Mr. Kennedy and his policies are in the main not to blame for all the uncertainty that has hit American business and has caused unsettlement in the stock market. But he is responsible for the current delay in instituting sound policies to steer this country through a worldwide readjustment that has brought on a state of mind which strongly resembles the lack of confidence that swept from Europe to American in the late 1920's.

Not words alone but only acts that bring confidence will prevent the 1960's from witnessing the same kind of demoralization that was experienced 30 years ago.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FACTOTUM — Through the years, the doorkeeper of the House has become the symbol of the man who can do anything in a pinch. The present holder of that exalted job is William H. (Fishbait) Miller, who daily lives up to the high standards set by his predecessors.

Fishbait can supply a paper clip, a pen, or even a cigaret to a hard-pressed legislator. He's known around the House as "Mr. Fixit." But the other day, he rose above even his own high standards of performance.

House majority whip, Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., broke his glasses in the midst of debate on an important bill. He hailed Fishbait and asked him to rush them downtown and have them fixed. Boggs urged the utmost speed and said he'd need them in two hours.

Unflinching, Fishbait took the fractured specs and handed his own to Boggs, saying, "While I'm gone, try these." Boggs put them on and they were fine, except that he couldn't see out of the lower half of the bifocals.

"Just look through the top, then, while I'm gone." said Fishbait, the man with all the solutions. And so for two hours, Boggs leered over the top of his borrowed glasses, but the important matters of government moved on unabated.

HUMOR IN HIGH PLACES— Roger Blough, chairman of the board of U. S. Steel, is also president of the Business Council, a graup of top-drawer industrial executives that periodically confers with government officials to swap information on the outlook of the economy.

Blough has held the center of the business and economic stage since he marched up the hill and down again on the matter of a steel price increase. He suffered a bruising defeate and one would think that he would be extremely sensitive. But at a recent meeting of the council, Blough made the following remark during a speech:

"I'm thinking of changing the name of the U. S. Steel Hour to "The Price Is Right."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Some of my best friends are books. In the time that I was away, watching my father fight his way up to a brazen flirtation with his nurses, some publishers kindly sent new books to the house. These piled up, like gold coins in a miser's purse, and I must tell you about some of them.

There is a new novel by John O'Hara called "The Big Laugh." O'Hara is one of the great American writers—in many ways greater over the long career than Hemingway and Faulkner — and his subject this time is a man who decides to become a motion picture star because there is nothing better to do. O'Hara's portrait of Hollywood in the 1930's is authentic and merciless.

Arline Boucher and John Tehan are a marital team. They have written a biography called "Prince of Democracy: James Cardinal Gibbons." He was a mild, disarming man, archbishop of Baltimore at a time when the Catholic Church was regarded with suspicion by many Americans. Ironically, Gibbons was one of the first supporters of separation of church and state. In death, he grows bigger.

"Tell Dublin I Miss Her" is an autobiography by Dominic Behan, brother of the leaning Brendan. It is a well-written assortment of recollections. It opens on the Easter Rebellion of 1916, from which point all Irish history starts, moving forward or back. Dominic, I think, is a better writer than his brother, although this is damning him with faint praise indeed.

One of the best documented of recent books is "Ploesti," an account of the great and disastrous air raid on the Roumanian oil fields in August 1943. It was written by James Dugan and Carroll Stewart and it deserves a broader audience than it is getting. Any non-fiction books is improved by painstaking research, and this one is researched into the ground.

The most glamorous house in the world is the Executive Mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C., Nanette Kutner beat many other writers to the literary draw by writing "The White House Saga," a colorful history of the place and a few of the families who have lived there.

One of my favorite writers, Ruth Montgomery, has written a book called "Once There Was a Nun." It is the story of Mary, the daughter of Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada. She is, I would guess, the only woman in the world who can say that she was a nun for 32 years, and returned to secular life to take care of her chronically ill mother and sister. A dramatic story.

More and more, publishers are having books written about topical events. Putnam has one, written by Beth Day, called "Passage Perilous." It's the story of the Santa Maria, the cruise ship which was hijacked by Portuguese rebels. Then there is Ballantine Books new paperback: "The Cuban Invasion," by Tad Szulc and Karl Meyer.

Paperbacks are, of course, big business, and they have been earning big profits on books about World War II. Some of the best can be read only in soft covers. "The Battle of Leyte Gulf," by Stan Smith, and "The Divine Wind" are examples. "The Divine Wind" is, of course, the story of the Japanese Kamikaze pilots as told by a Japanese.

"The Night Hamburg Died," written by Martin Caidin, is the first detailed report of what fire raids did to Germany's second largest city in one week. The holocaust killed about as many people—70,000—as the atom bomb did at Hiroshima, but it drew no attention until Ballantine Books published the story.

The American Bible Society has printed a large soft cover book called "The New Testament (King James Version)." It isn't new. I have two copies of it under the title: "The Good News," and I've had them for years. It is basically a book of photographs of Jerusalem and Nazareth and the areas between.

It can be heartily recommended to all Christians who subscribe to the King James version of the Bible. I have visited the Holy Land twice and I do not know of any other book which gives an insight to what the holy places look like.

"Crusade Against Crime" is a book of law-enforcement stories edited by Jerry D. Lewis. It's a series of factual who-dunits written by such diverse men as J. Edgar Hoover, Morris Ernst, Alan Hynd and Don Whitehead. The last of the new books is "O'Neill," a biography of playwright Eugene O'Neill, written by Arthur and Barbara Gelb. The only item against it is the price: $12.50.

Reading a book is still the cheapest way of visiting far off places and meeting interesting people . . .

A Spare Organ Can Create Serious Problems

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons wish they had an extra stomach or a spare heart. It sounds like a good idea but persons with duplicated organs are handicapped because the standby usually is defective. The exception is an extra toe or finger, which may be regarded as a prized possession.

Some children are born with a duplication of various parts of the gastrointestinal tract. Something goes wrong when the esophagus, stomach, or intestine is being formed long before birth. The youngster comes into the world with a double stomach, a second small intestine, or two colons. This sounds harmless but creates problems that become serious and often require surgery.

Dr. Chris T. Oeconomopoulos and Dr. Orvar Swenson, Chicago surgeons, recently reported their experiences with 13 children bothered along this line. One was a 7 year old girl with abdominal distention and anemia caused by bleeding. The usual tests failed to explain the cause and an exploratory operation was performed.

The child had an extra stomach that was connected to the real McCoy. The surgeons removed the duplicate and the child recovered rapidly. It was a useless appendage that was not digesting food; in addition, it was a source of bleeding.

A one month old infant was sent to the hospital because of wheezing and difficulty in feeding. The boy had an extra esophagus (gullet) that occupied almost three-fourths of the chest and crowded the lungs and blood vessels.

Another youngster had an extra small intestine. Surgery cured these children as well as others with comparable spare parts.

BOTULINUS TOXIN

E. H. writes: Several persons died on a TV program and the cause was traced to botulism from home canned apricots. I always thought that this infection applied only to vegetables and not to fruit. Please straighten me out.

REPLY

Today most outbreaks of botulism occur from the use of home canned foods, including fruits. The casusative bacilli are found in a great variety of foodstuffs, both of plant and animal origin, and generate a powerful toxin or poison in the food, often before being cooked. The microorganisms and the poison are resistant to heat and it is the toxin that produces the symptoms.

EXERCISE AND ARTHRITIS

R. S. writes: Will dancing and bowling help or harm a person with osteoarthritis?

REPLY

This depends upon the joints involved. Dancing and bowling are painful when the knees are affected. Arthritis of the elbows or fingers must be a handicap when bowling. But these activities are advisable when they do not aggravate distress.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Lynn Farnol was invited to spend a weekend with a friend in the Scottish Highlands. The host was considered very frugal, even by his neighbors, and Farnol soon began to feel very hungry indeed.

On the second morning of his stay, as he appeared in the dining room, his host called out cheerily from the kitchen, "Lynn, my lad! And how would you like your egg for breakfast this misty morning?" Farnol answered grimly, "With another egg, if you please."

"Why," Ardie Deutsch was asked, "did you send that brand new pressure cooker to the rummage sale?"

"It may look like a pressure cooker to you," explained Deutsch, "but in the hands of my wife, it's a secret weapon. Last Wednesday she shot a pot roast into outer space."

The Missoula Lumber Company has achieved noteworthy results with this offbeat collection letter to delinquent accounts: "It has been said that a man who squeezes a dollar never squeezes his wife. In looking over your account, it has occurred to us that your wife is not getting the attention she deserves."

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

Memorial Day has come to be a day of holiday, a day of family trips, a day of rest, relaxation and pleasure for many Americans. However, we must never forget the fact that Memorial Day was originally established as a day to remember Civil War dead of this Country. Since Memorial Day has been celebrated or commemorated through two other great wars, and through the Spanish-American War and the Korean Conflict, the veterans of all wars are now remembered on Memorial Day.

But the origin of this day is in the history of the great conflict between the States. Perhaps the most moving celebration of Memorial Day in Maryland is at Sharpsburg, Washington County. There at the National Cemetery associated with the Antietam Battlefield, ceremonies are held throughout the day in commemoration of the soldiers who fought and died at Antietam.

This year Antietam will be of particular significance to all Americans because on September 17 we will celebrate its 100th anniversary. In preparation for this commemorative event, I have introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives which calls upon the President of the United States to proclaim September 17th of this year as Antietam Day, and as a memorial to the soldiers who died there, to order that flags throughout the Country should be flown at half-mast until noon on that day, and then hoisted to the peak as a symbol of the union and unity and loyalty of all the people of the United States of America.

Why was the Battle of Antietam important? Why is it important that we remember it on Memorial Day this year? I think the history of that period will tell us. The Army of the Potomac or the Northern Army, under the command of General George B. McClellan fought the Army of Northern Virginia, or the Southern Army, under the command of General Robert E. Lee at Antietam in what has been described by Civil War historians as the bloodiest single day of the war. The Battle of Antietam was notable because it was the first penetration of Union Territory by Confederate forces in any numbers and because it was one of the most decisive battles of the Civil War.

One of the springs of history that arose from the Battle of Antietam was the fact that President Lincoln felt sufficiently strong to issue an announcement that he would emancipate the slaves in this Country and thereby gave Antietam signal significance in our national history.

Internationally, Antietam was a demonstration to the world that the government of the United States in Washington was able to cope with the civil problems within the Country and is was probably the major factor in persuading France and England not to recognize the Confederacy as a separate nation.

In the battle, I think we must all recognize that both Northerners and Southerners were fighting for a concept of constitutional government by law and for the dignity of man, and the struggle to bring this concept into universal practice continues today. I feel very strongly that we should commemorate the Battle of Antietam and remember the men, the individual people who died there as heroes and the sacrifice that they made, and instill, if we can, in our generation the ideal that this nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal has, in the words of Abraham Lincoln, been tested and has endured for a full century since that awful time of Civil War.

Predict Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration said Thursday it expects to wind up the current fiscal year next month with a predicted $7 billion deficit even though anticipated tax revenues have fallen about $1 billion.

Budget Director David E. Bell told the House Ways & Means Committee the drop in revenue anticipation has been offset by a similar cut in the anticipated level of spending. The $7 billion deficit was first forecast last January.

May Cancel Plans

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) Dymo Industries said it likely will cancel previously announced plans to buy Consolidated Stamp Mfg Co. for $7.4 million in cash and Everson-Ross Co. for 8,000 shares of stock.

Lowers Prices

SCHENECTADY (UPI)—General Electric Co. has eliminated a 4 per cent discount on pile-type power distribution transformers in truckload lots. Instead the price has been cut 4 per cent regardless of quantity.

Week's Food Economies

June is Dairy Month. Durin June, milk production and the su; ply of dairy products are at : seasonal peak. Milk and product of the industry are among th best food buys, says Virginia Mc Luckie, food econonist in the Ba: timore office of the University o Maryland Department of Mar kets.

Milk is outstanding for the quality of its body building proteins its bone-building calcium an health-promoting vitamin ribofla vin. What milk contributes cannot be replaced by any other one food. Short yourself on regular use of milk and you short yourself on essential nutrients.

The following recommendations are made for the amount of milk or its equivalents needed daily: Children four glasses; teenagers hree to four glasses; and adults wo glasses. In addition to fluid nilk other milk products may be sed as part of the daily needs.

One of the things we take as a natter of course is the seemingly nlimited supply of wholesome fluid milk. Rigid Health Depart nent regulations are set for conlitions under which farmers pro luce and ship milk to processing plants. Periodical health examina ions are required for cows in the produceng herd to insure that milk is coming from disease-free animals. The cow yard, the milking barn, the milk house and the equipment must comply with standards of cleanliness and sanitation. The persons doing the milking and working with the farm dairy must also comply with health standards. The cost of operaton for farmers to produce high quality milk using modern equipment and refrigeration is really much greater than is realized.

Processing plants pasturize milk, botle and jug it, and deliver it to retail outlets or to homes using modern machinery and refrigeration. This combination means consumers are assured of an adequate milk supply at attractive prices.

Eggs are an exceptional value. Grade A Large Eggs are recommended. Other protein foods suggested are cured pork products, particularly ham. Steak sales are attractive.

The best produce buys are asparagus, sweet corn and tomatoes. Peppers and cucumbers are lower in price. Strawberries are the best fruit buy. Frozen orange juice is lower in cost.

Swiss Steak With Rice

- 1½ pounds round steak
- Flour
- Salt and pepper
- ¼ cup bacon drippings or other fat
- 1 large onion, thinly sliced
- 1 green pepper, diced
- ½ cup uncooked rice
- 2 cups well-drained canned tomatoes
- 1½ cups water
- ½ cup California Burgandy or Claret

Have steak cut about 1½ inches thick. Mix ½ cup flour, 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper; using a wooden mallet, a hammer or the edge of a heavy plate, pound mixture into both sides of steak. Cut steak in 4 pieces. Heat bacon drippings in a large skillet; add meat, onion and green pepper; cook until meat is nicely browned, turning to brown both sides. Transfer meat, onion and green pepper to a baking dish. Sprinkle rice over meat; arrange tomatoes over the top. Add 2 tablespoons flour to drippings in skillet and blend well; add water and wine; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens; season with salt and pepper. Pour over contents of casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 1¾ to 2 hours, or until meat is very tender.

Frozen Fruit Cake

Defrost a (10-oz.) package of frozen blueberries, a (13½-oz.) container of frozen grapefruit sections, and a (10-oz.) package of frozen raspberries.

Prepare a single layer of cake in advance and cool it before making meringue "nest" to top it. Make meringue as for a pie topping: Beat 3 egg whites with ½ teaspoon vanilla and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar with electric mixer or rotary egg beater until softly fluffy. Add 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, and beat until mixture is stiff and shiny. Spoon meringue onto outer edges of cake and barely cover the center with it. Sprinkle with shredded coconut and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 12 to 15 minutes or until delicately browned. Cool.

Store in refrigerator until ready to serve. Drain the fruit thoroughly (each fruit separately) and arrange in meringue. Use juicve from fruit to make punches and ades.

Variety In Kabobs Adds Popularity

Kabobs — bite-sized foods, meats, vegetables and fruits, threaded on skewers and broiled —are fun to prepare and delicious to eat.

One reason is that there is endless possibility for food combinations chosen for variety of flavor and colorful arrangement. Another is that the kabobs are well adapted for outdoor cooking, so popular everywhere when the weather permits.

Any meat tender enough for broiling can be used for kabobs. It must be cut in small pieces. Lamb is a popular choice, as are cooked ham and bacon. Bacon strips are often threaded under and over the other foods. Frankfurters, cut in sections, luncheon meats, in cubes, salami and bologna are other suggestions for kabobs.

Among the vegetables are tomato wedges, cucumber slices, mushroom caps, celery pieces, cauliflowerettes, pickles, olives or small cooked onions. Pineapple chunks, banana pieces and spiced crab apples are a few fruit favorites for kabobs.

Kabobs can be broiled in the oven, of course, and a tasty combination of meat and vegetables and fruit makes a fine luncheon dish for a party, or a quick and easy supper for the family.

For added flavor, the meat cubes may be marinated overnight in French dressing, and the vegetables can be brushed with the dressing when put on the skewers.

Cheeseburger Casserole

- 1 lb. ground beef
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
- ¼ cup catsup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 8-oz. pkg. pasteurized American cheese slices
- 1 can refrigerated rolls with sesame seeds

Cook meat and onion until lightly browned. Stir in tomato sauce, catsup and seasoning. Alternate layers of meat mixture and cheese in a 2-quart casserole, ending with cheese. Place rolls around edge of casserole. Bake at 400 degrees, 20 to 25 minutes or until rolls are golden brown. Serve hot.

The Canary Islands got their name from canis, the Latin word for dog. Early explorers found a ferocious breed there. Canary birds, in turn, were named for the islands.

Wheat Flake Crepes

Chicken filled whole wheat flake crepes are an easy gourmet treat that will add glamour to a springtime luncheon. Complete the menu with fresh asparagus and Bermuda onion salad, bran muffins, and pineapple wedges with fresh strawberries. Such a spring luncheon is bound to bring you compliments.

Versatile breakfast cereals not only add variety and interest to your cooking, but they increase the nutritive value by the addition of protein, B vitamins, and minerals.

Whole Wheat Flake Crepes Filling and Sauce

- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (10½ ounce) cream of mushroom or celery soup
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon chervil
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 tablespoon diced pimiento
- 1 cup coarsely chopped cooked chicken

Crepes

- 1 cup prepared pancake mix
- 2 cups milk
- 2 eggs
- 3 tablespoons cooking oil or melted shortening
- 1½ cups whole wheat flakes crushed to make 1 cup

Make filling and sauce. Saute onion in butter or margarine until soft, not brown. Add soup, milk and chervil; stir and heat. Add cheese and pimiento; stir until cheese is melted. Add pimiento and chicken to 1 cup soup mixture. Keep chicken mixture and sauce warm while making crepes. Make crepes. Combine pancake mix, milk, eggs, and oil or shortening. Beat until smooth. Stir in cereal flakes. Pour ¼ cup batter onto moderately hot griddle; cook until brown on one side, edges dry and top covered with bubbles; Turn; cook second side. Spread crepes with chicken filling; roll up. Arrange on serving sauce. Yield: 4 to 6 servings (2 to 3 crepes per serving).

Hamburger Loaf

- 2 beaten eggs
- 1 c. rolled bread crumbs
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 Tbsps. Steak Sauce
- 1 tsp. salt
- ¾ c. milk

Mix ingredients in order given and pack in 5" x 9" loaf pan or 8" ring mold. Bake 45 minutes at 350°. Turn out on platter. Surround loaf or fill center of ring with cooked rice, peas or sauteed mushrooms. Makes 6 servings.

Individual Strawberry Baked Alaskas

To make baked Alaskas for 6 people, you will need to double the amount of egg whites, sugar cream of tartar, and vanilla listed above for meringue, and you use a hot, quick oven. First, however, you remove a (10-oz.) package of frozen sliced or halved strawberries from their zero storage and let them stand just one hour at room temperature. Meanwhile, cut six cake squares and place on individual doilies on cooky sheet. Allowing 5 to 10 minuest before time to serve, heat oven to hot (450 deg. F.) Cut the rectangle of frozen strawberries into 6 squares and arrange on cake. Cover top and sides of strawberries and cake completely with meringue and bake in hot oven for 5 minutes. Using spatula, transfer servings to chilled dessert plates and serve at once. Serves six. (These Alaskas can stand as much as 20-30 minutes before serving if necessary.)

Spring days call for ham. We like to select a center slice of ham about 1 inch thick and place it in a deep baking dish. Then we spread it with a glaze made by combining ¼ c. brown sugar, 2 Tbsps. steak sauce, 1 Tbsp. mustard and 1 tsp. powdered cloves. Next we pour 1 pint of milk around the ham and bake at 350° for 40 minutes. Makes 4-6 servings.

Jubilant Jubilee Combines Preserves And Chicken

Put the preserve jar to the test and you'll find it will work wonders for you. Combine this with the knowledge that chicken is as variable as Old Faithful — if you give it a chance — to set the scene for introducing this exciting dinner dish at your house.

As fancy as the most elegant French food, as pretty as a picture, and as substantial and satisfying as the heartiest of meals, this jubilant chicken takes on a whole crowd or a family with equal success. Serve it with a large bowl of rice to spoon the extra cherry sauce over, asparagus spears, and a crisp tossed salad for a complete menu you'll call on again and again.

There's a touch of intrigue in the seasonings of this dish and a decorative color and composition that few main courses can claim. Select a meaty fryer/broiler chicken for this real gourmet dinner that's easy to prepare.

CHERRY CHICKEN

- 1 jar (12 ounce) cherry preserves
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 4—6 whole cloves
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon mace
- ⅓ cup butter, margarine or shortening
- 4 chicken quarters or 1 chicken (3 lb.) cut into quarters, cleaned

Combine preserves, vinegar, cloves, ¼ teaspoon salt, allspice and mace in saucepan; mix well. Keep hot over low heat to blend flavors (about 10 minutes). Heat butter, margarine or shortening in fry pan over low heat; brown chicken quarters on one side. Turn and sprinkle remaining ½ teaspoon salt evenly over chicken. Brown remaining side; cover and cook until almost tender. Drain off fat; pour half cherry sauce over chicken. Cover and finish cooking. Arrange chicken in serving dish and pour rest of sauce over chicken. Yield: 4 servings.

Ham'N Asparagus Au Gratin

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 cups corn flakes crushed to 1½ cups
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash of white pepper
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup half and half (milk and cream)
- ½ pound boiled, canned or baked ham, ¼-inch thick, cut into 4 serving portions
- 1 pound asparagus, spears or pieces, cooked and drained

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add onion and cook slowly until onion is soft, not brown. Remove from heat. Stir in corn flakes, ¼ teaspoon salt, and cheese; continue stirring until flakes are evenely coated. Set aside. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Blend in flour, mustard, remaining ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Add milk and half and half; cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Arrange ham and asparagus in 4 shallow individual casseroles; pour sauce over asparagus and top with cereal-cheese mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) until heated, about 12 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

The long thin cigars known as "stogies" got their name because they were designed for the needs of the Conestoga, Pennsylvania, wagon drivers who wanted a large, inexpensive cigar.

Cheese Tops Braised Round Steak

Round steak is one of the most popular main dishes in many homes. Less tender than steaks cut from beef loins or ribs, which can be broiled, round steak is cooked slowly in moist heat to make it very tender.

This method of cooking (braising) offers a chance for enhancing the flavor of the meat through seasonings in the liquid in which it is cooked.

A home economist suggests, as a variation, topping the round steak with parsley and grated cheese during the last few minutes of cooking time.

Steak Fromage

- 1 beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ¾ cup water
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ⅓ cup grated cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cut steak into 8 to 10 pieces. Pound to ¼ inch thickness. Mix together flour, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Dredge steak in seasoned flour. Sprinkle any remaining flour over steak. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water and onion. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Sprinkle cheese and parsley over meat. Cover and simmer 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese is melted. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

Wife Preservers

Berries and cherries are best stored whole, unwashed, unstemmed and uncovered in the refrigerator until ready to use. Previous stemming increases spoilage and decreases food value.

A broken dish can be mended by melting powdered alum in a spoon over a flame, then rubbing it quickly over the broken edges.

A wine stain is best removed by sprinkling with salt, then pouring boiling water through it from a distance of two or three feet.

Basement and attic stairways are the wrong places to save on electricity. Such stairs should not only be kept clear of "parked" objects, but should be well lighted with high-wattage bulbs.

Butter, margarine, fats and oils need protection from light and air as well as from heat. Store them tightly wrapped or covered in the refrigerator, and use within two weeks if possible.

Meat Lends New Flavor

Do you need to resort to coaxing sometimes to get the youngsters to eat a well-balanced meal?

The appetizing flavor of meat, extended to vegetables, is one of the best "persuaders".

Beef-Zucchini Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
- 6 small zucchini squash
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ½ cup cracker crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Wash zucchini and cut off ends. Cook whole zucchini in boiling salted water for about 8 minutes. Drain zucchini and cut into ½-inch slices. Cook onion in lard or drippings about 3 minutes. Add ground beef and cook until very lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Stir in crumbs, salt, pepper and oregano. Remove from heat. Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Add cheese and stir until melted. Place half of zucchini slices in bottom of a greased 2-quart baking dish. Add half of beef mixture, then half of cheese sauce. Repeat layers. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 25 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Sesame English Muffins

- 4 large English muffins
- 3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds

Split muffins and spread with soft butter; place on a cookie sheet. Sprinkle with toasted sesame. Toast in a hot oven (400°F.) for ten minutes, or until brown. Serve hot.

Yield: 4 servings.

Week's Food Economies

June is Dairy Month. Durir June, milk production and the su; ply of dairy products are at seasonal peak. Milk and product of the industry are among th best food buys, says Virginia Mc Luckie, food econonist in the Ba timore office of the University o Maryland Department of Mar kets.

Milk is outstanding for the quali ty of its body building proteins its bone-building calcium an health-promoting vitamin ribofla vin. What milk contributes cannot be replaced by any other one food. Short yourself on regular use of milk and you short your self on essential nutrients.

The following recommendations are made for the amount of milk or its equivalents needed daily: Children four glasses; teenagers hree to four glasses; and adults wo glasses. In addition to fluid ilk other milk products may be sed as part of the daily needs.

One of the things we take as a natter of course is the seemingly nlimited supply of wholesome fluid milk. Rigid Health Depart nent regulations are set for con litions under which farmers pro luce and ship milk to processing plants. Periodical health examina ions are required for cows in the produceng herd to insure that milk is coming from disease-free animals. The cow yard, the milk ing barn, the milk house and the equipment must comply with standards of cleanliness and sani tation. The persons doing the milking and working with the farm dairy must also comply wth health standards. The cost of operaton for farmers to pro duce high quality milk using modern equipment and refrigera tion is really much greater than is realized.

Processing plants pasturize milk, botle and jug it, and deliver it to retail outlets or to homes using modern machinery and re frigeration. This combination means consumers are assured of an adequate milk supply at at tractive prices.

Eggs are an exceptional value. Grade A Large Eggs are recom mended. Other protein foods sug gested are cured pork products, particularly ham. Steak sales are attractive.

The best produce buys are as paragus, sweet corn and toma toes. Peppers and cucumbers are lower in price. Strawberries are the best fruit buy. Frozen orange juice is lower in cost.

Sprinkle with shredded coconut and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 12 to 15 minutes or until delicately browned. Cool.

Store in refrigerator until ready to serve. Drain the fruit thoroughly (each fruit separately) and arrange in meringue. Use juicve from fruit to make punches and ades.

Variety In Kabobs Adds Popularity

Kabobs — bite-sized foods, meats, vegetables and fruits, hreaded on skewers and broiled —are fun to prepare and delicious o eat.

One reason is that there is endless possibility for food com binations chosen for variety of lavor and colorful arrangement. Another is that the kabobs are well adapted for outdoor cook ng, so popular everywhere when the weather permits.

Any meat tender enough for broiling can be used for kabobs. It must be cut in small pieces. Lamb is a popular choice, as are cooked ham and bacon. Bacon strips are often threaded under and over the other foods. Frank furters, cut in sections, luncheon meats, in cubes, salami and bol ogna are other suggestions for kabobs.

Among the vegetables are to mato wedges, cucumber slices, mushroom caps, celery pieces, cauliflowerettes, pickles, olives or small cooked onions. Pineapple chunks, banana pieces and spiced crab apples are a few fruit fav orites for kabobs.

Kabobs can be broiled in the oven, of course, and a tasty com bination of meat and vegetables and fruit makes a fine luncheon dish for a party, or a quick and easy supper for the family.

For added flavor, the meat cubes may be marinated over night in French dressing, and the vegetables can be brushed with the dressing when put on the skewers.

Pioneer Health

For many years, Mr. Dowling took an active part in the Upper Potomac River Board, the area organization which worked to improve the quality of water in the North Branch of the Potomac until the task was taken over by the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Among his hobbies has been the keeping of scrapbooks which tell the history of public health work in this area.

He resides with his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Heller, at 792 Fayette Street. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Dowling, died in 1951.

Resolutions lauding his work have been passed by both the City of Cumberland and the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Retirement from the Allegany County Health Department will not end Barney's efforts in public health, as he plans to continue in the health field with other organizations in Allegany County.

Lightning Hits Power Line

Electrical service to the North End and Corriganville areas, knocked out by a thunderstorm which hit this area early Wednesday night, was back to normal yesterday.

The bolt of lightning hit a main transmission line near the Potomac Edison Company's River Plant, burning off two conductors and four feeder lines.

Power was off for 34 minutes, beginning at 6:58 p. m., affecting customers in the North End and the Corriganville area.

PE line crews worked until 4:50 a. m. yesterday to repair the damage.

Lightning hit the same line near the plant during a May 23 thunderstorm and caused considerable damage.

My Myers asked those persons who still have the containers to call PA 2-2145 and someone will pick them up.

Margaret Fleckenstein, Catholic Daughters of America award; Peggy Jo Mackert, citizenship award sponsored by the Knights of Columbus; Sarah Fresh, perfect attendance award, and Carol Aldridge, Sarah Fresh, Margaret Hudson, Mary Louise Knight and Jennifer McLean, awards for perfect attendance at Glee Club over a four-year period.

Peggy Jo Mackert, Bernadette Morrissey and Margaret Fleckenstein, certificates of merit for service to the Allegany County Youth Commission.

Muffins

Mix and sift 1¼ c. flour, ¼ c. sugar, ½ tsp. salt and 4 tsps. baking powder. Add ¾ c. oat cereal, 1 beaten egg, 1 c. milk and 3 Tbsps. melted shortening. Beat well and pour into greased muffin tins. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in oven at 400°. Makes 9 large muffins.

Spring days call for ham. We like to select a center slice of ham about 1 inch thick and place it in a deep baking dish. Then we spread it with a glaze made by combining ¼ c. brown sugar, 2 Tbsps. steak sauce, 1 Tbsp. mustard and 1 tsp. powdered cloves. Next we pour 1 pint of milk around the ham and bake at 350° for 40 minutes. Makes 4 - 6 servings.

Jubilant Jubilee Combines Preserves And Chicken

Put the preserve jar to the test and you'll find it will work wonders for you. Combine this with the knowledge that chicken is as variable as Old Faithful — if you give it a chance — to set the scene for introducing this exciting dinner dish at your house.

As fancy as the most elegant French food, as pretty as a picture, and as substantial and satisfying as the heartiest of meals, this jubilant chicken takes on a whole crowd or a family with equal success. Serve it with a large bowl of rice to spoon the extra cherry sauce over, asparagus spears, and a crisp tossed salad for a complete menu you'll call on again and again.

There's a touch of intrigue in the seasonings of this dish and a decorative color and composition that few main courses can claim. Select a meaty fryer/broiler chicken for this real gourmet dinner that's easy to prepare.

CHERRY CHICKEN

- 1 jar (12 ounce) cherry preserves
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 4—6 whole cloves
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon mace
- ⅓ cup butter, margarine or shortening
- 4 chicken quarters or 1 chicken (3 lb.) cut into quarters, cleaned

Combine preserves, vinegar, cloves, ¼ teaspoon salt, allspice and mace in saucepan; mix well. Keep hot over low heat to blend flavors (about 10 minutes). Heat butter, margarine or shortening in fry pan over low heat; brown chicken quarters on one side. Turn and sprinkle remaining ½ teaspoon salt evenly over chicken. Brown remaining side; cover and cook until almost tender. Drain off fat; pour half cherry sauce over chicken. Cover and finish cooking. Arrange chicken in serving dish and pour rest of sauce over chicken. Yield: 4 servings.

Ham'N Asparagus Au Gratin

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 2 cups corn flakes crushed to 1½ cups
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash of white pepper
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup half and half (milk and cream)
- ½ pound boiled, canned or baked ham, ¼-inch thick, cut into 4 serving portions
- 1 pound asparagus, spears or pieces, cooked and drained

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add onion and cook slowly until onion is soft, not brown. Remove from heat. Stir in corn flakes, ¼ teaspoon salt, and cheese; continue stirring until flakes are evenly coated. Set aside. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Blend in flour, mustard, remaining ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Add milk and half and half; cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Arrange ham and asparagus in 4 shallow individual casseroles; pour sauce over asparagus and top with cereal-cheese mixture. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) until heated, about 12 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

The long thin cigars known as "stogies" got their name because they were designed for the needs of the Conestoga, Pennsylvania, wagon drivers who wanted a large, inexpensive cigar.

Cheese Tops Braised Round Steak

Round steak is one of the most popular main dishes in many homes. Less tender than steaks cut from beef loins or ribs, which can be broiled, round steak is cooked slowly in moist heat to make it very tender.

This method of cooking (braising) offers a chance for enhancing the flavor of the meat through seasonings in the liquid in which it is cooked.

A home economist suggests, as a variation, topping the round steak with parsley and grated cheese during the last few minutes of cooking time.

Steak Fromage

- 1 beef round steak, cut ½ inch thick
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ¾ cup water
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ⅓ cup grated cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cut steak into 8 to 10 pieces. Pound to ¼ inch thickness. Mix together flour, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Dredge steak in seasoned flour. Sprinkle any remaining flour over steak. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water and onion. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Sprinkle cheese and parsley over meat. Cover and simmer 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese is melted. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

Wife Preservers

Berries and cherries are best stored whole, unwashed, unstemmed and uncovered in the refrigerator until ready to use. Previous stemming increases spoilage and decreases food value.

Wife Preservers

If your hosiery wrinkles at knees or ankles, you may be buying stockings that are too long, or leaving garters too long. If necessary, position garter lower on stocking, but never below the welt.

A broken dish can be mended by melting powdered alum in a spoon over a flame, then rubbing it quickly over the broken edges.

A wine stain is best removed by sprinkling with salt, then pouring boiling water through it from a distance of two or three feet.

Basement and attic stairways are the wrong places to save on electricity. Such stairs should not only be kept clear of "parked" objects, but should be well lighted with high-wattage bulbs.

Butter, margarine, fats and oils need protection from light and air as well as from heat. Store them tightly wrapped or covered in the refrigerator, and use within two weeks if possible.

Meat Lends New Flavor

Do you need to resort to coaxing sometimes to get the youngsters to eat a well-balanced meal?

The appetizing flavor of meat, extended to vegetables, is one of the best "persuaders".

Beef-Zucchini Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
- 6 small zucchini squash
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ½ cup cracker crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Wash zucchini and cut off ends. Cook whole zucchini in boiling salted water for about 8 minutes. Drain zucchini and cut into ½-inch slices. Cook onion in lard or drippings about 3 minutes. Add ground beef and cook until very lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Stir in crumbs, salt, pepper and oregano. Remove from heat. Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Add cheese and stir until melted. Place half of zucchini slices in bottom of a greased 2-quart baking dish. Add half of beef mixture, then half of cheese sauce. Repeat layers. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 25 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Sesame English Muffins

- 4 large English muffins
- 3 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds

Split muffins and spread with soft butter; place on a cookie sheet. Sprinkle with toasted sesame. Toast in a hot oven (400°F.) for ten minutes, or until brown. Serve hot.

Yield: 4 servings.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How old does a boy have to be before he can move out of his parents' home? Please answer this in the paper. I am sure there are many boys who would like to know the answer to this question.

—SICK OF THE FAMILY

P. S.: Please don't give me a long-winded lecture on how we should stay at home as long as possible because we are better off at home than we think. Thank you.

DEAR SICK: The age when a boy reaches his majority varies according to the state. Any public library has this information.

I am not going to give you a long-winded lecture, but I'd like to remind you that age is more than just a number, Bub. For example, some fellows at 16 could and should have moved out of their parents' home six months ago. Others, at 20, ought to stay home and grow up before they take on the outside world.

And this may come as a surprise to you, but I'm not unequivocally opposed to young fellows leav ing home. In special cases where there is brutality, or excessive domination, it may be best to shove off. If, however, the big beef is "I don't get enough freedom," it may be wise to take another look and invite an unbiased fourth party to decide just how much freedom is "enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who has been reading your column for two years. This problem may sound ridiculous to you but it worries me and I need help.

There are times when I cry for no reason at all. I know it's natural to cry during a sad moive, or when someone hurts your feelings, but I break into tears over nothing.

I worry a lot about things that most people don't even care about, such as the world coming to an end or the starving kids in other countries, or animals and birds being cold at night.

What can I do about this?

—M. J.

DEAR M. J.: Most people worry more than other people think they do. You just KNOW more about your own worries than anyone else's.

It's natural for a 15-year-old to be somewhat moody and cry now and then, but you seem more weepy than you ought to be. It may be just a phase you're going through, but within a year if the weeping is still triggered by small things, please see a doctor.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll be honest and get right to the point. I'm 46, not bad looking and married to a woman who is about as lively as a dead mackerel.

A career girl lives in the next apartment. She is obviously frustrated and lonesome. We've had a few friendly chats and she confided that she was once in love but her life has been sterile and dull since the man moved away and married someone else.

I see pressures building up in this girl and from what little I've read about such things, she's a normal young woman who needs a natural outlet.

You may not believe this, Ann, but my prime concern is to help this girl avoid a nervous breakdown. It is merely coincidental that I'm lonesome and frustrated, too.

Although this may not be strictly according to the rules, the arrangement makes sense to me. Please cut out the kid stuff and give me some adult advice. We are not teenagers.—ED.

DEAR ED: Now you're what I call a real humanitarian! It's mighty noble of you to step forward and offer to save this normal young woman from a nervous breakdown by providing her with a "natural outlet."

A backdoor affair with a married man old enough to be her father is not my idea of a solution to any young girl's problem.

If you're so interested in humanity why not see what you can do about that "dead mackerel" you're married to?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband like this? We aren't destitute, in fact we're in a fairly good financial bracket. Every few months Harold goes off on an economy kick. Last month he fined every member of the family a nickel whenever they walked out of a room and left a light burning.

This month he said our water bill was $2.50 higher than it was last month, and he is going to put an end to our wastefulness.

He called the family together (girl 16, boy 14, girl 11) and announced he had purchased a black crayon. He is going to draw a heavy circle inside the bathtub. No one in the family will be permitted to run the water over the crayon mark.

The kids look at him as if he were nuts, which I'm beginning to think he is.

What will I tell my friends when they see that black mark around the bathtub?

—MARRIED TO A LUNATIC

DEAR MARRIED: Your husband is a nickel-nursing neurotic. At some point a woman must say, "Enough of this nonsense, Scrooge." Wipe the mark off the bathtub and tell him this time YOU are drawing the line.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 17 years old and I will admit right now that I don't understand women.

I like a girl who is in my home room at school. We've been dating for two years. She wants me to go steady with her but she doesn't want to go steady with me. In case you don't dig this I'll put it in other words: She refuses to turn down a date if a fellow asks her, but she thinks I should not take any other girl out.

When I asked her to explain her reasoning she said it was fair because the boy must ask the girl for a date. A girl can't help it if a boy asks her out — but since the boy does the asking, he CAN help it and she doesn't want me to ask anyone out but her.

Is this logical? When she says it, it sounds good.—RUSTY

DEAR RUSTY: Your girl is playing both ends against the middle. Her logic is not logic at all. It's a convenient twisting of words to suit her own selfish design for living. If you buy this line of chatter, you're semi-conscious, Bud.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HOT-HEADED: Yes, I realize a man must "let off steam," but a woman needs teeth. In my opinion she did the right thing. Get on your knees, Boy, and take the pledge.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed& stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tucker County GOP Is Planning Fall Campaign

Leaders, Candidates At Parsons Session

PARSONS—Tucker County Republicans gathered at the Court House last Friday night to lay plans for the campaign that will culminate in the November election. James W. Michael, county chairman, presided at the meeting which placed particular emphasis on organization.

W. P. (Duke) Simons, chairman of the Republican Second Congressional District Organization, pointed out the necessity of starting early and working hard in order to build an effective county organization at the district and precinct levels. Mr. Simons, who is chairman of the Republican Execlutive Committee in Hampshire County, said his formula for effective political work was contained in the three words—"work and talk."

Cooper P. Benedict of Lewisburg, the Republican candidate for Congress, also spoke challenging the record of both the Kennedy Administration and present congressman. Attacking the heavy expenditures of the New Frontier, he said today's high taxes will never be reduced by the present administration because it is the declared policy of today's "Brain Trust" to control the economy of the country through controlling the expenditure of a major share of the national income.

Benedict pointed out that the 17 counties making up the Second Congressional District gave Nixon a majority in 1960 and went on to say that only the Republican party sincerely offers voters a balanced budget, sound dollar and the constitutional principles of individual freedom and responsibility under which the American people have become the greatest nation in the world.

J. Kenton Lambert of Parsons, Republican candidate for State Senator from this district and James W. Michael, Republican candidate for House of Delegates from Tucker County, also spoke briefly.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How old does a boy have to be before he can move out of his parents' home? Please answer this in the paper. I am sure there are many boys who would like to know the answer to this question.

—SICK OF THE FAMILY

P. S.: Please don't give me a long-winded lecture on how we should stay at home as long as possible because we are better off at home than we think. Thank you.

DEAR SICK: The age when a boy reaches his majority varies according to the state. Any public library has this information.

I am not going to give you a long-winded lecture, but I'd like to remind you that age is more than just a number, Bub. For example, some fellows at 16 could and should have moved out of their parents' home six months ago. Others, at 20, ought to stay home and grow up before they take on the outside world.

And this may come as a surprise to you, but I'm not unequivocally opposed to young fellows leav ing home. In special cases where there is brutality, or excessive domination, it may be best to shove off. If, however, the big beef is "I don't get enough freedom," it may be wise to take another look and invite an unbiased fourth party to decide just how much freedom is "enough."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who has been reading your column for two years. This problem may sound ridiculous to you but it worries me and I need help.

There are times when I cry for no reason at all. I know it's natural to cry during a sad moive, or when someone hurts your feelings, but I break into tears over nothing.

I worry a lot about things that most people don't even care about, such as the world coming to an end or the starving kids in other countries, or animals and birds being cold at night.

What can I do about this?

—M. J.

DEAR M. J.: Most people worry more than other people think they do. You just KNOW more about your own worries than anyone else's.

It's natural for a 15-year-old to be somewhat moody and cry now and then, but you seem more weepy than you ought to be. It may be just a phase you're going through, but within a year if the weeping is still triggered by small things, please see a doctor.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll be honest and get right to the point. I'm 46, not bad looking and married to a woman who is about as lively as a dead mackerel.

A career girl lives in the next apartment. She is obviously frustrated and lonesome. We've had a few friendly chats and she confided that she was once in love but her life has been sterile and dull since the man moved away and married someone else.

I see pressures building up in this girl and from what little I've read about such things, she's a normal young woman who needs a natural outlet.

You may not believe this, Ann, but my prime concern is to help this girl avoid a nervous breakdown. It is merely coincidental that I'm lonesome and frustrated, too.

Although this may not be strictly according to the rules, the arrangement makes sense to me. Please cut out the kid stuff and give me some adult advice. We are not teenagers.—ED.

DEAR ED: Now you're what I call a real humanitarian! It's mighty noble of you to step forward and offer to save this normal young woman from a nervous breakdown by providing her with a "natural outlet."

A backdoor affair with a married man old enough to be her father is not my idea of a solution to any young girl's problem.

If you're so interested in humanity why not see what you can do about that "dead mackerel" you're married to?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband like this? We aren't destitute, in fact we're in a fairly good financial bracket. Every few months Harold goes off on an economy kick. Last month he fined every member of the family a nickel whenever they walked out of a room and left a light burning.

This month he said our water bill was $2.50 higher than it was last month, and he is going to put an end to our wastefulness.

He called the family together (girl 16, boy 14, girl 11) and announced he had purchased a black crayon. He is going to draw a heavy circle inside the bathtub. No one in the family will be permitted to run the water over the crayon mark.

The kids look at him as if he were nuts, which I'm beginning to think he is.

What will I tell my friends when they see that black mark around the bathtub?

—MARRIED TO A LUNATIC

DEAR MARRIED: Your husband is a nickel-nursing neurotic. At some point a woman must say, "Enough of this nonsense, Scrooge." Wipe the mark off the bathtub and tell him this time YOU are drawing the line.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 17 years old and I will admit right now that I don't understand women.

I like a girl who is in my home room at school. We've been dating for two years. She wants me to go steady with her but she doesn't want to go steady with me. In case you don't dig this I'll put it in other words: She refuses to turn down a date if a fellow asks her, but she thinks I should not take any other girl out.

When I asked her to explain her reasoning she said it was fair because the boy must ask the girl for a date. A girl can't help it if a boy asks her out — but since the boy does the asking, he CAN help it and she doesn't want me to ask anyone out but her.

Is this logical? When she says it, it sounds good.—RUSTY

DEAR RUSTY: Your girl is playing both ends against the middle. Her logic is not logic at all. It's a convenient twisting of words to suit her own selfish design for living. If you buy this line of chatter, you're semi-conscious, Bud.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HOT-HEADED: Yes, I realize a man must "let off steam," but a woman needs teeth. In my opinion she did the right thing. Get on your knees, Boy, and take the pledge.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed& stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems: Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tucker County GOP Is Planning Fall Campaign

Leaders, Candidates At Parsons Session

PARSONS—Tucker County Republicans gathered at the Court House last Friday night to lay plans for the campaign that will culminate in the November election. James W. Michael, county chairman, presided at the meeting which placed particular emphasis on organization.

W. P. (Duke) Simons, chairman of the Republican Second Congressional District Organization, pointed out the necessity of starting early and working hard in order to build an effective county organization at the district and precinct levels. Mr. Simons, who is chairman of the Republican Executive Committee in Hampshire County, said his formula for effective political work was contained in the three words—"work and talk."

Cooper P. Benedict of Lewisburg, the Republican candidate for Congress, also spoke challenging the record of both the Kennedy Administration and present congressman. Attacking the heavy expenditures of the New Frontier, he said today's high taxes will never be reduced by the present administration because it is the declared policy of today's "Brain Trust" to control the economy of the country through controlling the expenditure of a major share of the national income.

Benedict pointed out that the 17 counties making up the Second Congressional District gave Nixon a majority in 1960 and went on to say that only the Republican party sincerely offers voters a balanced budget, sound dollar and the constitutional principles of individual freedom and responsibility under which the American people have become the greatest nation in the world.

J. Kenton Lambert of Parsons, Republican candidate for State Senator from this district and James W. Michael, Republican candidate for House of Delegates from Tucker County, also spoke briefly.

Grant Countians Oppose Construction Of Royal Glen Reservoir On Potomac

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Considerable opposition to a recommended plan of watershed development for the Potomac River Basin was voiced at a public meeting Tuesday evening at Petersburg High School Memorial Field House.

The principal opposition came fram residents of the Cabins and Corner area of Grant County, with Cread Sions acting as spokesman for the groups.

Sions, superintendent of Grant County schools, said "we are not in a mood to trade our present recreational assets for something unknown. Nor are we willing to accept a 'pig in a poke,' especially when we could be getting a mudhole for the pig to wallow in."

Referring to a recent statement by U. S. Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, that (Potomac) "water sholuld be dammed up in the mountains of West Virginia," Sions asked "when did we elect Sen. Byrd to represent us?"

Sions continued, "We don't think it is any of his business, and you can place the proper adjective before the word 'business.'"

Pointing out that 100 families would be displaced by the proposed Royal Glen reservoir, Sions said "we urge every civic group in Grant County to join us in our stand." He also claimed the tax loss to Grant County from land that would be flooded will total some 15 to 18 per cent of the existing evaluation

Col. Warren R. Johnson, of the Army Corps of Engineers, said the proposed Royal Glen impoundment would cost an estimated $31,000,000, including a recommended expenditure of $5,000 for recreational development of the area.

The dam would be 318 feet high and constructed of concrete with an earthen dike, and would flood some 2,690 acres. The work would not result in any relocation of railroad lines, but would require relocation of some roads. Under the proposal, the dam will be built in 1964.

The draw-down, water taken from the dam, would be about 40 feet in winter, and an estimated 50 feet in any severe summer drought, the colonel said. By regulating the flow of water in the South Branch of the Potomac, Col. Johnson said water needs of the metropolitan Washington area would be alleviated.

The colonel also stated that the Corps of Engineers estimates the dam would reduce South Branch Valley flood damage by some $311,000 annually, besides guaranteeing a water supply.

In answering Sions' statements, Col. Johnson asked that emotions be kept at a low level in order that the matter be studied clearly and objectively.

He explained that the results of the series of public meetings will be reviewed by the North Atlantic Region of the Corps of Engineers, and by the corps' Rivers and Harbors Board, before again being presented for consideration by the public, the governors of the affected states and federal agencies concerned.

Moorefield Experiences Heavy Storm

$100,000 Damage Caused By Hail

MOOREFIELD — An unprecedented hail storm struck Moorefield Thursday about noon and caused an estimated $100,000 damage to residences and buildings. The town had been battered the previous night by another hail storm but the damage was less severe.

The sudden onslaught of hailstones as large as golf balls was accompanied by twisting winds coming in from the southwest. Damage was much greater than originally estimated when the townspeople had a chance to examine roofs which were badly battered. Greatest single loss was at the main plant of the Raygold Manufacturing Company where an estimated 20,000 square feet of roof had to be replaced. Scarcely a home in the town escaped broken windows. Over a third of the neon signs were broken as the hailstone missiles smashed the fragile tubes in the signs.

Many residents thought they had escaped damage because window panes were not broken but later found the screens were riddled with holes. The stones fell with such force that windows were not shattered but suffered clean holes through the panes.

Most of the damage occurred on the southern and western side of the houses but in many cases the twisting winds pelted all four sides of structures.

All the insurance companies represented in Moorefield have had teams of adjusters inspecting damages and settling claims. All supplies of glass and roofing materials were quickly exhausted due to the immediate demand. The Hotel McNeill lost 28 window panes. The force of the stones in many cases was sufficient to go through screens, window panes and the blinds inside. Automobiles, miraculously, suffered little damage.

Grant Countians Oppose Construction Of Royal Glen Reservoir On Potomac

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Considerable opposition to a recommended plan of watershed development for the Potomac River Basin was voiced at a public meeting Tuesday evening at Petersburg High School Memorial Field House.

The principal opposition came fram residents of the Cabins and Corner area of Grant County, with Cread Sions acting as spokesman for the groups.

Sions, superintendent of Grant County schools, said "we are not in a mood to trade our present recreational assets for something unknown. Nor are we willing to accept a 'pig in a poke,' especially when we could be getting a mudhole for the pig to wallow in."

Referring to a recent statement by U. S. Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, that (Potomac) "water sholuld be dammed up in the mountains of West Virginia," Sions asked "when did we elect Sen. Byrd to represent us?"

Sions continued, "We don't think it is any of his business, and you can place the proper adjective before the word 'business.'"

Pointing out that 100 families would be displaced by the proposed Royal Glen reservoir, Sions said "we urge every civic group in Grant County to join us in our stand." He also claimed the tax loss to Grant County from land that would be flooded will total some 15 to 18 per cent of the existing evaluation

Col. Warren R. Johnson, of the Army Corps of Engineers, said the proposed Royal Glen impoundment would cost an estimated $31,000,000, including a recommended expenditure of $5,000 for recreational development of the area.

The dam would be 318 feet high and constructed of concrete with an earthen dike, and would flood some 2,690 acres. The work would not result in any relocation of railroad lines, but would require relocation of some roads. Under the proposal, the dam will be built in 1964.

The draw-down, water taken from the dam, would be about 40 feet in winter, and an estimated 50 feet in any severe summer drought, the colonel said. By regulating the flow of water in the South Branch of the Potomac, Col. Johnson said water needs of the metropolitan Washington area would be alleviated.

The colonel also stated that the Corps of Engineers estimates the dam would reduce South Branch Valley flood damage by some $311,000 annually, besides guaranteeing a water supply.

In answering Sions' statements, Col. Johnson asked that emotions be kept at a low level in order that the matter be studied clearly and objectively.

He explained that the results of the series of public meetings will be reviewed by the North Atlantic Region of the Corps of Engineers, and by the corps' Rivers and Harbors Board, before again being presented for consideration by the public, the governors of the affected states and federal agencies concerned.

Moorefield Experiences Heavy Storm

$100,000 Damage Caused By Hail

MOOREFIELD — An unprecedented hail storm struck Moorefield Thursday about noon and caused an estimated $100,000 damage to residences and buildings. The town had been battered the previous night by another hail storm but the damage was less severe.

The sudden onslaught of hailstones as large as golf balls was accompanied by twisting winds coming in from the southwest. Damage was much greater than originally estimated when the townspeople had a chance to examine roofs which were badly battered. Greatest single loss was at the main plant of the Raygold Manufacturing Company where an estimated 20,000 square feet of roof had to be replaced. Scarcely a home in the town escaped broken windows. Over a third of the neon signs were broken as the hailstone missiles smashed the fragile tubes in the signs.

Many residents thought they had escaped damage because window panes were not broken but later found the screens were riddled with holes. The stones fell with such force that windows were not shattered but suffered clean holes through the panes.

Most of the damage occurred on the southern and western side of the houses but in many cases the twisting winds pelted all four sides of structures.

All the insurance companies represented in Moorefield have had teams of adjusters inspecting damages and settling claims. All supplies of glass and roofing materials were quickly exhausted due to the immediate demand. The Hotel McNeill lost 28 window panes. The force of the stones in many cases was sufficient to go through screens, window panes and the blinds inside. Automobiles, miraculously, suffered little damage.

Indians Edge Orioles, 4-3

Bell's Relief Work Saves Cleveland

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Gary Bell's clutch relief pitching gave Cleveland a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night and moved the first-place Indians a full game ahead of the idle New York Yankees.

Bell came on in relief of winner Jim Grant with the bases filled and two out in the eighth inning. He got Dave Nicholson to pop a foul to catcher Johnny Romano and then set down the Orioles in the ninth.

Cleveland, trailing, 3-0, scored all its runs in the sixth inning off starter Robin Roberts, who was charged with his first American League loss. Roberts, who permitted three singles over the opening five innings, was partially the victim of shoddy support and ill luck.

Grant led off the sixth with a grounder which Brooks Robinson threw wildly past first for an error. Ty Cline singled Grant to second. Then Al Luplow hit what appeared to be a tailor-made double play grounder toward first baseman Jim Gentile.

The ball struck the bag and went into right field for a run-scoring double. Tito Francona then tripled off Roberts to score Cline and Luplow. Chuck Essegian drove in Francona with the winning run on a sacrifice fly.

Bruce Trips Mt. Savage, 4-1, In Playoff; Meets LaSalle Today

Raines Hurls One-Hitter To Beat Indians

Explorers To Host Bulldogs At 3 P. M. At Stitcher Field

Donnie Raines set Mt. Savage down with one hit — a seventh-inning single by Bobby Robertson — as Bruce High's Bulldogs defeated the Indians, 4-1, in the playoff for the runner-up spot in the Western Division of the County Baseball League yesterday at Lonaconing.

Bruce thus earned the right to meet the Eastern Division champion LaSalle Explorers in the semi-finals of the title playoffs today at 3 p.m. at Stitcher field. The victor of today's battle will meet Beall, winner over Fort Hill Wednesday, 2-1, for the championship of the league.

Raines To Hurl Again

Raines is expected to toe the rubber again today for Bruce against the Explorers who will pitch either lefty Johnny Sloan or Tommy Stitcher. LaSalle defeated Bruce, 14-1, in the only meeting between the two clubs during the regular campaign.

Raines had a no-hitter until Robertson opened the seventh inning with a sharp single up the middle for Mt. Savage. Robertson stole second and came home moments later when Raines threw wildly past first base on Bridges' grounder to the mound.

The hard-throwing Bruce right-hander struck out eight and walked four as he went the distance for Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bulldogs to pick up his fifth win of the year.

Bruce open the scoring in the first, tallying one run on singles by Melvin Whitfield and Raines coupled with a passed ball.

Guthrie Hits Double

The Bulldogs added two more in the second when Mike Warnick singled to open the frame and scored on an error. Kermit Clem was safe on the miscue and a walk to Eddie Delilo and Jim Morris' one-base knock scored the second run of the inning.

The Bulldogs closed out the scoring in the fifth when Jim Guthrie doubled home Morris who had walked.

Ralp Wilson was the loser for Mt. Savage, allowing only five hits, walking six and striking out four.

Yesterday's playoff was the result of Bruce and Mt. Savage dividing their home-and-home series in the regular season. Bruce lost the first game, 9-3, but came back to win the second, 7-2.

Tuesday, Beall's division-winning Mountaineers gained the finals of the league playoffs by nipping Fort Hill in eight innings.

Ritchie Wins Game

Rance Ritchie's third single of the game scored Jim Wilson with the winning run to eliminate the Sentinels after the two teams battled through the regulation seven innings tied 1-1.

Jim Diehl atoned for an earlier loss to Fort Hill by allowing only three hits including doubles by Harold Hardinger and Gary Elliott. He struck out six as he decisioned Bill Rawnsley, Fort Hill ace who allowed 10 hits in going the route for the Sentinels. The lineups:

Ward And Crew To Get $125,000 In 500 Victory

Rodger Sets Record Clip Of 140.293 MPH

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Rodger Ward, only the sixth driver to win the 500-mile auto race twice, Thursday night becomes the Speedway's all time money winning champion.

Ward and his crew, from the Bob Wilke racing team of Milwaukee, Wis., were expected to share in about $125,000 from a total purse of around $425,000 at the annual victory banquet.

Both would be records. A. J. Foyt collected $117,975 for winning last year's grind, when the total puse came to $400,000.

Sets Record Time

Ward, also winner in 1959, won Wednesday's holiday classic at a record clip of 140.293 miles per hour—the first time the winner averaged better than 140 m.p.h.

It was a fitting climax to the Speedway's month-long racing period that included the first official 150 m.p.h. lap in qualifications by pole-sitter Parnelli Jones. Final official statistics released by the U.S. Auto Club showed there were five leaders during the 200-lap chase and that Ward and Jones each led twice before the 41-year-old victor had it for keeps.

The other leaders were Foyt and Roger McCluskey, who both spun out, and Len Sutton. Ward's teammate who finished second.

Final statistics also showed that Jones, the leader most of the race who had to settle for seventh place because his brakes went out set a record for the fastest lap ever run during the race. The California comet who shared rookie of the year honors at the Speedway last year was clocked at 148.295 m.p.h. on his 56th lap. The old mark of 147.589 was set by Troy Ruttman last year on his 91st lap.

To Keep On Racing

Ward said he will keep on racing "as long as I feel I can maintain the pace and have a chance at winning." He said Wednesday's victory was an even greater thrill than in 1959.

Mauch Released From Hospital

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI)—Philadelphia Phillies manager Gene Mauch was released from Rio Hondo Hospital Thursday after treatment for a bronchial condition and left to join the team at Philadelphia.

Mauch's physician had described the ailment as the aftermath of an influenza attack last month. In Mauch's absence, coach Harry (Peanuts) Lowery had been directing the Phillies.

Southern High Wins PVC Baseball Title

Southern High School of Oakland won the baseball championship of the Potomac Valley Conference on Memorial Day by defeating Bayard High School at Oakland by the score of 3-1.

Jim Finch was the winning pitcher and Rippey the loser. Each hurler yielded six hits.

Wayne Bosley of Bayard was the game's leading hitter with a triple and single.

Phils Snap Giants' Win Streak, 2-1

Mahaffey Wins 5th Game Of Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' seven-game winning streak was ended Thursday night as the Philadelphia Phillies' Art Mahaffey beat the National League leaders 2-1.

At the same time, the Phillies ended a seven-game losing streak.

Mahaffey, in registering his fifth triumph in 11 decisions, overpowered the free-swinging Giants with a blazing fast ball and near-perfect control until the ninth inning, when the losers scored on Orlando Cepeda's triple and Felepe Alou's single.

The Phillies settled the issue in the first inning to make a loser out of southpaw Billy O'Dell. Tony Taylor led off with a double and scored on John Callison's double. Then Tony Gonzalez beat out an infield single and Callison scored when Orlando Cepeda's wide toss got away from O'Dell for an error.

Brewer Paces Memphis Open

Posts 6-Under-Par First Round Of 64

MEMPHIS (AP) — The golden touch of Arnold Palmer slipped a bit Thursday, dropping him well back in the hungry pack that trailed Gay Brewer Jr., in the opening round of the $40,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Brewer snatched the lead with a 32-32—64 over the 6,501-yard par 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course, rolling up six birdies, one on an 80-foot chip shot that holed out.

Favored Palmer, bidding for his fourth straight tournament victory, couldn't control his putter. He came up with two three-putt greens and one nightmare that cost him four putts. He used 36 in all.

The threatening threesome of Gary Player, Billy Maxwell and Don January lurked a stroke behind Brewer. Each fired a 32-33—65.

Olivo Saves Win For Bob Friend

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Diomedes Olivo, 42-year-old rookie southpaw, struck out Bill White in the ninth inning Thursday night with two men on to preserve Bob Friend's fifth victory and give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 triumph and a four-game sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was played under protest.

Friend, breaking a five-game personal losing streak, helped his cause with a two-run single and appeared safe until the Cards went to bat the last time.

Charley James led off by beating out a hit to second base. Fred Whitfield hit a pinch single, James moving to third. Roy Face relieved Friend and pinchhitter Red Schoendienst grounded into a double play, James scoring.

Curt Flood walked and Gene Oliver hit a pinch single, Flood going to third. The ancient Olivo was called in and struck out White to give the Pirates their fifth straight victory. It was the Pirates' eighth victory in their last nine games and the reverse for the Cards.

Pittsburgh extended its domination as it beat St. Louis in all of its six meetings this season.

The protest developed in the third after White walked and advanced to third on Stan Musial's single. Ken Boyer lifted a high fly which Don Hoak caught but the Pirate third baseman fell after bumping into White who was standing on the bag.

The ball rolled away from Hoak but third base umpire Tony Venzon ruled the batter was out because of interference by White.

Indians Edge Orioles, 4-3

Bell's Relief Work Saves Cleveland

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Gary Bell's clutch relief pitching gave Cleveland a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night and moved the first-place Indians a full game ahead of the idle New York Yankees.

Bell came on in relief of winner Jim Grant with the bases filled and two out in the eighth inning. He got Dave Nicholson to pop a foul to catcher Johnny Romano and then set down the Orioles in the ninth.

Cleveland, trailing, 3-0, scored all its runs in the sixth inning off starter Robin Roberts, who was charged with his first American League loss. Roberts, who permitted three singles over the opening five innings, was partially the victim of shoddy support and ill luck.

Grant led off the sixth with a grounder which Brooks Robinson threw wildly past first for an error. Ty Cline singled Grant to second. Then Al Luplow hit what appeared to be a tailor-made double play grounder toward first baseman Jim Gentile.

The ball struck the bag and went into right field for a run-scoring double. Tito Francona then tripled off Roberts to score Cline and Luplow. Chuck Essegian drove in Francona with the winning run on a sacrifice fly.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Lacrosse star Buddy Beardmore and distance runner Guy Harper received the two top athletic awards from the University of Maryland Thursday night.

Beardmore won the Silvester watch for excellence in athletics given in honor of a former president of the university, R. W. Silvester, for typifying the best in college athletics.

Beardmore was the highest scoring midfielder in Maryland's history, scoring 75 goals and contributing 33 assists in three years. He will make his final athletic appearance for Maryland June 9 at Rutgers in the North-South all star game. He is from Severna Park.

Harper received the Maryland ring, given in memory of Charles L. Linhardt, to the Maryland man adjudged the best athlete of the year. Harper is from Baltimore.

Harper ran a 4:09.6 mile in the 1962 IC4A championships and was one of the leading scorers on the Maryland track team in dual meets. He ran the 800, mile, two mile or on the relay team.

Fans Will Pay $10 To $100 At Chicago Fight

57,000 Seats Will Be Reserved; Park Rental Is $40,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Floyd Patterson will fight Sonny Liston Tuesday, Sept. 25, before boxing fans who will pay from $10 to $100 to watch their heavyweight title bout in Comiskey Park.

Those major details were settled Thursday, and they were approved quickly by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

The announcement was made by Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc., which has the two boxers under contract, and Irving Schoenwald, Chicagoan who is acting as promoter of the match.

Ticket Top Is $100

They told newsmen:

Tickets will be priced at $100, $50, $30, $20 and $10, and all the 57,000 seats will be sold on a reserved basis.

The net gate receipts will be split up this way: Patterson 45 per cent, Liston 12½ and Championship Sports 42½.

Ancillary revenues — From the closed circuit telecast and other sources will be earmarked this way: Patterson 55 per cent, Liston 12½ and Championship Sports 32½.

Liston has been guaranteed a minimum of $200,000—an amount that Bolan termed "the most any challenger ever has been guaranteed."

Bolan predicted the over-all income will exceed $5 million.

He said his organization is asking bids for the rights to handle the closed circuit telecast to theaters and arenas across the country.

Radios To Carry Fight

Bolan also said the fight will be carried by radio, but he does not know whether the Chicago area will be included:

"I feel the fight will dwarf all other fights in history from a financial standpoint and from a performance standpoint," he stated.

Joe Triner, chairman of the commission, announced that the referee and other officials will be rom Illinois.

Bolan said the promoters will pay a flat $40,000 rental for Comiskey Park, the home of the Chicago White Sox.

He reported there are 46,500 permanent seats in the park, and 10,500 temporary seats will be added.

Bruce Trips Mt. Savage, 4-1, In Playoff; Meets LaSalle Today

Explorers To Host Bulldogs At 3 P. M. At Stitcher Field

Donnie Raines set Mt. Savage down with one hit — a seventh-inning single by Bobby Robertson — as Bruce High's Bulldogs defeated the Indians, 4-1, in the playoff for the runner-up spot in the Western Division of the County Baseball League yesterday at Lonaconing.

Bruce thus earned the right to meet the Eastern Division champion LaSalle Explorers in the semi-finals of the title playoffs today at 3 p.m. at Stitcher field. The victor of today's battle will meet Beall, winner over Fort Hill Wednesday, 2-1, for the championship of the league.

Raines To Hurl Again

Raines is expected to toe the rubber again today for Bruce against the Explorers who will pitch either lefty Johnny Sloan or Tommy Stitcher. LaSalle defeated Bruce, 14-1, in the only meeting between the two clubs during the regular campaign.

Raines had a no-hitter until Robertson opened the seventh inning with a sharp single up the middle for Mt. Savage. Robertson stole second and came home moments later when Raines threw wildly past first base on Bridges' grounder to the mound.

The hard-throwing Bruce right-hander struck out eight and walked four as he went the distance for Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bulldogs to pick up his fifth win of the year.

Bruce open the scoring in the first, tallying one run on singles by Melvin Whitfield and Raines coupled with a passed ball.

Guthrie Hits Double

The Bulldogs added two more in the second when Mike Warnick singled to open the frame and scored on an error. Kermit Clem was safe on the miscue and a walk to Eddie Delilo and Jim Morris' one-base knock scored the second run of the inning.

The Bulldogs closed out the scoring in the fifth when Jim Guthrie doubled home Morris who had walked.

Ralp Wilson was the loser for Mt. Savage, allowing only five hits, walking six and striking out four.

Yesterday's playoff was the result of Bruce and Mt. Savage dividing their home-and-home series in the regular season. Bruce lost the first game, 9-3, but came back to win the second, 7-2.

Tuesday, Beall's division-winning Mountaineers gained the finals of the league playoffs by nipping Fort Hill in eight innings.

Ritchie Wins Game

Rance Ritchie's third single of the game scored Jim Wilson with the winning run to eliminate the Sentinels after the two teams battled through the regulation seven innings tied 1-1.

Jim Diehl atoned for an earlier loss to Fort Hill by allowing only three hits including doubles by Harold Hardinger and Gary Elliott. He struck out six as he decisioned Bill Rawnsley, Fort Hill ace who allowed 10 hits in going the route for the Sentinels. The lineups:

Ward And Crew To Get $125,000 In 500 Victory

Rodger Sets Record Clip Of 140.293 MPH

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Rodger Ward, only the sixth driver to win the 500-mile auto race twice, Thursday night becomes the Speedway's all time money winning champion.

Ward and his crew, from the Bob Wilke racing team of Milwaukee, Wis., were expected to share in about $125,000 from a total purse of around $425,000 at the annual victory banquet.

Both would be records. A. J. Foyt collected $117,975 for winning last year's grind, when the total puse came to $400,000.

Sets Record Time

Ward, also winner in 1959, won Wednesday's holiday classic at a record clip of 140.293 miles per hour—the first time the winner averaged better than 140 m.p.h.

It was a fitting climax to the Speedway's month-long racing period that included the first official 150 m.p.h. lap in qualifications by pole-sitter Parnelli Jones. Final official statistics released by the U.S. Auto Club showed there were five leaders during the 200-lap chase and that Ward and Jones each led twice before the 41-year-old victor had it for keeps.

The other leaders were Foyt and Roger McCluskey, who both spun out, and Len Sutton. Ward's teammate who finished second.

Final statistics also showed that Jones, the leader most of the race who had to settle for seventh place because his brakes went out set a record for the fastest lap ever run during the race. The California comet who shared rookie of the year honors at the Speedway last year was clocked at 148.295 m.p.h. on his 56th lap. The old mark of 147.589 was set by Troy Ruttman last year on his 91st lap.

To Keep On Racing

Ward said he will keep on racing "as long as I feel I can maintain the pace and have a chance at winning." He said Wednesday's victory was an even greater thrill than in 1959.

Mauch Released From Hospital

Mauch's physician had described the ailment as the aftermath of an influenza attack last month. In Mauch's absence, coach Harry (Peanuts) Lowery had been directing the Phillies.

Southern High Wins PVC Baseball Title

Southern High School of Oakland won the baseball championship of the Potomac Valley Conference on Memorial Day by defeating Bayard High School at Oakland by the score of 3-1.

Jim Finch was the winning pitcher and Rippey the loser. Each hurler yielded six hits.

Wayne Bosley of Bayard was the game's leading hitter with a triple and single.

Phils Snap Giants' Win Streak, 2-1

Mahaffey Wins 5th Game Of Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' seven-game winning streak was ended Thursday night as the Philadelphia Phillies' Art Mahaffey beat the National League leaders 2-1.

At the same time, the Phillies ended a seven-game losing streak.

Mahaffey, in registering his fifth triumph in 11 decisions, overpowered the free-swinging Giants with a blazing fast ball and near-perfect control until the ninth inning, when the losers scored on Orlando Cepeda's triple and Felepe Alou's single.

The Phillies settled the issue in the first inning to make a loser out of southpaw Billy O'Dell. Tony Taylor led off with a double and scored on John Callison's double. Then Tony Gonzalez beat out an infield single and Callison scored when Orlando Cepeda's wide toss got away from O'Dell for an error.

Brewer Paces Memphis Open

Posts 6-Under-Par First Round Of 64

MEMPHIS (AP) — The golden touch of Arnold Palmer slipped a bit Thursday, dropping him well back in the hungry pack that trailed Gay Brewer Jr., in the opening round of the $40,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament.

Brewer snatched the lead with a 32-32—64 over the 6,501-yard par 34-36—70 Colonial Country Club course, rolling up six birdies, one on an 80-foot chip shot that holed out.

Favored Palmer, bidding for his fourth straight tournament victory, couldn't control his putter. He came up with two three-putt greens and one nightmare that cost him four putts. He used 36 in all.

The threatening threesome of Gary Player, Billy Maxwell and Don January lurked a stroke behind Brewer. Each fired a 32-33—65.

Olivo Saves Win For Bob Friend

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Diomedes Olivo, 42-year-old rookie southpaw, struck out Bill White in the ninth inning Thursday night with two men on to preserve Bob Friend's fifth victory and give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 triumph and a four-game sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was played under protest.

Friend, breaking a five-game personal losing streak, helped his cause with a two-run single and appeared safe until the Cards went to bat the last time.

Charley James led off by beating out a hit to second base. Fred Whitfield hit a pinch single, James moving to third. Roy Face relieved Friend and pinchhitter Red Schoendienst grounded into a double play, James scoring.

Curt Flood walked and Gene Oliver hit a pinch single, Flood going to third. The ancient Olivo was called in and struck out White to give the Pirates their fifth straight victory. It was the Pirates' eighth victory in their last nine games and the reverse for the Cards.

Pittsburgh extended its domination as it beat St. Louis in all of its six meetings this season.

The protest developed in the third after White walked and advanced to third on Stan Musial's single. Ken Boyer lifted a high fly which Don Hoak caught but the Pirate third baseman fell after bumping into White who was standing on the bag.

The ball rolled away from Hoak but third base umpire Tony Venzon ruled the batter was out because of interference by White.

Market Continues Climb Despite Some Cashing-In

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks scored another strapping gain on more violant trading Thursday, closing at or near their highs of the day after working through a thick patch of afternoon resistance.

The market barreled ahead on heavy "block" trading in the early hours, lost half its gain around midday, churned restlessly until the last hour, and then moved forward again to the best levels of the day in many issues.

The afternoon resistance was laid to quick traders cashing in profits on stocks bought when the market started to rally at Tuesday noon. Some selling also represented a feeling among still bearish investors that they had an opportunity to get out of weaker issues at more favorable prices.

Even though Treasury Secretary Dillon put the damper of Commerce Secretary Hodges' call for a tax cut this year and Rep. Patman called for another investigation of the stock market, buyers grabbed the play again in the final minutes sending prices ahead.

As one leading analyst put it, "no statement from Washington could hurt the market since the public has taken the bit firmly in its teeth."

With the exchange reporting the tickers 99 minutes late at the close the last transaction actually appeared on the tape at 5:25 p.m., EDT. Volume for the session was 10,710,000 shares against 14,750,000 on Tuesday — the second highest in stock exchange history.

At the finish Dow - Jones industrials were ahead 9.40 to 613.36, rails were up 4.66 to 129.19 and utilities up 3.81 to 113.54. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 1.55 to 59.63 indicating a further $8.1 billion recovery in paper values.

A total of 1,357 issues were traded against 1,399, the all-time high, on Tuesday. Advances outnumbered declines 1,071 to 190 and new 1962 highs were set by six issues while 28 fell to new lows.

Mathias Tops Martinsburg, 3-2, Earns Parkersburg State Berth

Steve Taylor's Homer In 7th Decides Game

Makowski Bags 16th Win Over Two Years; Tom Bartock Victim

Shortstop Steve Taylor, first up in the bottom of the 7th inning, slammed a home run to right field to break a 2-2 tie and gave Mathias High School, of Hardy county, a 3-2 victory over the Martinsburg High School Bulldogs yesterday at Shepherdstown, in the finals of the West Virginia Region 4 high school baseball playoffs.

Bartock Is Victim

Taylor's big blow came off Tom Bartock, ace of the Martinsburg pitching staff and qualified Coach Hoy Dove's Mathias tossers for the West Virginia state championship tournament which will be staged at Parkersburg, June 6, 7 and 8.

A year ago, Martinsburg beat Mathias in the Region 4 final, 4-3, and Taylor blasted a home run for the losers in that game.

Mathias drew first blood in yesterday's game by scoring in the first inning. Lowell Hoover singled, advanced to third base on Ron Whetzel's sacrifice and came home on Dick DeLawder's squeeze play bunt.

The Bulldogs knotted the count in the fifth when Corbin singled, Shaffer and Watson walked and Corbin scored on Dockney's fielder's choice.

Mathias took a 2-1 lead in the fifth when Jim Fogle drew a pass, went to second on Albert Makowski's sacrifice and went home when Corbin, Martinsburg first sacker, threw wildly past third base in an effort to nab Fogle.

Martinsburg tied it up at 2-2 in the 6th, setting the stage for Taylor's winning blast in the succeeding frame.

Makowski Wins 16th

The victory was the sixth in a row for Mathias and their tenth in 12 starts this season. Al Makowski, the Mathias "Iron Man" who has pitched all of the games played by the Hardy countians also owns a 10-2 record. He and Bartock turned in 4-hit performances. Makowski fanned eight and gave up four passes and recorded his 16th victory against three losses over two seasons. Last year he posted a 6-1 mark. Bartock struck out two and issued one pass.

Martinsburg had won nine and lost two prior to yesterday's contest. The Bulldogs of Coach Roy Comer had eliminated Charles Town, 14-4, in the Region 4 semi-final round. Mathias advanced to the finals by downing Paw Paw, 3-1.

Mathias drew the winner of Region One as its opponent in the state tournament at Parkersburg, Wednesday, June 6, at 7 p.m.

LAST BOUT BROUGHT DOWN THE HOUSE—The nation's oldest fight club, St. Nicholas Arena in New York, has seen its last bout for the structure will be torn down to make room for an office building. The final bout was staged here May 28 and only 1,777 fans turned out. The building was constructed in 1896 and many of the famed fighters of yesterday and today saw action here.

Houston Rally In 9th Beats Chicago, 10-6

Pendleton's Homer Sparks Colts Win

CHICAGO (AP) Carl Warwick's two-run single and Jim Pendleton's three-run homer sparked a Houston come-from-behind rally in the ninth inning Thursday to give the Colts a 10-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Houston trailed by five runs at one time in the game.

The triumph gave Houston a sweep of the two-game series as well as a 6-1 record against the Cubs.

Pinch batter Merritt Ranew triggered the rally with a leadoff single off loser Don Elston, third of four Chicago pitchers. Al Spangler, another pinch batter, walked and Roman Mejias sacrificed.

After Norm Larker was purposely passed to fill the bases, Warwick singled off Barney Schultz, scoring Ranew and Spangler.

Pendleton then hit his fifth homer and scored behind Larker and Warwick.

Purkey Notches Ninth Victory

Cincinnati Ace Beats Braves, 7-4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cincinnati right-hander Bob Purkey became the major leagues' first nine-game winner Thursday in downing the Milwaukee Braves 7-4 with the help of Frank Robinson's booming bat.

Purkey, beaten only once, fired a seven-hitter, struck out five and walked two as the third-place Reds posted their 20th triumph in their last 25 starts.

Robinson, apparently out of a prolonged early-season slump drove in four runs with a double and his fifth homer.

The National League's most valuable player a year ago, Robinson batted in one run in the second with his 19th double in 44 games. He unloaded his homer with two mates aboard in the seventh against Milwaukee starter Carl Willey, now 0-3.

Wood, Bruton Bat In Nine Tallies

DETROIT (AP) — Jake Wood and Billy Bruton accounted for nine runs Thursday with an extra-base bombardment as the Detroit Tigers routed the Chicago White Sox 13-5 in what started as a pitchers' duel.

Wood whacked a three-run homer and a two-run double for five runs batted in. Bruton also had a three-run homer plus two doubles and a single, driving in four runs, as the Tigers picked up their 10th victory in 12 games.

The heavy attack came after neither club could get ahead in the first three innings off winner Paul Foytack and loser Dom Zanni. But neither starter was around at the end of the slugfest featured by 19 hits, 10 for extra bases.

After failing to hit the ball out of the infield in the first three innings, the Tigers bunched all 13 runs into the next four.

Foytack, lightly regarded in the Tigers' pre-season plans, pitched the first 6 2-3 innings and earned his fourth victory in five decisions.

He left after allowing a two-run homer to Bob Farley in the sixth and a two-run triple to Bob Sadowski in the seventh. Ronnie Kline went the rest of the way, yielding one run in the ninth.

The Black Hawks said they also paid the Canadiens an undisclosed sum of money in the deal.

Fans Will Pay $10 To $100 At Chicago Fight

57,000 Seats Will Be Reserved; Park Rental Is $40,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Floyd Patterson will fight Sonny Liston Tuesday, Sept. 25, before boxing fans who will pay from $10 to $100 to watch their heavyweight title bout in Comiskey Park.

Those major details were settled Thursday, and they were approved quickly by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

The announcement was made by Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc., which has the two boxers under contract, and Irving Schoenwald, Chicagoan who is acting as promoter of the match.

Ticket Top Is $100

They told newsmen:

Tickets will be priced at $100, $50, $30, $20 and $10, and all the 57,000 seats will be sold on a reserved basis.

The net gate receipts will be split up this way: Patterson 45 per cent, Liston 12½ and Championship Sports 42½.

Ancillary revenues — From the closed circuit telecast and other sources will be earmarked this way: Patterson 55 per cent, Liston 12½ and Championship Sports 32½.

Liston has been guaranteed a minimum of $200,000—an amount that Bolan termed "the most any challenger ever has been guaranteed."

Bolan predicted the over-all income will exceed $5 million.

He said his organization is asking bids for the rights to handle the closed circuit telecast to theaters and arenas across the country.

Radios To Carry Fight

Bolan also said the fight will be carried by radio, but he does not know whether the Chicago area will be included:

"I feel the fight will dwarf all other fights in history from a financial standpoint and from a performance standpoint," he stated.

Joe Triner, chairman of the commission, announced that the referee and other officials will be rom Illinois.

Bolan said the promoters will pay a flat $40,000 rental for Comiskey Park, the home of the Chicago White Sox.

He reported there are 46,500 permanent seats in the park, and 10,500 temporary seats will be added.

Johnson Departs For Scholz Bout

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Light heavy weight champion Harold Johnson left Philadelphia Thursday for Germany where he will fight Gustav (Bubi) Scholz of Germany on June 23.

Johnson was accompanied by his wife, trainer Skinny Davison, business representative George Gainford, sparring partner Tommy Merrill and Fred Sommers.

Training quarters will be set up at the Berlin Deutschland Hotel. The program calls for fair weather training on the hotel terrace, and indoor training in the hotel during inclement weather.

DeMerit Retires From Baseball

De Merit made his decision to quit following his sale last week from the New York Mets of the National League to Syracuse of the International League, the newspaper said.

Assembly OKs Apportionment

Deadlock Broken; Tawes Wins

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature gave metropolitan areas 19 more seats in the House of Delegates Thursday night in response to a court order requiring reappartionment.

The action was completed only 38 minutes away from a constitutional deadline for enactment of the statute. It will replace temporarily a section of the State Constitution held invalid by a Circuit Court.

The Senate accepted the stopgap plan by a vote of 16-13, one more than necessary, after it had cleared the House of Delegates 69-51, seven more votes than necessary.

A more permanent reapportionment plan, which would take away some of the seats small counties now hold, is to be drafted at the 1963 session of the legislature and submitted to voters as a constitutional amendment taking effect in 1966.

Tawes Sends Message

The legislature had deadlocked on the issue earlier Thursday after Gov. Tawes sent a strongly worded message blasting amendments the Senate had tacked on the bill to protect the interests of small counties.

The House heeded the governor's plea and rejected the amendments. The Senate refused to back down, and a conference committee was named to work out differences.

The committee came up with the identical stopgap reapportionment plan the Tawes Administration had submitted when the special session began last Friday, and which had been watered down in both houses.

Tawes, who comes from one of the smallest counties on the Eastern Shore, accused the small-county legislators of having "emasculated" his proposal. He had also submitted a constitutional amendment for more permanent reapportionment, but agreed it did not have to pass at this session.

First To Act

Maryland is believed to be the first state to take action reapportioning its legislature since the Supreme Court decision of March 26 holding that the courts have a rightt o determine such matters.

Tawes promptly sent the General Assembly a message commending its passage of the stopgap legislation.

He said it was regrettable but understandable why the constitutional amendment also could not have been passed.

"You were laboring under a severe handicap in time," Tawes said. "I know it is difficult to find a solution to a problem as complex as this in a short period of five days."

If the action had not been completed by midnight, the attorney general said he would go back to court to see if it wanted to order more voting strength for the big counties on a fractional vote basis. This had been suggested as a possibility by the Maryland Court of Appeals if the legislature failed to act.

A regular bill cannot take effect in Maryland after June 1, and jobs cannot be created in emergency legislation which could have been passed after that date.

19 New Seats

The 19 new House seats will go to four big suburban counties around Baltimore and Washington, D. C. and to two of the six legislative districts in Baltimore City.

It will increase the voting strength of these areas in the House of Delegates from a present 49 per cent to 55 per cent. The areas have 76 per cent of the state's population.

Dismissal Of Apportionment Suit Is Asked

Finan Questions Grounds For Appeal

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state asked Maryland's highest court Thursday to dismiss an appeal by a citizens' group asking that present apportionment of the State Senate be declared unconstitutional.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan, in a motion filed with the Court of Appeals, said the appeal was not placed correctly before the high court because Judge O. Bowie Duckett had not given an opinion on the matter in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Judge Duckett ruled last week that the present makeup of the House was unconstitutional. The General Assembly is currently meeting in special session to enact a reapportionment bill affecting House seats only.

The judge, though indicating he thought Senate apportionment is constitutional, said he would make no final determination on the senate at this time. He said he would render an opinion in the future if it were necessary.

The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation appealed the decision. It said it wanted a final determination on its contention that the State Senate is malapportioned.

The committee asked that appellate court hold a hearing on the question as soon as possible.

The state's motion said "the order appealed from is not a final order and, therefore, is interlocutory and not appealable to this honorable court. . ."

The Court of Appeals is currently in recess. It is expected to return next week.

Message From The Governor

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Here is the text of Gov. Tawes' message to the General Assembly Thursday on reapportionment:

I have viewed the events of the past few days with mounting alarm and saddening of heart. The people of Maryland, I know, are concerned about what has been done here at this special session.

On May 24, the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel County ruled that the Maryland House of Delegates was malapportioned and that Section 5 of Article III of the Maryland Constitution, which established that apportionment, was null and void. The effect of the court's decision should have been obvious. A constitutional void was created, and a clear responsibility for prompt action fell upon both the executive and the legislative branches of our state government.

I, as chief executive of this state, moved as quickly as possible. I called the General Assembly into extraordinary session and laid before its members two bills designed to reapportion fairly the House of Delegates.

These bills have been emasculated by amendments. As amended, they bear little resemblance to this administration's proposals and they should not be enacted in their present form.

The hour is late, but there is still time for the General Assembly to meet its responsibilities.

I want to make my position unequivocally clear. House Bills 1 and 2 as amended should not be enacted.

The alternatives now available to the General Assembly are three:

1. Enact fair and equitable reapportionment bills along the lines of the bills I submitted:

2. Enact the stop gap bill without crippling amendments and allow the General Assembly that meets next January to enact a proper constitutional amendment;

3. Fail to act and abdicate its responsibilities.

I expect and pray that every member of the General Assembly will measure up to his responsibility.

Pioneer Health Worker Ends Active Career

Dowling, Shockley Honored At Dinner

J. Byron Dowling, senior sanitarian for the Allegany County Health Department, retired yesterday after a quarter of a century of public health service in Western Maryland.

With W. Harvey Shockley, who retired recently from the Sanitation Department, he was honored at a retirement dinner given by the Allegany County Health Social Group last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant for the department, served as toastmistress as city and county officials paid tribute to the work of the veteran sanitarians.

Mr. Dowling — "Barney" to thousands of his friends and associates in this area — is completing a public health career which spans 16 administrations of the City of Cumberland and five county administrations.

"Barney" was appointed sanitary inspector for the City of Cumberland in March 1938 by the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon, who was also president of the Board of Health, and was assigned the task of instituting a safety milk program for the city.

Sanitarian Since 1941

In 1941, the position of sanitarian for the State Department of Health was established and Mr. Dowling was appointed to the post with the understanding that he be allowed to remain here and work with the city and county.

Under his direction, Mayor J. Edwin Keech noted at the meeting, the grading of restaurants was organized, along with standards for periodic inspection of eating and drinking establishments — an innovation in the State of Maryland.

He has had a prominent part in the improvement of the Cumberland water supply in accordance with federal standards, the construction of the city sewage treatment plant, the installation of water and sewerage systems for many hundreds of homes throughout the county, the control of stream pollution and the organization of a survey of city schools for sanitary environment and the formation of school cafeterias here.

He is a lifelong resident of Cumberland.

Served With Engineers

Following service with the Corps of Engineers, he returned to Cumberland in 1938, when he took the post with the City Health Department.

He furthered his professional career by participation in sanitary engineering courses offered by state and federal health agencies.

Active in Masonic work, he is a Master Mason and a 32nd Degree Mason.

Edamura Speaks, To Two Clubs

A representative of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, noting that diplomatic relations between his country and the United States date back to 1860, looked forward to a second century of good relations featuring an era of better understanding and closer cooperation between the two lands.

Sumio Edamura, third secretary for cultural affairs in the Japanese Embassy, addressed a joint meeting at Central YMCA yesterday of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs. Paul W. Barnett, Kiwanis vice-president, who introduced him, noted that this has been designated as "Pray For World Peace Week." He thought it was significant to have a representative from a former enemy of this nation as speaker on such an occasion.

Mr. Edamura stressed that despite the misfortunes of World War II today there are no fundamental differences between the two countries which share a love for democracy and freedom.

Since World War II, thousands of American servicemen have been stationed in Japan. Many business men and tourists have visited Japan and there is quite a cultural exchange between the two lands. He cited the bringing of Japanese architecture to this country as a significant exchange. Col. John Glenn was equipped with a Japanese-made camera on his orbital flight around the world.

Frankly, the speaker noted that differences of opinion are bound to take place between friends such as the United States and Japan but he cautioned that neither nation should take the other for granted.

Mr. Edamura observed that Japan voluntarily reduced its export of textiles to the United States. In 1956, 70 per cent of the textiles imported in the United States but only 25 per cent come from Japan today.

Japan is the United States second best customer. Only Canada buys more from the United States. The trade balance favors this country. Some $1.7 billion in goods from this country go to Japan while only about $1 billion annually come from Japan to the United States.

Discuss Summer Study Plans

State Teachers Expansion Funds Okayed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A $26,700,000 expansion plan for five state teachers colleges was approved Thursday by the State Board of Education.

Towson State Teachers would receive the largest amount under the program some $10 million which would cover expansion from 1964-1968.

Frostburg ranked next in expenditures. It was authorized more than $8 million because of a plan to increase the number of majors offered, expanding the graduate program and establishing an off-campus center in Montgomery County.

School board officials said the off - campus center would be staffed with faculty members from Frostburg and trained personnel from various government agencies.

Majors which will be added to the Frostburg curriculum next fall include economics, German, philosophy, political science, psychology, Russian, sociology, speech and drama.

In addition to Towson and Frostburg, the board approved expansion funds of $2.8 million each for Bowie, Coppin and Salisbury.

Teacher To Attend Math Institute

Robert T. Thomas, 415 Cumberland Street, a math instructor at Bruce High School, will participate in a summer institute in mathematics beginning June 18 at Ohio State University.

The institute is one of five sponsored at Ohio State this summer by the National Science Foundation. Participants will take work aimed at strengthening their background in mathematics.

Mr. Thomas also is president of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

Two Allegany Juniors Named For Summer Study

Two Allegany High School juniors have been singled out for summer study this year on college campuses, according to Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County.

They are John Eyler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Eyler, 15 Lindaway, Coverwood, and Charles E. Kolb Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kolb, Eleanor Street, LaVale.

John is one of 50 students selected to attend a summer institute for high-ability secondary school students at Ohio State University in Columbus. Charles is one of 40 who will attend an institute for high school students at West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon.

The National Science Foundation is supporting both of these summer institutes for outstanding students.

One objective of the OSU institute is to provide a source of motivation, interest and appreciation for basic and applied research by offering an opportunity for academically - talented who have demonstrated excellence in high school mathematics and science programs to observe and do work on research projects in an academic atmosphere that has a realistic concept of both the engineer and scientist in research. It also is aimed at strengthening each student's background in mathematics and the physical sciences by offering instruction in certain selected topics from each of these areas.

At West Virginia Wesleyan the criteria used in selecting the students are: (1) outstanding scholastic ability which has been proved by performance, (2) an interest in and an aptitude for science which has been demonstrated in course work and extracurricular activities.

John, who has been elected president of the 1963 senior class at Allegany, is the oldest of four children of Dr. and Mrs. Eyler. Only last week his father, who has been manager of the Operations Division of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, was promoted to the position of assistant manager of the Hercules Powder Company plant at Hopewell, Va. John is hopeful of making arrangements to complete his high school studies at Allegany. He has been enrolled here since the begining of the eighth grade.

Charles, the younger of two children, was born in Cumberland but lived away from here for a time. However, he has been studying in Allegany County schools since the fifth grade. His father also is an ABL employe.

The Ohio State institute in a nine-week affair running from June 18 through August 17. The one at West Virginia Wesleyan will last for five weeks, from July 30 through August 31.

The Kolb boys is interested in majoring in physics when he enters college on a full-time basis but is uncertain as to where he would like to study. Young Eyler, who may major in chemistry or physics, also is uncertain about his choice of college.

Cost for the two institutes is moderate because of the National Science Foundation subsidy. The cost for nine weeks at Ohio State will be only $67.50 and for five weeks at Wesleyan only $28.

Gets Dwelling Permit

George E. Robinette, 510 Oak Street, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to build a one-story dwelling at 1311 Kentucky Avenue. It will be about 49 by 25 feet and of brick veneer construction.

Window Is Broken After Wheel Flies Off City Back Hoe

A window in a South Cumberland store was broken yesterday morning after a wheel flew off a Water Department back hoe being driven south on Virginia Avenue.

The accident happened about 10 a.m. as the equipment operated by Junior O. Wilson, 38, of 55 Blackiston Avenue, was being driven to a job at the rear of the sewage treatment plant.

In a report filed at Police Headquarters, Mr. Wilson said the accident occurred after a spindle broke as the back hoe was passing the Kline Furniture Company store and that the wheel broke a large window and damaged a kitchen set in the store.

Record Crowd Turns Up For Pool Opening

Attendance at the Constitution Park swimming pool set a record on Memorial Day, according to C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

He said 813 persons, including 331 adults and 482 children, paid admissions to the pool, and that the attendance was the highest since 1957, when pool records began. The next highest attendance was in 1959, when 771 persons used the pool on Memorial Day.

The pool, which has been put in top condition, opened at noon on Memorial Day, and some 50 children were standing in line at 11:15 p. m.

Charles Smith, a Fort Hill High School instructor, has been named manager of the pool, and John Morris has been appointed head lifeguard. Both are beginning their third year on the staff.

The pool will be open Saturday from noon until 9 p. m. and on Sunday from 1 to 9 p. m .

YMCA To Sponsor Trip Tomorrow

Central YMCA will begin its series of nine summer trips for youngsters tomorrow with a visit to Fort Necessity at McKeesport, Pa.

Benjamin F. Haines, program director, said boys and girls interested to taking the trip should contact him today at Central YMCA.

A chartered bus will leave the YMCA tomorrow at 8 a. m. The nine summer trips are open to members, and non-members must pay a special fee.

The youths also visit a McKeesport dairy and will finish the day with a swim in the McKeesport YMCA pool.

The youths were arrested by Detective Kenneth Morrisey and will be given a hearing Friday, June 8 by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

ABL Blast Case Is Settled For $15,000

Judge Cobey Signs Necessary Order

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey has signed an order in Allegany County Circuit Court authorizing the widow of one of the nine victims of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory's explosion of a year ago to agree to a $15,000 settlement of her case against the Hercules Powder Company.

Joyce Brings Evick, now of Baltimore, administratrix of the estate of Michael Robert Evick, filed a suit against the Hercules Powder Company here this week. Actually, five different legal papers were filed together in the settlement of the case.

Included in the filing were the declaration, plea, petition to authorize the $15,000 settlement, a release to Hercules Powder Company and the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, holder of its liability insurance policy and Judge Cobey's court order.

Michael R. Evick, who was killed in the May 22, 1961, blast, was a 24-year-old resident of 10 McKenzie Road, LaVale, at the time of his death. His wife had given birth to a daughter only two days earlier.

The petition filed for Mrs. Evick by her attorney, Hugh A. McMullen, noted that under West Virginia law, which governed this case, it was necessary to get Judge Cobey's authorization for acceptance of the settlement. Mrs. Evick explained that she believed it was in the best interest of herself and daughter to accept the $15,000 settlement.

Defense attorneys in the case were William C. Walsh and William Walsh.

ABL Expansion Will Not Add To Work Force

The Navy reported yesterday that its impending purchase of additional land near its Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will not result in any increase in the plant's work force.

A spokesman for the Navy's special products division said the additional 1,200 acres was needed mainly for greater dispersal of magazines housing a new, more powerful rocket propellant.

The Senate and House appropriations committee have approved a Navy request for permission to use $120,000 out of available defense department funds for the purchase. The Senate Armed Services committee also received a Navy request to authorize the purchase. It will be granted automatically June 15, unless it is contested.

The Navy spokesman said the only plant facilities involved in the expansion would be construction of a building for offices now housed in trailers.

He said that primarily the land was needed to accommodate construction of the magazines where the completed motors are to be stored with their fuel.

He said that in addition to increasing the number of magazines, the Navy wanted to spread them farther apart for safety purposes.

The spokesman said this was necessary because the laboratory would be experimenting with a new "higher impulse" fuel capable of giving the rocket more thrust.

He said that if the experimental rocket motors should become operational, it is likely that they would be produced at another facility.

Market Continues Climb Despite Some Cashing-In

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks scored another strapping gain on more violant trading Thursday, closing at or near their highs of the day after working through a thick patch of afternoon resistance.

The market barreled ahead on heavy "block" trading in the early hours, lost half its gain around midday, churned restlessly until the last half hour, and then moved forward again to the best levels of the day in many issues.

The afternoon resistance was laid to quick traders cashing in profits on stocks bought when the market started to rally at Tuesday noon. Some selling also represented a feeling among still bearish investors that they had an opportunity to get out of weaker issues at more favorable prices.

Even though Treasury Secretary Dillon put the damper of Commerce Secretary Hodges' call for a tax cut this year and Rep. Patman called for another investigation of the stock market, buyers grabbed the play again in the final minutes sending prices ahead.

As one leading analyst put it, "no statement from Washington could hurt the market since the public has taken the bit firmly in its teeth."

With the exchange reporting the tickers 99 minutes late at the close the last transaction actually appeared on the tape at 5:25 p.m., EDT. Volume for the session was 10,710,000 shares against 14,750,000 on Tuesday — the second highest in stock exchange history.

At the finish Dow - Jones industrials were ahead 9.40 to 613.36, rails were up 4.66 to 129.19 and utilities up 3.81 to 113.54. The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 1.55 to 59.63 indicating a further $8.1 billion recovery in paper values.

A total of 1,357 issues were traded against 1,399, the all-time high, on Tuesday. Advances outnumbered declines 1,071 to 190 and new 1962 highs were set by six issues while 28 fell to new lows.

Assembly OKs Apportionment

Deadlock Broken; Tawes Wins

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Legislature gave metropolitan areas 19 more seats in the House of Delegates Thursday night in response to a court order requiring reappartionment.

The action was completed only 38 minutes away from a constitutional deadline for enactment of the statute. It will replace temporarily a section of the State Constitution held invalid by a Circuit Court.

The Senate accepted the stopgap plan by a vote of 16-13, one more than necessary, after it had cleared the House of Delegates 69-51, seven more votes than necessary.

A more permanent reapportionment plan, which would take away some of the seats small counties now hold, is to be drafted at the 1963 session of the legislature and submitted to voters as a constitutional amendment taking effect in 1966.

Tawes Sends Message

The legislature had deadlocked on the issue earlier Thursday after Gov. Tawes sent a strongly worded message blasting amendments the Senate had tacked on the bill to protect the interests of small counties.

The House heeded the governor's plea and rejected the amendments. The Senate refused to back down, and a conference committee was named to work out differences.

The committee came up with the identical stopgap reapportionment plan the Tawes Administration had submitted when the special session began last Friday, and which had been watered down in both houses.

Tawes, who comes from one of the smallest counties on the Eastern Shore, accused the small-county legislators of having "emasculated" his proposal. He had also submitted a constitutional amendment for more permanent reapportionment, but agreed it did not have to pass at this session.

First To Act

Maryland is believed to be the first state to take action reapportioning its legislature since the Supreme Court decision of March 26 holding that the courts have a rightt o determine such matters.

Tawes promptly sent the General Assembly a message commending its passage of the stopgap legislation.

He said it was regrettable but understandable why the constitutional amendment also could not have been passed.

"You were laboring under a severe handicap in time," Tawes said. "I know it is difficult to find a solution to a problem as complex as this in a short period of five days."

If the action had not been completed by midnight, the attorney general said he would go back to court to see if it wanted to order more voting strength for the big counties on a fractional vote basis. This had been suggested as a possibility by the Maryland Court of Appeals if the legislature failed to act.

A regular bill cannot take effect in Maryland after June 1, and jobs cannot be created in emergency legislation which could have been passed after that date.

19 New Seats

The 19 new House seats will go to four big suburban counties around Baltimore and Washington, D. C. and to two of the six legislative districts in Baltimore City.

It will increase the voting strength of these areas in the House of Delegates from a present 49 per cent to 55 per cent. The areas have 76 per cent of the state's population.

Dismissal Of Apportionment Suit Is Asked

Finan Questions Grounds For Appeal

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state asked Maryland's highest court Thursday to dismiss an appeal by a citizens' group asking that present apportionment of the State Senate be declared unconstitutional.

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan, in a motion filed with the Court of Appeals, said the appeal was not placed correctly before the high court because Judge O. Bowie Duckett had not given an opinion on the matter in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Judge Duckett ruled last week that the present makeup of the House was unconstitutional. The General Assembly is currently meeting in special session to enact a reapportionment bill affecting House seats only.

The judge, though indicating he thought Senate apportionment is constitutional, said he would make no final determination on the senate at this time. He said he would render an opinion in the future if it were necessary.

The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation appealed the decision. It said it wanted a final determination on its contention that the State Senate is malapportioned.

The committee asked that appellate court hold a hearing on the question as soon as possible.

The state's motion said "the order appealed from is not a final order and, therefore, is interlocutory and not appealable to this honorable court. . ."

The Court of Appeals is currently in recess. It is expected to return next week.

Message From The Governor

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Here is the text of Gov. Tawes' message to the General Assembly Thursday on reapportionment:

I have viewed the events of the past few days with mounting alarm and saddening of heart. The people of Maryland, I know, are concerned about what has been done here at this special session.

On May 24, the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel County ruled that the Maryland House of Delegates was malapportioned and that Section 5 of Article III of the Maryland Constitution, which established that apportionment, was null and void. The effect of the court's decision should have been obvious. A constitutional void was created, and a clear responsibility for prompt action fell upon both the executive and the legislative branches of our state government.

I, as chief executive of this state, moved as quickly as possible. I called the General Assembly into extraordinary session and laid before its members two bills designed to reapportion fairly the House of Delegates.

These bills have been emasculated by amendments. As amended, they bear little resemblance to this administration's proposals and they should not be enacted in their present form.

The hour is late, but there is still time for the General Assembly to meet its responsibilities.

I want to make my position unequivocally clear. House Bills 1 and 2 as amended should not be enacted.

The alternatives now available to the General Assembly are three:

1. Enact fair and equitable reapportionment bills along the lines of the bills I submitted;

2. Enact the stop gap bill without crippling amendments and allow the General Assembly that meets next January to enact a proper constitutional amendment;

3. Fail to act and abdicate its responsibilities.

I expect and pray that every member of the General Assembly will measure up to his responsibility.

Pioneer Health Worker Ends Active Career

Dowling, Shockley Honored At Dinner

J. Byron Dowling, senior sanitarian for the Allegany County Health Department, retired yesterday after a quarter of a century of public health service in Western Maryland.

With W. Harvey Shockley, who retired recently from the Sanitation Department, he was honored at a retirement dinner given by the Allegany County Health Social Group last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant for the department, served as toastmistress as city and county officials paid tribute to the work of the veteran sanitarians.

Mr. Dowling — "Barney" to thousands of his friends and associates in this area — is completing a public health career which spans 16 administrations of the City of Cumberland and five county administrations.

"Barney" was appointed sanitary inspector for the City of Cumberland in March 1938 by the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon, who was also president of the Board of Health, and was assigned the task of instituting a safety milk program for the city.

Sanitarian Since 1941

In 1941, the position of sanitarian for the State Department of Health was established and Mr. Dowling was appointed to the post with the understanding that he be allowed to remain here and work with the city and county.

Under his direction, Mayor J. Edwin Keech noted at the meeting, the grading of restaurants was organized, along with standards for periodic inspection of eating and drinking establishments — an innovation in the State of Maryland.

He has had a prominent part in the improvement of the Cumberland water supply in accordance with federal standards, the construction of the city sewage treatment plant, the installation of water and sewerage systems for many hundreds of homes throughout the county, the control of stream pollution and the organization of a survey of city schools for sanitary environment and the formation of school cafeterias here.

He is a lifelong resident of Cumberland.

Served With Engineers

Following service with the Corps of Engineers, he returned to Cumberland in 1938, when he took the post with the City Health Department.

He furthered his professional career by participation in sanitary engineering courses offered by state and federal health agencies.

Active in Masonic work, he is a Master Mason and a 32nd Degree Mason.

U.S.-Japanese Ties Are Cited By Diplomat

Edamura Speaks, To Two Clubs

A representative of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, noting that diplomatic relations between his country and the United States date back to 1860, looked forward to a second century of good relations featuring an era of better understanding and closer cooperation between the two lands.

Sumio Edamura, third secretary for cultural affairs in the Japanese Embassy, addressed a joint meeting at Central YMCA yesterday of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs. Paul W. Barnett, Kiwanis vice-president, who introduced him, noted that this has been designated as "Pray For World Peace Week." He thought it was significant to have a representative from a former enemy of this nation as speaker on such an occasion.

Mr. Edamura stressed that despite the misfortunes of World War II today there are no fundamental differences between the two countries which share a love for democracy and freedom.

Since World War II, thousands of American servicemen have been stationed in Japan. Many business men and tourists have visited Japan and there is quite a cultural exchange between the two lands. He cited the bringing of Japanese architecture to this country as a significant exchange. Col. John Glenn was equipped with a Japanese-made camera on his orbital flight around the world.

Frankly, the speaker noted that differences of opinion are bound to take place between friends such as the United States and Japan but he cautioned that neither nation should take the other for granted.

Mr. Edamura observed that Japan voluntarily reduced its export of textiles to the United States. In 1956, 70 per cent of the textiles imported in the United States but only 25 per cent come from Japan today.

Japan is the United States second best customer. Only Canada buys more from the United States. The trade balance favors this country. Some $1.7 billion in goods from this country go to Japan while only about $1 billion annually come from Japan to the United States.

Discuss Summer Study Plans

State Teachers Expansion Funds Okayed

BALTIMORE (AP)—A $26,700,000 expansion plan for five state teachers colleges was approved Thursday by the State Board of Education.

Towson State Teachers would receive the largest amount under the program some $10 million which would cover expansion from 1964-1968.

Frostburg ranked next in expenditures. It was authorized more than $8 million because of a plan to increase the number of majors offered, expanding the graduate program and establishing an off-campus center in Montgomery County.

School board officials said the off - campus center would be staffed with faculty members from Frostburg and trained personnel from various government agencies.

Majors which will be added to the Frostburg curriculum next fall include economics, German, philosophy, political science, psychology, Russian, sociology, speech and drama.

In addition to Towson and Frostburg, the board approved expansion funds of $2.8 million each for Bowie, Coppin and Salisbury.

Teacher To Attend Math Institute

Robert T. Thomas, 415 Cumberland Street, a math instructor at Bruce High School, will participate in a summer institute in mathematics beginning June 18 at Ohio State University.

The institute is one of five sponsored at Ohio State this summer by the National Science Foundation. Participants will take work aimed at strengthening their background in mathematics.

Mr. Thomas also is president of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

Two Allegany Juniors Named For Summer Study

Two Allegany High School juniors have been singled out for summer study this year on college campuses, according to Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County.

They are John Eyler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Eyler, 15 Lindaway, Coverwood, and Charles E. Kolb Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kolb, Eleanor Street, LaVale.

John is one of 50 students selected to attend a summer institute for high-ability secondary school students at Ohio State University in Columbus. Charles is one of 40 who will attend an institute for high school students at West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon.

The National Science Foundation is supporting both of these summer institutes for outstanding students.

One objective of the OSU institute is to provide a source of motivation, interest and appreciation for basic and applied research by offering an opportunity for academically - talented who have demonstrated excellence in high school mathematics and science programs to observe and do work on research projects in an academic atmosphere that has a realistic concept of both the engineer and scientist in research. It also is aimed at strengthening each student's background in mathematics and the physical sciences by offering instruction in certain selected topics from each of these areas.

At West Virginia Wesleyan the criteria used in selecting the students are: (1) outstanding scholastic ability which has been proved by performance, (2) an interest in and an aptitude for science which has been demonstrated in course work and extracurricular activities.

Both boys were highly recommended for the institutes by Eugene C. Harris, chemistry teacher at Allegany.

John, who has been elected president of the 1963 senior class at Allegany, is the oldest of four children of Dr. and Mrs. Eyler. Only last week his father, who has been manager of the Operations Division of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, was promoted to the position of assistant manager of the Hercules Powder Company plant at Hopewell, Va. John is hopeful of making arrangements to complete his high school studies at Allegany. He has been enrolled here since the begining of the eighth grade.

Charles, the younger of two children, was born in Cumberland but lived away from here for a time. However, he has been studying in Allegany County schools since the fifth grade. His father also is an ABL employe.

The Ohio State institute in a nine-week affair running from June 18 through August 17. The one at West Virginia Wesleyan will last for five weeks, from July 30 through August 31.

The Kolb boys is interested in majoring in physics when he enters college on a full-time basis but is uncertain as to where he would like to study. Young Eyler, who may major in chemistry or physics, also is uncertain about his choice of college.

Cost for the two institutes is moderate because of the National Science Foundation subsidy. The cost for nine weeks at Ohio State will be only $67.50 and for five weeks at Wesleyan only $28.

Gets Dwelling Permit

George E. Robinette, 510 Oak Street, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to build a one-story dwelling at 1311 Kentucky Avenue. It will be about 49 by 25 feet and of brick veneer construction.

Window Is Broken After Wheel Flies Off City Back Hoe

A window in a South Cumberland store was broken yesterday morning after a wheel flew off a Water Department back hoe being driven south on Virginia Avenue.

The accident happened about 10 a.m. as the equipment operated by Junior O. Wilson, 38, of 55 Blackiston Avenue, was being driven to a job at the rear of the sewage treatment plant.

In a report filed at Police Headquarters, Mr. Wilson said the accident occurred after a spindle broke as the back hoe was passing the Kline Furniture Company store and that the wheel broke a large window and damaged a kitchen set in the store.

Record Crowd Turns Up For Pool Opening

Attendance at the Constitution Park swimming pool set a record on Memorial Day, according to C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

He said 813 persons, including 331 adults and 482 children, paid admissions to the pool, and that the attendance was the highest since 1957, when pool records began. The next highest attendance was in 1959, when 771 persons used the pool on Memorial Day.

The pool, which has been put in top condition, opened at noon on Memorial Day, and some 50 children were standing in line at 11:15 p. m.

Charles Smith, a Fort Hill High School instructor, has been named manager of the pool, and John Morris has been appointed head lifeguard. Both are beginning their third year on the staff.

The pool will be open Saturday from noon until 9 p. m. and on Sunday from 1 to 9 p. m .

YMCA To Sponsor Trip Tomorrow

Central YMCA will begin its series of nine summer trips for youngsters tomorrow with a visit to Fort Necessity at McKeesport, Pa.

Benjamin F. Haines, program director, said boys and girls interested to taking the trip should contact him today at Central YMCA.

A chartered bus will leave the YMCA tomorrow at 8 a. m. The nine summer trips are open to members, and non-members must pay a special fee.

Youths Face Hearing In Theft Of Beer

Judge Cobey Signs Necessary Order

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey has signed an order in Allegany County Circuit Court authorizing the widow of one of the nine victims of Allegany Ballistics Laboratory's explosion of a year ago to agree to a $15,000 settlement of her case against the Hercules Powder Company.

Joyce Brings Evick, now of Baltimore, administratrix of the estate of Michael Robert Evick, filed a suit against the Hercules Powder Company here this week. Actually, five different legal papers were filed together in the settlement of the case.

Included in the filing were the declaration, plea, petition to authorize the $15,000 settlement, a release to Hercules Powder Company and the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, holder of its liability insurance policy and Judge Cobey's court order.

Michael R. Evick, who was killed in the May 22, 1961, blast, was a 24-year-old resident of 10 McKenzie Road, LaVale, at the time of his death. His wife had given birth to a daughter only two days earlier.

The petition filed for Mrs. Evick by her attorney, Hugh A. McMullen, noted that under West Virginia law, which governed this case, it was necessary to get Judge Cobey's authorization for acceptance of the settlement. Mrs. Evick explained that she believed it was in the best interest of herself and daughter to accept the $15,000 settlement.

Defense attorneys in the case were William C. Walsh and William Walsh.

ABL Expansion Will Not Add To Work Force

The Navy reported yesterday that its impending purchase of additional land near its Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will not result in any increase in the plant's work force.

A spokesman for the Navy's special products division said the additional 1,200 acres was needed mainly for greater dispersal of magazines housing a new, more powerful rocket propellant.

The Senate and House appropriations committee have approved a Navy request for permission to use $120,000 out of available defense department funds for the purchase. The Senate Armed Services committee also received a Navy request to authorize the purchase. It will be granted automatically June 15, unless it is contested.

The Navy spokesman said the only plant facilities involved in the expansion would be construction of a building for offices now housed in trailers.

He said that primarily the land was needed to accommodate construction of the magazines where the completed motors are to be stored with their fuel.

He said that in addition to increasing the number of magazines, the Navy wanted to spread them farther apart for safety purposes.

The spokesman said this was necessary because the laboratory would be experimenting with a new "higher impulse" fuel capable of giving the rocket more thrust.

He said that if the experimental rocket motors should become operational, it is likely that they would be produced at another facility.
